FRANCE, ITALY MASS FORCES IN NORTH AFRICA

Europe Tense; Nazis Also Move Troops.

LONDON, May 20.—(AP)—European powers shuttled warships and troops in imposing numbers in the vital Mediterranean area tonight while diplomats bickered over the Spanish civil war.

France and Italy, unable to come to terms in negotiations for a friendship treaty because each backs a different side in Spain, prepared for almost simultaneous maneuvers in their bordering North Africa colonies of Tunisia and Libya.

Diplomats were frankly worried over the rapidly developing tense situation. Great Britain hoped the French-Italian difficulty would be ironed out at a meeting of a subcommittee of the international "hands off Spain" group called for next Thursday.

Italian King Leaves for Libya.

Significant developments of the day included:

1. King Victor Emmanuel of Italy left Sicily for Libya to watch army maneuvers near the border of Tunisia. Two divisions of Italian troops have been massed near the frontier. The maneuvers will include mass air transportation of troops, in which planes will drop two battalions of soldiers behind imaginary enemy lines.

2. Seven French cruisers and eighteen destroyers anchored off Bizerta, naval base of Tunisia, for combined maneuvers with the air forces.

3. Four German warships—the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer and the torpedo boats Iltis, Wolf, and Tiger—will stop at Gibraltar tomorrow on what officials called a routine call.

4. Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Germany, called at the Nazi foreign office to inquire into reports of large German troop movements toward the frontiers. It was reported Sir Nevile was assured the movements were only a part of routine training—the transfer of troops from town barracks to country camps.

Seen as Threat to Czechs.

This development came at a time when Germany's designs toward Czechoslovakia rank with the Spanish problem among Europe's great worries.

With Premier Mussolini apparently ignoring French and British overtures for him to come to terms with Spain, a Fascist "day of solidarity with Nationalist [rebel] Spain" was ordered for May 29 throughout Italy and its empire.

Lord Plymouth, chairman of the twenty-seven nation nonintervention committee, nevertheless called his nine nation subcommittee for a session next Thursday in an effort to hurry the end of the Spanish civil war.

Britain hoped by calling the subcommitte to hasten arrangements by which France would close the Pyrenees frontier, shutting off supplies for the loyalists, while nonintervention commissions arranged for withdrawal of foreign fighters from Spain.

Hopes to Save Own Pact.

By so doing it expected to save its own paper partnership with Italy and rebuild the broken structure of the Italian-French friendship negotiations.

Many British believe Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel commander, faces the prospect of many more months of war unless he should get new foreign help or should manage to shut off the Spanish government's supplies from outside.

And if Mussolini should send more guns and planes and men to Spain, they say, Britain's friendship agreement with Italy would be a worthless and humiliating piece of paper.

The Anglo-Italian pact for settlement of Mediterranean, African and Spanish issues between the two countries represents Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's only concrete step toward his goal of European appeasement. But critics, who kept busy in the house of commons right up to the week-end recess, asserted Mussolini already had violated the spirit of the pact.

Blame Hitler for Deadlock.

Informed sources said they believed the deadlock in Italian-French friendship negotiations resulted from German influence in the Italian-German working agreement.

Some said they believed Germany

Labor Chief Assails Spending Spree.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., May 20.—[Special.]—Recovery cannot be bought by government spending, but must come through sincere coöperation between labor and industry, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared in a speech at the federation's first annual trade and label exposition here tonight.

Green attacked government spending as an artificial means of increasing purchasing power. He also assailed the C. I. O. for fostering class hatred, asserting that labor and industry should not approach mutual problems in a spirit of class consciousness, but in a spirit of democracy.

Hits Federal Paternalism.

Ideal coöperation between labor and industry existed under the Blue Eagle of the NRA, he said, but this relationship was destroyed by government paternalism. When the government resorted to force and compulsion the principle of voluntarism was destroyed and the Blue Eagle died, he asserted.

"Looking back on those days," said the labor leader, "we find that the nation learned important lessons from the meteoric career of the Blue Eagle. We learned that labor and industry can work together for their mutual interests and the benefit of the whole country. And we learned such coöperation must be attained not by the dictates of government but by friendly collective bargaining between organized labor and employers.

Points to Army of Jobless.

"Now is the time when these lessons should be applied. Again, we are faced by critical industrial conditions. More than eleven million men and women who are willing to work cannot find jobs in private industry. Again the government is preparing to spend billions to relieve their distress.

"How long can we go on this way? Everywhere and all the time people are asking: Where will the money come from? From what source will it be supplied?

"The simple truth is that we cannot go on fighting emergency conditions with government spending forever. We must find a solution for our unemployment problem. Government spending is an artificial means of increasing the purchasing power. What is the natural way?

Advocates Higher Wages.

"It is our conviction—a conclusion based on simple logic—that higher wages, shorter hours, and an end to sweatshop conditions will put money into the pockets of the great masses of our people, money they will be eager to spend for the products of American industry.

"The natural way to reduce unemployment is to provide work for the unemployed in private industry. The natural way to increase purchasing power is to raise American standards of working and living conditions."

In his assault on the C. I. O. Green asserted that labor organizations must be governed by democratic policies, rules, and procedure. He condemned sitdown strikes and other illegal and high handed procedures and urged peace in American industry.

HOW MANY MORE VICTORIES CAN THEY STAND?

A Pain Spreads to Skidmore's Wallet Pocket

In less time than it takes to tell it, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday forfeited the $2,500 bond of Edward J. Ladwig, a fugitive election official. And in even briefer space the judge chalked up this amount against William R. [Uncle Billy] Skidmore, because he had signed Mr. Ladwig's bond.

As a legal transaction it was brief enough, certainly, but it brought out beyond question that the boys of the 42d ward have hearts of gold and will go the limit for a friend, especially if he is a bondsman like Uncle Billy Skidmore.

A Trifling Thing in 1934.

The cause of it all was a trifling irregularity in the 40th precinct of the 42d ward in the Nov. 6 election of 1934. A few months later Mr. Ladwig, Joseph Michelotti, and John Garbarino were sentenced to serve a year in jail. When they appealed, Uncle Billy put up the bonds.

The Appellate court and later the Supreme court upheld their convictions and election board agents began looking for the three to remind them that the Bridewell was waiting. It developed, however, that Mr. Garbarino had died on hearing the bad news and the other two had gone away to forget it.

Uncle Billy Skidmore was among the first to hear of this. And it caused him great pain—the kind of pain that usually spreads to the pocket.

Chagrin and Humiliation.

The 42d ward boys were chagrined and humiliated to think that Michelotti and Ladwig would do Uncle Billy that way. In fact, they told John Ryan, investigator for the election board, that if they knew where the two were hiding they would certainly tell.

The weeks passed and Uncle Billy's pain persisted. Finally, on the night of Oct. 8, 1937, the boys called up Ryan and asked him to stand outside the county jail at midnight and they would have a nice surprise for him. He did so.

On the stroke of twelve two cars drove up and several of the 42d ward boys stepped out with Mr. Michelotti. They said it had been a long drive to St. Louis. But they wished Michelotti luck and said they'd be thinking of him. He thanked them and walked into the jail, rubbing what appeared to be a couple of sore places.

Additional Vigils Fail.

Ryan asked when he could stand outside the jail again. The boys said soon, they hoped, and drove away. That was seven months ago, and though Ryan has stood out a couple of times for luck, the boys have not come. They did send Ryan to St. Louis once, and he got there just as Mr. Ladwig's coattails were disappearing toward Nebraska. And Nebraska is a big place.

The boys insisted that every week was Hunt Ladwig week, but the state's attorney grew impatient yesterday and the pain spread to Uncle Billy's pocketbook, just as he feared it would. The boys felt even worse about it, but added cheerfully that the count is two to one in favor of Uncle Billy and that is a good showing in any Chicago ward.

ADOLF WILL NEVER GO BACK TO GERMANY; HIS LAST NAME IS—

BASEL, Switzerland, May 20.—(AP)—A young German who escaped recently from a concentration camp sought a new home in Switzerland today, all because his name is Adolf Fuehrer.

The refugee, who formerly was general manager of a Catholic organization in Cologne, Germany, said that each time he told a Nazi officer his name he was threatened with punishment for mocking Germany's Fuehrer, Adolf Hitler.

After spending weeks in three camps—the last near Berlin—Fuehrer escaped and fled to Switzerland.

"There's only one thing I know," he said today. "I'm not going back to Germany."

HESS AND MARTIN IN CLOSE OREGON GOVERNOR RACE

Portland, Ore., May 20.—(AP)—Gov. Charles H. Martin and Henry L. Hess were in a close race for the Democratic nomination for governor in incomplete returns from today's primary.

Gov. Martin, who is 74 years old and a retired army major general, has been a frequent critic of some persons in the Roosevelt administration. He campaigned on a law and order platform.

Willis E. Mahoney of Klamath Falls led Carl Donaugh of Portland, 9,270 to 5,330, in returns from 310 precincts for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

In the same number of precincts, Rufus Holman, state treasurer, led Robert N. Stanfield, former senator, 12,393 to 4,827, in the Republican race for the senate.

'Lucky' Learns How Golden Silence May Be

A long time ago somebody applied the nickname Lucky to Henry Hoffman. Although it hasn't always been easy, he has tried ever since to live up to it.

Of late, when Dame Fortune gave him nothing but icy stares, it distressed Henry that people quit calling him Lucky. But yesterday everything appeared to have changed. To some cronies at 63d street and Stony Island avenue he confided that he had just won $400 on a three horse parlay.

Shows Roll of Bills.

To prove it he displayed a roll of bills that would have choked at least one of the horses. And presto, Henry was back on top of the heap. He had rewon his favorite name.

"Ole Lucky," said the cronies. "Must have been born with a gold pencil to mark form charts with."

The word preceded him as he went down 63d street. Other friends smiled, and Henry basked in the spotlight of his prosperity.

With sprightly step he started to his home at 6030 Stony Island avenue. He had reached an alley at 6230 Harper avenue when three men met him. Two had pistols. One was equipped with a blackjack, with which he tapped Henry on the head.

"Well, well, well," he said, "it's Lucky. the parlay man."

Henry Takes a Ride.

They all heaved together, tossed Henry into an automobile and took him to the vicinity of 61st street and Champlain avenue. There they searched him and took $98, his entire roll.

"Where's the other $300 you won?" demanded the blackjacker.

"That," replied Henry, sadly, "was just a little fib. I never did win anything on the races. I just told it so they could keep on calling me Lucky."

LADY TRACK STAR SHOWS POLICE VALUE OF SPEED

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Martin, 24 years old, who used to sprint on her high school track team, gave chase today when she surprised two men breaking a window. After she ran nearly a mile a policeman fell in beside her, then another, and a third fired a shot. The fugitive, winded, gave up.

FIND WASTE IN RELIEF; ASSEMBLY ACTS IN CRISIS

Legislative Group Condemns State's Lax System.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill. May 20.—[Special.]—Waste and inefficiency in Illinois relief were reported tonight by two investigation bodies, both recommending reforms for enactment at the special session which convened here.

The more outspoken of the two reports was one filed with the assembly by a legislative committee headed by Senator D. T. Woodard [D., Grayville]. It charged fraud and corruption by relief recipients and by relief administrators.

The other report, made public by Gov. Horner, was of the findings of a citizens' commission appointed last December by the governor and headed by Walter L. Gregory of the State Street council. It found "serious shortcomings." Both groups recommended a centralization of relief administration under a division of the department of public welfare.

The proposal of the legislative committee in this new governmental division would include in its functions the creation of employment, somewhat similar to the federal works progress administration.

System Held Wasteful.

"Our investigation has convinced the committee," the Woodard committee told the legislature, "that the present system of administering relief in many of the larger counties in Illinois is grossly inefficient and excessively wasteful.

"Investigation in various localities has disclosed that from 25 per cent to 35 per cent of the cases received on relief were not entitled to assistance. We find in many counties that township politics has played a major part in the allocation of relief funds to individual recipients. In one instance, sample ballots and shoe orders were passed out to prospective voters the day preceding a township election.

"We find that lack of coördination between state and township authorities responsible for relief administration has given the cheater an opportunity to obtain relief from more than one agency.

Lax Supervision Charged.

"We find that the ease with which relief may be obtained, plus lack of supervision once the recipient is placed upon the rolls, has builded a Utopia for many indolents who have taken advantage of state charity.

"There should be no increase in any local tax rate for poor relief except at the will of the localities affected. Ample funds are now authorized by various forms of taxation to meet all requirements if they are properly disbursed under economical administration.

"The effort to extend social serv-

BULLETIN.

Springfield, Ill., May 21 (Saturday).—(Special.)—At an early hour today the Illinois house advanced to third reading the bills appropriating an additional $500,000 monthly to help meet the Chicago relief crisis. The measures are in a position to be passed by the house on Monday and by the senate on Wednesday. The house then recessed until Monday.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Action to reopen Chicago's relief stations was the first order of business in the general assembly tonight as the special legislative session convened.

Shortly after Gov. Henry Horner appeared before a joint session of both house and senate and read his message, two bills were introduced by Benjamin S. Adamowski, house majority floor leader, which would increase the state's monthly relief contribution from $3,000,000 to $3,500,000. The grant would continue through next January for a total appropriation from state funds of $4,500,000.

This was the governor's plan and it is proposed to rush it through both houses by next Wednesday. The governor's call of the official session included 22 subjects.

Kelly on House Rostrum.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly sat on the house rostrum tonight while the governor read his message. The governor, the mayor and leaders of both houses conferred for four hours tonight on Chicago's relief problems, but no conclusions were reached. Pending further conferences over the week end Chicago members held in abeyance their plans to ask an outright appropriation of $14,000,000, the amount Chicago will need for the remainder of the year.

Senator Harold G. Ward of Chicago, Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, made clear to the senate the stand of many of the Chicagoans.

"Thousands are in need in Illinois," he said, "and what a pity it is when plenty of money is available to feed them!" On April 30 there was a balance in the state treasury of $19,000,000; a year from now there will be $25,000,000.

Will Hold Two Relief Bills.

"I came to Springfield today intending to introduce two bills—one for a $2,000,000 appropriation for May, and another for $12,000,000 for the rest of the year.

"But, because of the discussions now being held, I will hold these bills for the time being."

Ward, at the mayor's request, introduced a bill for a tax on cigarets not to exceed three cents per package. At three cents the levy, it was estimated, would produce between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 annually.

The senate recessed until Monday after introduction of a number of other bills.

Two paragraphs in the message the governor read to the special session repeated what he had suggested in his call—that he expects local governments to raise part of the new relief burden.

Proposals for Local Relief.

"Many suggestions regarding the increase of local revenue for relief undoubtedly will be presented to you at this session, which will have your earnest consideration," Mr. Horner said. "Since any such proposed legislation for relief will be permissive in character, local governments which do not need additional relief money need not make the levies so authorized.

As it may take some time to put into effect such new local levies for relief in the respective local governments, they should have definite legislative authority to divert or borrow from other local funds sufficient moneys to take care of the extraordinary relief needs until the income from such new relief levies are derived."

The governor did not say what he expected local communities to do to raise new revenue but there was talk of increasing township relief tax from 30 to 60 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

To bolster his contention that only $500,000 should be added monthly, and this only until Feb. 1 for a total of $4,500,000, the governor in his message declared that sales tax collections are shrinking.

In his message the governor gave endorsement to the bills for expansion of Chicago's airport, which was one of the matters Mayor Kelly took up with him earlier in the day. The governor told the assembly that the new, big airliners must have a larger field than the present Chicago tract and explained that this enlargement can be obtained only through the relocation of railroad tracks [the Chicago & Western Indiana] which now bisect it.

"This legislation is particularly necessary," he wrote, "in the case of the Chicago airport, but it also is of utmost importance to the continued progress of aviation generally. There should be no objection or opposition to bills which will permit the required improvements of this and other airports, so long as such improvements are made with the approval of the Illinois Commerce commission and the Illinois Aeronautics commission which rightfully have jurisdiction of the subject."

On public housing, the governor said that about $50,000,000 has been earmarked for allocation to Illinois in Washington, which sum may be doubled, but explained that unless changes are made in the state housing laws to conform with requirements of the federal act, Illinois cannot receive its share. Mr. Horner said such a large sum devoted to construction work would put thousands of persons in the building trades to work and would aid business recovery.

For Constitutional Convention.

In the section of the message dealing with a constitutional convention the governor did not state his reported hope for eventual enactment of a state income tax, but said that the basic law of Illinois was written almost three-quarters of a century ago and many of its provisions were not adapted to present conditions. He then outlined the procedure for a convention which starts with passage of a resolution by each house of the legislature by a two-thirds vote, which he hopes will be done at the special session.

Explaining why he had included the subject of the city manager plan in the call, the governor did not take a stand in behalf of the plan, saying, merely, that the present law does not permit cities of more than 5,000 population to adopt it, and adding:

"It is generally conceded that this is a matter for local determination. I favor as large a measure of home rule as is consistent with the public policy of the state and the rights of other communities. In respect to the managerial form of municipal government, I see no reason why individual municipalities should not be permitted to determine their form of government."

State Board of Education Bill.

Mr. Horner again recommended passage of the state board of education bill which failed last session, partly because of the opposition of John A. Wieland, state superintendent of public instruction. The governor linked the hoped-for success of this bill with his recommendation that not more than $1,000,000 be provided for distressed school districts, saying that the appropriation should be expended through the proposed state board. This provision, many feel, will bring controversy.

Without making any specific recommendations, the governor asked the legislature to study means of detecting sexual psychopaths in the early stages of their mental disorder. It is believed that State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney will have bills introduced on this subject.

Another paragraph of the message endorsed the recommendation of the Illinois budgetary commission for the reporting by banks and other financial institutions on the status of inactive accounts which the commission would like to see diverted to the state. Estimates have been made that unclaimed deposits in the state might total as high as $50,000,000.

Reasonable Tax on Oil Production.

The governor also recommended a "reasonable tax" upon oil production in the state, in recognition of the growing importance of the southern Illinois fields near Centralia and Olney. He declared that such a tax probably would have no appreciable effect on the price of petroleum products to consumers.

The message closed with recommendations for amendments of laws to take advantage of federal grants for the blind and dependent children, and for centrali ation of old age pension administration in the state.

Advance Airport Bill.

Enabling legislation for Chicago to enlarge its airport was contained in two bills introduced by Senator John M. Lee [D., Chicago], and advanced to second reading.

Five bills to authorize referendums on a city manager form of government were introduced by Senators Richey V. Graham [D., Chicago] and Richard Barr [R., Joliet].

Senator W. E. C. Clifford introduced bills to increase the salaries of county and probate judges. He had a third bill appropriating $700,000 to the University of Chicago.

Senator Robert M. Harper [D., East St. Louis], offered a bill providing for a tax upon personal tangible property. The bill levies a 3 per cent tax against tangible personal property used in an occupation in Illinois but purchased from a person who did not incur the 3 cent sales tax. Its purpose is to curb a practice of Illinois residents of making purchases outside Illinois to escape the sales tax.

Senator William Connors [D., Chicago], introduced a bill authorizing cities to levy a tax of not more than one-half a mill for revenue to be used in combating venereal diseases.

Nearly Billion Doled Out in State Since 1932.

BY WILL O'NEIL.

A new high of 110,504 persons employed by the Works Progress administration in Chicago was announced yesterday by H. K. Seltzer, Chicago WPA head. In addition to these there were approximately 93,000 cases, or units, receiving direct relief, on the rolls of the Chicago Relief administration.

Paul Kerschbaum, state WPA statistician, revealed that there were 212,079 persons on the WPA pay roll in Illinois on May 11, the last pay roll date for which figures are available. One that date there were 111,007 Chicago residents employed by WPA, but 5,670 of them were working on projects outside the city limits.

Cost Nears Billion Mark.

With work relief rolls constantly working toward new highs it appeared that expenditures in Illinois since 1932 for various forms of relief would exceed a billion dollars by July 1. The total bill for the state for the years 1932 through 1937 was $870,805,577. Figures on all forms of relief for 1938 are not available.

Federal funds ceased to be a factor in direct relief in Illinois in 1935. Work relief in the state was assumed by the WPA in August, 1935. At the end of last year the WPA had spent $264,809,573. During this year it has been spending more than $17,000,000 a month.

From 1932 through 1937, a total of $463,152,853 was spent on direct relief in Illinois. The total annual bill for direct relief dropped from $121,396,000 in 1935 to $52,578,000 in 1936, the first year WPA got into full swing.

Direct Relief Costs Constant.

Direct relief expenditures in Illinois during the first three months of this year remained nearly constant. March, the latest month for which figures are available, is fairly typical of the state picture.

The total bill for direct relief in that month was $6,024,440. The Illinois Emergency Relief commission used $93,342 of this sum for state administration and allotment of funds, leaving a balance of $5,931,097 for direct relief and local administration of relief.

Cook county required $3,905,174 to care for 102,200 cases during March. Local funds, including those from the Chicago city government, amounted to $2,087,655, and the state contributed the balance, $1,817,519.

Downstate Spends Less.

Downstate [all counties outside Cook] needed $2,025,922 to care for 100,937 cases. The local governments contributed $944,024 of this and the state $1,081,898.

The total cost to the state government for the month was $2,870,417, and of the $1,817,519 that was allotted to Cook county the lion's share, or $1,684,220, was spent in Chicago.

Thus Cook county receives more than 60 per cent of the state's relief funds while having only 50 per cent of the state's relief cases. Many downstaters charge that Cook county gets too large a share of the state allotment.

The answer is supplied largely by a comparison of amounts given to relief cases in Cook county and in the rest of the state. A case may be any family or single person unit receiving relief.

During March each Cook county case was given an average of $29.43. For the rest of the state the average was $18.20. In some downstate counties the average per case was as low as $7—in Richland county it was $5.47.

How Money Is Allotted.

State moneys are allotted on the basis of each month's estimated needs. The financial need is based on the estimated number of cases in a local governing unit multiplied by the amount needed per case. The allotment per case is larger in Cook county, so it gets more money.

Many downstaters would like to see Cook county's—and particularly Chicago's—rate per case drop or their own rate go up. The downstate rates can't be increased, however, because the IERC will accept only estimates based on past expenditures and the downstaters in the past either didn't have the money to spend or were unwilling to spend it fast enough to build up a high rate per case per month.

TWO MORE RELIEF CHEATERS ARE SENT TO JAIL; 83 IN YEAR

The drive against relief cheaters was continued yesterday in South State street court when Judge Eugene Holland sent two more to jail. Eighty-three cheaters have been sent to jail in the past year.

Thomas Hauppa, 1911 South Homan avenue, got nine months in the Bridewell when Attorney G. B. Foley, representing the Chicago Relief administration, presented evidence that he obtained $405 from the CRA under fraudulent circumstances. There were three charges against him.

Simon Zmich, 1442 Cornell street, received a term of six months on two charges of defrauding the CRA of a total of $643. Both men were ordered to make restitution.

THOMAS DENIED PERMIT TO TALK IN JERSEY CITY

Jersey City, N. J., May 20.—(AP)—Daniel Casey, public safety director, tonight denied another application by Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, for a permit to make an open air speech in Jersey City.

"The protests of thousands of our citizens against your holding an open air meeting have continued," Casey wrote Thomas, "and investigation convinces me that to grant your application would lead inevitably to a riot."

When Thomas first applied for a permit he specified Journal Square as the place in which he would like to speak. Casey denied the application May 10 and Thomas filed a new application last Tuesday, in which he suggested a conference to decide the place. Thomas was escorted from Journal Square by police April 30 when he attempted to make a speech without a permit.

25 C. I. O. UNIONS DEMAND RELIEF MONEY OF STATE

One hundred representatives of 25 unions of the Committee for Industrial Organization met at 155 North Clark street last night and indorsed State Senator Harold G. Ward's proposal for immediate state appropriations to tide the city and state over their emergency relief problems. David Lasser, national head of the Workers' Alliance of America, told of plans of the alliance to picket the city hall Monday to bring the relief situation to the attention of city officials. A massmeeting of alliance members will be held next week, he said.

STRUCK AND KILLED BY TRAIN.

MALONE DENIED FURTHER STAY OF PRISON SENTENCE

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday refused a further stay for William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois state tax commission, under sentence of two years in prison for income tax evasion. The court ordered that Malone surrender to the federal marshal on Monday, unless the department of justice at that time indicates a willingness for a further delay. Malone had been granted two previous stays to enable him to carry a plea for a pardon to President Roosevelt. He went to Washington, but on his return did not indicate whether his plea had been presented to the President.

Druggist Shot in Leg When He Flees Bandits

Louis Bernstone, 51 years old, owner of a drug store at 2056 Larrabee street, was shot in the right leg last night when he attempted to flee from three bandits in his store. They ran out without completing the robbery. Bernstone was taken to the Alexian Brothers hospital.

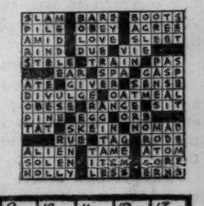
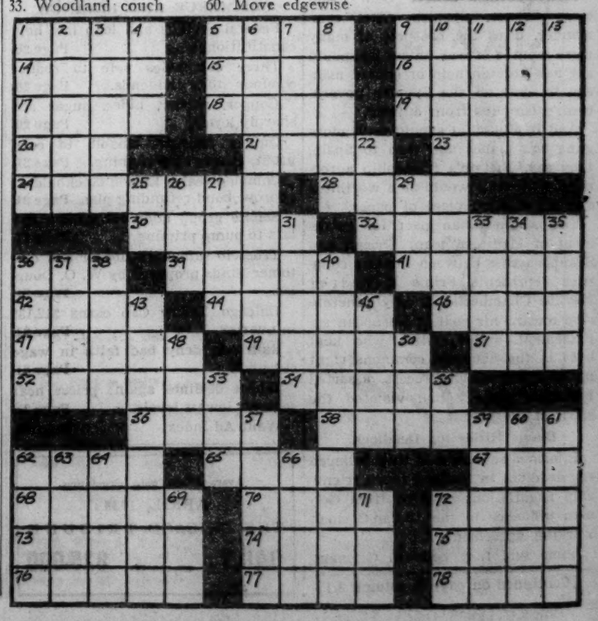
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





REPORTS WASTE AND CORRUPTION IN STATE RELIEF

Assembly Gets Findings of Committee.

ice as a statewide function of poor relief is an extravagant result of the successful propaganda of a profession desiring to establish a permanent field of employment for themselves. A continuation of the existing relief setup will lead to increased and intolerable tax burdens."

List of Recommendations.

To correct these evils the committee recommends the following:

"1. That the Illinois Emergency Relief commission be abolished and in its stead there be created in the department of public welfare a state division of public assistance, to supervise all state funds allocated for public assistance of unemployed persons in the various counties, the superintendent of such division to be under the supervision of the department of public welfare and appointed by the governor.

"2. That a county superintendent of unemployment relief be appointed by the department of public welfare after a competitive examination.

"3. That persons in destitute and necessitous circumstances be divided into two classifications: [a] Those who are on relief and unemployable, to be the responsibility of the overseer of the poor. [b] Unemployed persons who are employable and in need, their unemployment being through no fault of their own, to be the responsibility of federal and state governmental agencies.

Penalties Are Proposed.

"4. That state funds heretofore used for relief purposes be hereafter disbursed only for unemployment work relief projects for the purpose of furnishing relief to employable persons unemployed and in need, to be administered by the county superintendents of unemployment relief. False representations of need of such employment, or acceptance thereof fraudulently, should constitute an offense punishable by fine and imprisonment.

"5. That no funds raised by taxation in any county or subdivision thereof should be used for the relief of any person who is physically employable.

"6. That the division of public assistance should be authorized to allocate state funds to the various counties for employment work relief projects on the basis of the number of persons unemployed and in need, the need to be based upon living standards, to be set by the state department upon completion of a survey of living costs in such county.

Work Relief Committees.

"7. That the county superintendent of unemployment relief be authorized to use state funds allocated to his county for labor and to assist in furnishing sponsors' contributions for matching federal, state, or local funds for the purpose of creating work relief projects in his county, except that employables should be furnished adequate food and other necessary assistance during such periods when no employment for them is available.

"8. That a committee to develop work relief projects be created in each county, such committee to cooperate with public officials in creating projects to provide employment. Such committee should consist of five members, namely, the county superintendent of unemployment relief, the county superintendent of highways, and three citizens of that county to be selected by the state superintendent of unemployment relief."

Other members of this committee were Senators H. S. Burgess [D., Fairfield] and George C. Dixon [R., Dixon] and Representatives William Vicars [D., Pontiac], George G. Noonan [D., Chicago], and Calvin D. Johnson [R., East St. Louis].

The Gregory report, the substance of which previously has been published, likewise would place county administrative agencies under supervision of a new division of the department of public welfare.

Troubles Retold

Mrs. Rubye Nix Zioncheck, widow of congressman, leaving Washington, D. C., court after hearing testimony in damage suit in which she is defendant.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Rubye Nix Zioncheck, widow of the congressman from the state of Washington, listened attentively today to testimony given in Federal District court concerning one of the numerous escapades she and her husband, Marion, engaged in during their brief marital life.

She is a defendant in a suit filed by Mrs. Pamela S. Young, a writer, who seeks $2,700 for damage allegedly done by Zioncheck to furnishings in the apartment here which she sublet to the late representative.

Mrs. Zioncheck was a WPA stenographer in Annapolis, Md., before she married the playboy congressman two years ago. Since Zioncheck committed suicide in Seattle, Wash., in August, 1936, she has attended the University of Washington and has been writing a book.

Jails Three Motorists for Dangerous Driving

Three motorists were jailed and their driving privileges suspended by Judge Stephen Adamowski in the Safety court yesterday. They are George L. Butler, 4038 Addison street, ten days in jail for driving while intoxicated; George L. Franklin, 6420 George street, ten days for reckless driving, and Joseph Volinsak, 2049 Cullerton street, five days for reckless driving.

CHARGES BRIBES CUSHIONED SLEEP OF WPA DRIVERS

Given More Pay for Less Work, Court Told.

Truck drivers on a Works Progress administration project in Cook county were paid extra wages and given the privilege of sleeping on the job if they delivered bribe money to certain WPA officials over them, according to testimony yesterday in federal court.

The testimony was given by John S. Hubert, a WPA timekeeper, in the trial of five Cook county WPA officials and a truck driver who are charged with accepting bribes and extorting money in return for granting privileges to WPA workers. Hubert and three other men have pleaded guilty to similar charges.

Tells Offer of Better Job.

Under questioning by United States District Attorney Martin Ward, Hubert told Judge William H Holly that Ralph Budd, a WPA project engineer, had promised him a better job if he would aid in collecting from the truck drivers.

"'I'll get an increase for you if you'll go along,' Budd told me," Hubert related. "He then told me to go out on the south side to line up the truck drivers. He said I should be careful whom I talked to, and not to tackle any one who would be dangerous.

"I collected from $10 to $17.50 from each truck driver as his contribution for a two weeks period. Then their working hours were increased from seven to eight hours a day, and their pay was increased from $1.45 an hour to $1.65.

Less Work For More Pay.

"Before the drivers started to pay in, they had been bringing workers to the projects and taking them back to concentration points after work. In between times they did other WPA hauling. After they paid in and were getting more money, we told them they didn't have to do anything but haul the men. We told them to sleep in their trucks in between times."

Prosecutor Ward sought to bring out that the money collected by Hubert for Budd eventually went into the hands of Thomas J. McElligott, former supervisor of WPA operations in Cook county outside Chicago. Objections to such testimony were sustained.

Others in addition to McElligott and Budd who are on trial are Earle R. Peterson, a project engineer; Hugh McTavish, a WPA truck driver; Everett L. Wilson of Des Plaines, a project engineer, and William Claus, former building inspector of Park Ridge.

More Collections Bared.

Following Hubert to the stand, John J. Pecka, a WPA supervisor who has pleaded guilty, testified that he collected between $600 and $700 from truck owners and split the money with Peterson.

Bennie Nevings, colored, of Chicago Heights, a WPA laborer, said he paid Hubert $10 and was reclassified from a $55 a month job to one that paid $225 monthly.

The government has attempted to show that McElligott was the leader of a ring of WPA officials that shook down workers and truck drivers during a seven month period in 1937. Thus far, however, all testimony linking McElligott with the fraud has been ruled out.

Three Driver License Bills Introduced in Assembly

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Three drivers' license bills were introduced at the special session of the assembly here tonight. Gov. Horner is sponsor of one while the author of another is Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman. The third bill was offered by Representative Dennis J. Collins [R., De Kalb].

Horner and Ward Bills.

Differences between the Horner and Ward bills indicate that they may be headed for another Democratic factional fight such as blocked passage of the safety measure at last year's session. The governor would place the administration with its revenue and jobs in the hands of his director of public works, F. Lynden Smith, who also has charge of the state police. The Ward bill would place the administration with Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, a Nash-Kelly follower, who now handles automobile licenses.

From the standpoint of motorists there are other differences between the Horner and Ward bills that are important. The governor would give his adminstrative agent suspension powers that were attacked at last year's session.

Both the Horner and Ward bills would revoke the license of a driver convicted of certain major motoring crimes, such as manslaughter, drunken driving, or fleeing the scene of an accident. The Horner measure would also give his department of public works discretionary power to suspend licenses without a court conviction.

Ward would not charge a fee. Horner would tax each of the 1,900,000 drivers in Illinois every three years 50 cents for those over 18 years old and 25 cents for those under 18.

Record Trafic Convictions.

Both the Horner and Ward bills would record trafic convictions on the back of the license card carried by a driver and on a duplicate to be filed in Springfield. Police and the courts would thus identify repeaters subject to heavier penalties. Both bills would qualify the license card as a bail bond for all except the more serious offenses.

The arresting officer would take the card and give a receipt, which would be valid as a driving permit until the trial.

An examination of applicants after an initial application period in which licenses would be issued without the tests, would be required by both bills.

A license could be suspended at the discretion of the administrator for a period not to exceed six months "whenever it shall appear" [quoting the Horner bill] that the license holder has committed any of a series of offenses.

The Collins bill provides for a license without fee and for revocation by court order only. Secretary Hughes would administer it. Collins also presented a financial responsibility bill.

ROOSEVELT ACTS TO HELP IDAHO'S OTHER SENATOR

Gives Pope a Campaign Issue on Phosphate.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—At the instance of Senator James P. Pope [D., Idaho], who faces serious opposition in the Democratic primary this year from a conservative, anti-administration member of the house, President Roosevelt today sent a special message to congress recommending the creation of a joint committee to study the subject of phosphate resources and their use and service to agriculture.

The total known world supply of phosphate rock is estimated at 17.2 billion tons, of which 7.2 billion tons is located in the United States, 5.5 billion tons in Idaho.

Urges Development of Resources.

"The disposition of our phosphate deposits should be regarded as a national concern," said Mr. Roosevelt in his message. "The situation appears to offer an opportunity for this nation to exercise foresight in the use of a great national resource heretofore almost unknown in our plans for the development of the nation."

Although the President left details of such development to the proposed joint congressional committee, Senator Pope had urged that the government go seriously into the matter of manufacturing and encouraging private manufacture of phosphates.

Most of the Idaho deposits are on public lands, and Senator Pope recommended that consideration be given to leasing this land to private enterprise. By sending the special message to congress, President Roosevelt gave his loyal supporter an issue in the forthcoming Idaho primary, an intimation that loyalty pays.

Rewarded by Funds.

Last March during the senate fight over the bill to give Mr. Roosevelt dictatorial powers to reorganize the federal government, Senator Pope obtained a more tangible reward in the nature of funds to begin construction on a $9,900,000 hydro-electric power and irrigation project on the Snake and Boise rivers. The senator entertained some doubts for a time because of the fear of his constituents that the forestry service would be reorganized, but those doubts were dispelled, he explained, on assurances from the White House.

With the exception of these vague and quickly resolved doubts as to the reorganization scheme, Senator Pope has been undeviating in his support of major administration projects. He was among the first to indorse the bill to pack the United States Supreme court, and he was co-sponsor of the farm dictatorship scheme.

Pope in Serious Trouble.

Notwithstanding his amenability to the White House commands and his consequent popularity in Washington administration circles, Senator Pope is said to be in serious political trouble at home. His opponent in the Democratic primary is Representative D. Worth Clark, who not only will get all the conservative Democrat but also much of the Republican vote.

Mr. Roosevelt's message to congress today was acclaimed by Senator Pope as one of the most important the President has ever sent to congress.

Senator Pope initiated his phosphate project last fall when, at his instance, engineers for the Tennessee Valley authority made a three week survey of deposits in Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, and Montana.

Following that survey, Senator Pope called a conference at Pocatello, Idaho, on Oct. 8 and 9, at which roseate possibilities for exploiting the western phosphate resources were described.

Describes Value of Deposits.

Writing in the February, 1938, issue of Seeing Idaho, a periodical, Senator Pope said:

"The circumstances of fate have placed Idaho in a pivotal position in the future of the earth, for in the southeastern section of the Gem state are over 6,500,000,000 tons of phosphorus compounds sealed in for posterity by the natural addition of fluorine."

The presence of fluorine in the phosphate rock is where the TVA comes in. Calcium phosphate ordinarily is soluble, while fluorine is not, so the fluorine has to be extracted before the phosphate is suitable for fertilizer. The TVA engineers have developed an electric furnace method of extracting the fluorine, which becomes volatile and disappears at 2,500 degrees fahrenheit. This method is said to be much cheaper than the old sulphuric acid process.

"At a value of $4 per ton mined, this deposit is worth upwards of $22,000,000,000," he said.

Cites Drain on Supply.

President Roosevelt's message said that phosphate deposits in Florida and Tennessee, which contain less than 10 per cent of the nation's supply, furnish more than 97 per cent of the phosphate rock used for domestic agricultural purposes. With increased consumption of phosphatic fertilizer necessary to maintain soil fertility, Mr. Roosevelt said, these deposits will last but a comparatively short period.

"It is hardly necessary," the message said, "to emphasize the desirability of conserving these deposits to the fullest extent of the benefit of agriculture in the east, the south, and a considerable portion of the midwest.

"At the same time serious attention should be given to the development of the western phosphate deposits in order that they may be made to serve economically the widest possible territory. It is evident that our main reliance for an adequate supply of phosphate must eventually be placed on our western deposits."

Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor, was guest of honor at a testimonial dance last night in the Hotel Sherman sponsored by twenty-five labor organizations from Chicago and downstate. More than 5,000 persons attended. Among the guests were Joseph Mullaney, international president of the Asbestos Workers' union, and John Coefield, president of the United Association of Steam Fitters and Plumbers. Mr. Durkin, who has been state director of labor for five years, is an official of the steam fitters' union.

LEWIS, AT HOME SINCE PENN LOSS, SEES PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—John L. Lewis C. I. O. chief, who had been secluded in his $30,000 colonial home in nearby Alexandria since the crushing defeat of his political machine in the Pennsylvania primary, emerged today for a luncheon with President Roosevelt.

He brushed past reporters with "nothing to say" as he left the executive office. It was reported that the President had called Lewis to the White House to urge him to go along with the state Democratic machine, which whipped the candidates supported by Lewis and Senator Joseph F. Guffey. Mr. Roosevelt is convinced the Democrats will have no chance of defeating the Republicans in Pennsylvania this fall unless they bury primary bitterness.

As Lewis and the President lunched the C. I. O. headquarters issued a statement, which indicated the C. I. O. leader will support the victorious state machine. The statement claimed the Pennsylvania primary reflected the growing power of labor as an independent political force and announced a drive to unify labor, farmer, and progressive forces.

SUPREME COURT ASKED TO REHEAR STOCKYARD CASE

Jackson Asserts Tribunal Reversed Itself.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson told the Supreme court today that it had reversed itself in the recent Kansas City stockyard case and should grant a rehearing.

He thus joined Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in challenging the April 25 decision which invalidated a Wallace order reducing charges of certain commission men at the stockyards.

The decision had held that the commission men were not given proper opportunity to rebut findings of agriculture department agents. Wallace had said the procedure condemned was inherited from the previous administration and has been abandoned since the stockyard order was issued.

Cites Previous Ruling.

Jackson said the court ruled two years ago in the same Kansas City case that the procedure was of no significance, but now holds that it is fatally defective.

"We do not here question the power of the court to reverse its previous decision if it considers it to have been erroneous," the solicitor general said. "We do suggest that the reversal warants a rehearing."

As an outgrowth of the stockyards decision, three judges of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia filed a brief with the Supreme court today defending their action in refusing to permit the National Labor Relations board to withdraw litigation involving the Republic Steel corporation.

Case Ordered to Stand.

After the stockyards ruling the labor board decided its procedure in the Republic Steel, Ford Motor, and a few other cases might be found defective and decided to withdraw the cases from Circuit courts in order to adopt amended procedure. The Philadelphia Circuit court, however, refused to permit withdrawal of the Republic Steel case and ordered the labor board to proceed with the litigation.

The labor board then asked the Supreme court for a writ of mandamus to compel the Circuit court to take the requested action. The Circuit court was ordered to show cause why it should not permit withdrawal of the case.

The judges' brief said today that if the board were permitted to delay indefinitly proceedings against the corporation such delay might be destructive of the morale of employés and the credit of their employer.

Board Files Objections.

The labor board objected today to answering 74 questions asked by Ford Motor company attorneys in their effort to have set aside a board order holding the Ford company guilty of violating the Wagner labor act.

The board filed its objections with the United States Circuit court in Covington, Ky., where the litigation is pending.

Five of the questions asked whether the board, before making known its decision against Ford, submitted it to Benjamin V. Cohen and Thomas Corcoran, Roosevelt administration legal advisers; John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chief, or Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers' union, a C. I. O. affiliate.

PROXY HUSBAND BALKS WHEN WIFE BEARS HIM A SON—ALSO BY PROXY

Soon after Alterico G. Arquilla, now 29 years old, arrived in Chicago from Italy in 1931, it was represented to him that he should arrange a marriage as soon as possible with the girl he left behind him, a Miss Bambina Di Bartola. Arquilla could not return to Italy and Miss Di Bartola could not come to America, so a proxy marriage was performed. The absent bridegroom's cousin, Giacomo Arquilla stood up with the bride.

Alterico G. Arquilla.

When this was reported to the bridegroom in Chicago he was very happy and remained so for two years, until he learned that his bride had just borne a son. When his attorney, Frederick R. Hofeld, told this story yesterday an annulment was granted to Arquilla by Judge Philip J. Finnegan on the technical ground that Illinois does not recognize proxy marriages.

U. S. LABOR BOARD ASKS DISMISSAL OF INLAND PLEA

The National Labor Relations board yesterday asked the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to dismiss a petition filed by the Inland Steel company which urged that the NLRB order of April 5 be set aside and vacated. The order directed the steel company to recognize and sign contracts with the Committee for Industrial Organization. Supreme court rulings have knocked down other similar orders. Soon after the steel company's petition to vacate was filed, the NLRB sought to withdraw the order.

The steel company, which has asked the board to certify a record of the hearings on the case that it might file them with its petition yesterday, was granted a thirty day extension for filing, in as much as the NLRB has refused to certify the record. Meanwhile it is expected that the court will rule, clarifying the status of the withdrawal move and the Inland Steel's appeal.

"DON'T CALL ME MADAME," IS PLEA OF MISS PERKINS

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins told a press conference today she did not mind being made an issue in political fights if only the campaigners would quit calling her "Madame Perkins."

She expressed her objections to the titled of "madame" when asked whether she was an issue in the Oregon primary elections.

"I can't seriously believe," Miss Perkins said, "that the people of Oregon have made me an issue in their state or congressional affairs, but I could stand for being made an issue if they would only leave off the 'Madame Perkins.'"

FIGHT RUM SALES TO MINORS AS SIX GET PRISON TERM

Stop the Practice or Be Closed, Allman Warns.

Police Commissioner Allman moved yesterday to close taverns selling liquor to minors as six young bandits who said they used a tavern as a base for their raids were sent to prison. A girl and two men in another gang, who named the same tavern as their headquarters, were held to the grand jury on robbery charges.

Loyola Palmer.

The tavern named by the nine bandits, the Oasis at 1150 Diversey parkway, was closed by police Thursday night. Yesterday Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court summoned the owner, Arthur Ross, and a bartender, Francis Propson, to court and rebuked them for operating a place frequented by minors and bandits.

Met Bandits in Tavern.

At the same time, across the hall and unknown to Judge Harrington, Miss Loyola Palmer, 19, of 2727 Belmont avenue, told Judge John J. Rooney in Felony court that she became acquainted with two other bandits while working as the operator of a 26 game in the Oasis, and that they went out on raids together.

Miss Palmer was held on two charges of robbery, in bond of $4,000. Martin La Valley, 3226 Seminary avenue, an ex-convict, and Robert Wendt, 2018 North Keeler avenue, were held on similar charges. La Valley's bond was set at $20,000, and Wendt's at $10,000. The three were arrested early in May. Police said the girl had admitted three robberies, and the men fifteen each.

These charges and others caused Commissioner Allman to announce that any tavern owners permitting minors to frequent their places of business will have their licenses revoked.

As a result of Allman's order Warren avenue police last night arrested Mrs. Lucille Cappiello, 29 years old, 1418 Polk street, on charges of selling intoxicants to four minors—two boys and two girls—in her Uptown tavern, 2039 Madison street. The minors, one a girl ward of the Juvenile court, were also taken into custody. Policemen John Sweeney and William Grady made the arrests.

Six Are Sentenced.

The six young bandits, who on Thursday told Judge Harrington they committed a score of robberies for money to buy drinks, and that they "parked the gun" at the Oasis, were sentenced to prison terms of one year to life after they rejected the state's suggestion of a delay so that they could testify against Ross and Propson. They are:

RICHARD VEITCH, 18, of 2608 North Racine avenue, leader of the gang, two one year to life terms for armed robbery and ten years for rape.

RUDOLPH HOAG, 20, of 2160 Lincoln avenue, two one year to life terms for armed robbery and eight years for rape.

ARTHUR JOSETTI, 20, of 1135 Schubert street, one of twenty years for robbery and six years for rape.

FRANK EUSSO, 19, of 2718 North Lincoln street, two one year to life terms for armed robbery.

WERNER ERTL, 20, of 2733 Seminary avenue, and ARTHUR REICH, 20, of 2853 North Racine avenue, one to twenty years each for robbery.

Urges Action by State.

Before sentencing the bandits Judge Harrington demanded that the state take appropriate action against the owner and bartender of the Oasis.

The bandits on Thursday had admitted more than a score of robberies, and Veitch, Hoag, and Josetti had been found guilty of raping Mrs. Cathryn Hansen on April 17.

Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue station said steps would be taken to revoke the Oasis license and that the owners would be booked on a charge of selling liquor to minors.

REVEAL INSIDE STORY OF PAROLE FOR A SWINDLER

Victims Will Attend His Bankruptcy Hearing.

The inside story of the unavailing efforts of a creditors' committee to keep a swindler, Charles F. Glaeser, in prison, was disclosed yesterday following the receipt of notices by the creditors to attend a bankruptcy hearing against him next week.

C. F. Glaeser.

Glaeser is now on parole from Joliet penitentiary. He was paroled on Dec. 15, 1936, after he had served four years and a fraction on four sentences ranging from one to ten and one to twenty years. Only the merest mention was made of his release at the time. According to Mrs. Marie Froby, 3815 North Hoyne avenue, secretary of the creditors' committee, the parole was a surprise.

Swindled Old Friends.

Glaeser, a former lawyer and real estate dealer in the Lake View district, swindled nearly sixty clients, many of them old friends, through confidence game and making false promissory notes. Many lost their life savings. The Froby family, including various relatives, lost $100,000. The state's attorney's office estimated the loss on fifty-one complaints at $677,135.

Late in 1932 Judge John Prystalski, then chief justice of the Criminal court, convicted Glaeser on one charge of confidence game and three charges of making false promissory notes. The sentence was one to ten years on the confidence charge and one to twenty years on each of the three promissory note charges. These three sentences were ordered to be served concurrently, but on the completion of the first sentence.

Glaeser's lawyers and friends fought hard to have all the sentences run concurrently. Eventually they drew up a petition for an appeal while he was in prison, but suddenly dropped the appeal without explanation. Glaeser entered prison Dec. 8, 1932.

Parole Was Opposed.

"We understood that Glaeser would have to serve about seven years," said Mrs. Froby last night. "However, we watched the parole schedules. On three occasions we sent a delegation to hearings to oppose paroles for Glaeser, and were about to send a fourth when we learned he had been paroled and freed."

The record shows that in January, 1934, thirteen months after Glaeser's imprisonment, he was placed on parole within the prison on his first sentence, the confidence game charge. He had served the minimum time. The parole within the prison, which meant he could not leave, was for six months. In July, 1934, the parole having expired, he was discharged from the first sentence. He immediately began serving the second sentence of three concurrent terms.

The creditors committee, watching all the time, inquired of the parole board as to Glaeser's status, and on Dec. 4, 1935, Mrs. Froby received a letter from Ellis Cox, secretary of the board, advising her that in July, 1935, "the board entered an order denying Glaeser a parole."

Secretary Cox added: "His is a four year stretch, and requires a service of two years, nine months and fifteen days . . . from July, 1934. Under the present order entered he will not be due for release on parole until April of 1937."

Action Brings Surprise.

In view of this assurance the committee was not prepared for his parole in December, 1936, four months earlier. The committee charged with watching the progress of his parole pleadings was caught by surprise. It had made no effort to be on hand at parole hearings during that period. In January, 1937, when the committee was preparing to make a routine inquiry into Glaeser's status, it learned of the parole granted a month earlier.

"We creditors feel," said Mrs. Froby, "that we got a raw deal from the parole board. We are extremely bitter about Glaeser being out. We feel Glaeser's money must have helped him."

Another creditor, Samuel Draeger, 4431 North Maplewood avenue, who lost $22,000, said:

"We were hoodwinked all the way through by the parole board. I was given personal assurances as to when he would be up for parole, but we got the shock of our lives when we heard he was out."

Glaeser is now living at 618½ Sheridan road, Evanston. His bankruptcy case will be heard Wednesday before Referee Wallace Streeter. It is estimated his assets will yield only $3,000 to those who lost $677,000.

FINES TOTALING $3,012 PAID BY SIX IN WASHER FRAUD

Ellis R. Taylor, president of the Taylor Washing Machine company, 3031 Madison street, and five employés of the concern paid fines totaling $3,012 to the clerk of the Criminal court yesterday. The men on May 10 pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to defraud their customers and were assessed the various fines by Judge Francis B. Allegretti.

Taylor and two salesmen, George H. Dye and W. J. Renney, paid $1,000 each; Walter A. Delaney, office manager, paid $10, and C. E. Spears, collection manager, and Thomas J. Moran, investigator, paid $1 each.

Mrs. Helen Thornton Willis.

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Helen Thornton Willis, 32 years old, the stenographer who married and later divorced the socially prominent Frederic A. Willis, assistant to the president of the Columbia Broadcasting system, was found dead from gas today in the kitchen of her small apartment at 10 Park avenue. On Mrs. Willis' desk were bank records indicating she was broke. In her purse was 38 cents. She returned from a trip to Europe a week ago.

Police said that among the dead woman's papers they found a note from her divorced husband, who is a cousin of Winston Churchill and a nephew of the late William Travers Jerome. Mr. Willis is the son of the dowager Mrs. Gordon Willis and the grandson of the late Gen. Sir Frederic Arthur Willis, K. C. B., and Lady Willis.

ROBBERS KIDNAP MESSENGER; GRAB POUCH OF MAIL

Frank Owens.

Postal inspectors said it was improbable any large sum of money was obtained. They believed the robbers might have thought a Standard Oil company pay roll was in the sack. Yesterday was pay day at the Whiting refineries, but the company does not transmit pay roll funds by mail.

The man kidnaped is Frank Owens of Whiting, who carries the mail under contract, from the station to the Whiting postoffice. When the men held their hands in their pockets as if they carried pistols and ordered him into their car he obeyed. Placing a sugar sack over his head, the trio took him to 111th street and Avenue O, where he was forced out. Witnesses said the car bore a Michigan license plate.

COMPLETE JURY IN CRABB BRIDE SLAYING TRIAL

Pekin, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Selection of a jury to try James Crabb, young son of a Delavan banker, for manslaughter in the fatal shooting of his bride, was completed late today.

Two full days were required to choose from thirty-five veniremen questioned twelve men acceptable to state and defense. The proceedings had taken so long Judge Joseph E. Daily threatened to hold a night session if they were not hurried.

Counsel for the defense indicated today that Crabb may claim that the fatal shooting of his bride of five weeks, Betty Collison Crabb, 19 years old, was an accident and without criminal intent. Opening statements will be made tomorrow morning.

WOMEN DEMAND HARSHER TERMS FOR SEX CRIMES

Renew Their Drive Against Moronic Attacks.

Declaring that laws dealing with sex crimes are not adequately enforced, women's club and civic leaders yesterday renewed their drive against moronic attacks of Chicago women and children.

In a special meeting at the Chicago Civic council offices representatives of five women's groups assailed State's Attorney Courtney's handling of cases of sex violations, denounced laxity of prosecutions, inadequate charges, and mild sentences dealt offenders in court.

The women will request an audience with Courtney to voice their objections to the proposal in Gov Horner's special session calling for the segregation of morons guilty of repeated sex violations against women and children. They also will demand a special sex docket or a special sex court.

Calls Law Insufficient.

"The proposed law will help," declared Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the council, "but it is not enough. We cannot wait until the sexually psychopathic person has committed a crime, or several crimes. We must provide a law to have suspects examined at the earliest manifestation of sexual psychopathy.

"In some cases medical treatment might help. In all cases degenerates must be taken from the streets and committed to an institution for that treatment."

A letter will be addressed to Judge John J. Sonsteby, chief justice of the Municipal court, requesting special provisions for sex offenders. In the majority of cases, Mrs. Robertson pointed out, persons guilty of sex crimes in the past have been charged with assault and battery, disorderly conduct, and other misdemeanors, tried in Municipal court, and punished by small fines.

Police Report Read.

"We contend that rape, or intent to rape, contributing to delinquency, crimes against children, and the like are felonies. They must be dealt with as serious charges in Criminal court."

The annual report of the police department, read at yesterday's meeting, disclosed a total of 5,146 sex crimes committed in Cook county last year. Since Jan. 1, 113 such offenses have been reported.

"Judge Sonsteby told us he could consider a special docket for sex offenses only if there proved to be enough business for one," said Mrs. Robertson. "Wouldn't you think that 5,146 cases would be enough to keep a judge busy for a year?"

INSURANCE SOLD TO ILL AND AGED, U. S. JURY HEARS

Aches and pains that assailed prospective clients of John M. Minnec's insurance companies did not keep them from obtaining insurance certificates, according to evidence offered in federal court yesterday. Minnec, founder of the Cosmopolitan Mutual Benefit association of Hammond, Ind., and the Lincoln National Aid association of Berwyn, is on trial before a jury and Judge Philip L. Sullivan on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

The government contends that while Minnec sold about $100,000 worth of insurance certificates promising large benefits to some 2,000 persons without requiring physical examination, there were trick clauses inserted in small type indicating he never intended to pay any of them.

Yesterday Miss Marie Tony, 2427 South 61st court, Cicero, a bookkeeper for the Minnec companies, identified several accepted applications which showed that they were accepted although the applicants admitted their health was not of the best or that they were aged.

4,500 MADE IDLE AS 28 C. I. O. MEN GO ON SIT STRIKE

Milwaukee, Wis., May 20.—[Special.]—More than 2,500 employés of the Nash motor shops at Racine and Kenosha and 2,000 men at the Seaman Body corporation, a Nash subsidiary, were idle today as a result of a sitdown strike started Tuesday by twenty-eight sedan workers in the Seaman shops here.

The Kenosha and Racine workmen were laid off when the two plants ran short of bodies, which are made in Milwaukee. William Cody, president of the Seaman local of the United Automobile Workers' union, a C. I. O affiliate, said the strike was called because the company tried to speed up the sedan line by the addition of four workers.

Company officials said the four were transferred from the coupe line, where they were not needed, to the sedan line, so they could be kept at work.

REPORT UPRISING; TROOPS MASS IN MEXICAN STATE

Cedillo's Armed Peasants Scatter to Hills.

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, May 20.—(AP)—Military headquarters received information that a group of men had risen in arms east of this city tonight amid growing federal army preparations for possible trouble. The group was reported to be commanded by Pedro Izaquirre, former army major. The site of the uprising was said to be somewhere between San Luis and Valles.

There were other reports of disorder, and San Luis was tense over the dispute between President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico and Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, for years dictator of the state of San Luis Potosi. Cedillo has been heralded as the likeliest leader of a rightist rebellion against Cardenas.

Cedillo's estate, Las Palomas, east of this city, was deserted and his peasant army had taken to the hills.

Cavalry Hurries to Rio Verde.

A force of 200 federal cavalrymen under Gen. J. J. Lacarra Rico hurried to Rio Verde, sixty miles southeast of San Luis, upon reports that an armed band raided the town last night.

[Other dispatches from Mexico indicated the railway between Tampico and San Luis Potosi had been cut.]

Ten army planes which flew to San Luis yesterday from Mexico City scouted the rugged Huasteca region for traces of rebel activity. At least 10,000 federal troops were said to be in the state. Cedillo's army has been estimated at 18,000 to 20,000.

President Cardenas, who came to San Luis Potosi on Wednesday to quiet rumors that Cedillo and his armed agrarian followers were on the verge of revolt, apparently left the direction of operations against rebel bands to the military command.

The day of his arrival Cardenas charged Cedillo with plotting against the government. Cedillo's resignation from the federal army had been announced the day before.

Try to Avert Break.

MEXICO CITY, May 20.—(AP)—Intermediaries today tried to avert an open break between President Lazaro Cardenas and Gen. Saturnino Cedillo.

An aid of Cedillo said there had been "some conversations," but he added that "it seems a little late for diplomatic negotiations."

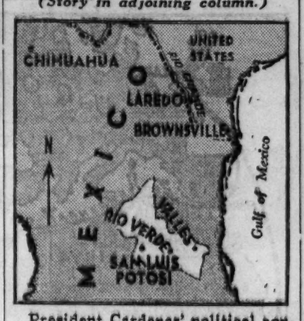
In the capital, meanwhile, the afternoon paper Grafico caused a sensation by headlining a report that a Cedillo band was defeated in a clash with government troops.

The account was based on a report that the National Railways office had received a telegram telling of such a clash. The railways office, however, asserted it had received no such information.

[The Laredo, Tex., Times quoted a reliable source as saying Cedillo was flying to Brownsville, Tex., in a private plane. His wife, four daughters, and an unidentified man passed through Laredo shortly after noon and drove in the direction of Brownsville.]

Revolt Reported

(Story in adjoining column.)



President Cardenas' political conflict with Gen. Saturnino Cedillo had resulted yesterday in a concentration of Mexican troops in the state of San Luis Potosi, stronghold of Cedillo and his armed peasants. There were reports of an uprising between Valles and the city of San Luis Potosi, and of an armed raid at Rio Verde. Meanwhile dispatches from Texas said Cedillo's family was en route to Brownsville, and that he himself would fly there. (San Luis Potosi state in white on the map.)

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—Federal officials investigating foreign espionage tonight sought a way to return Dr. Ignatz Griebl, a former Nazi leader in the United States, to this country for questioning.

Dr. Griebl, who vanished before his testimony was taken in a grand jury investigation of spying into American defense secrets, was arrested in Bremerhaven, Germany, for not possessing a passport when he attempted to leave the liner Bremen on May 17.

It was not known what steps would be taken for his return, as he cannot be extradited under his status as a witness in the investigation. Whether Washington would attempt to arrange his voluntary return was not disclosed.

The grand jury inquiry was adjourned today until Monday after jurors had heard two witnesses, Mrs. Kate Busch, former operator of a nursing home, and an unidentified man.

2 Building Code Chapters Approved by Council Unit

The city council subcommittee on the building code yesterday passed two new chapters in the revised code. The chapters cover the definitions of terms used in various other chapters and the general occupancy provisions for different types of structures. The committee on building and zoning will receive the chapters next week in time to approve them before the next council meeting.

EATING FOR FUN

By CALEB

UP AND DOWN across the country a modern Marco Polo has been traveling for years, seeking new discoveries and bringing back a fabulous tale of adventure—adventure at the trencher boards of the nation's finest eating places.

It all began quite simply when a fine Kentucky family welcomed a son into the household. His appetite from the start was good, and as he grew (the neighborhood legend goes) he developed a taste and discrimination for food that made him outstanding even in that country famous for its hospitality and fine cooking.

This rather unusual gift, combined with a love of travel, resulted in an achievement as unique in its field as Dr. Johnson's dictionary in that of lexicography. This gifted traveler has published an eater's guide with an amazingly complete and descriptive list of the best in eating places throughout the whole United States.

From Abbeville, Alabama, to Ten Sleep, Wyoming, the list in the thick little book called, "Adventures in Good Eating," fills 247 pages. And every descriptive paragraph is by way of a personal recommendation because the author and his wife have traveled the country over in their search for the best that American eating places have to offer. It is not possible to buy, or to pay for a listing in the book.

When this little book came to our hands for the first time we were pleasantly surprised (in all modesty) to discover that its author devotes more space to praise for Marshall Field & Company Tea Rooms and Grill than to any other single establishment discovered in his years of adventuring.

"For generations," he says, "shoppers, particularly suburbanites, have lunched at Field's as part of the day's routine. In our grandmother's day they frequently lunched on baked chicken pie, and this is still one of the favorite dishes along with superlative corned beef hash."

The author is even now on a trip in search of more adventures in eating. We cherish the hope that this modern Polo of the gustatory frontiers will find us, upon his return, still first among his enthusiasms.

PAPAL MESSAGE STIRS UP A NEW NAZI-CHURCH ROW

Germany Threatens to Cancel Concordat.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 20.—A syllabus of Pope Pius' denouncements of the racial teachings of the Nazis will not be read in the Roman Catholic churches of Germany on Sunday. Church authorites today announced they would postpone proclamaton of the pope's message.

The statement of the pope reached German church authorities this week. Nazi officials warned Msgr. Cesare Orsenigo, papal nuncio, that the secret police would take energetic steps if priests read the proclamation in their churches and that "cancelation of the concordat would follow automatically."

Confiscate Catholic Funds.

The Official Gazette today announced the confiscation of the funds of the Canisius Verein, a large Rhineland Catholic youth society, under the decree for confiscation of communist property and the funds of organizations hostile to the state. The property of the Catholic School league and the Catholic Pedagogical Publishing company also was confiscated.

Protestant pastors today began to submit to Nazi domination. The first group of ministers took an oath of fealty to Reichsfuehrer Hitler in conformance with a recent Nazi decree. Only those who take the oath will receive pay through the state, which collects church taxes from all citizens except those who can prove they have resigned from the church.

Nazi authorities expect that 17,000 of the 18,000 pastors involved will take the oath. Pastors who refuse will be dismissed and placed before a disciplinary court. They also will be deprived of their pension rights.

Bishop O. K.'s Oath.

Bishop Mahrarens instructed pastors of his diocese to take the oath, which reads: "I swear I will be true and obedient to the Fuehrer of the German reich and people, Adolf Hitler; that I will respect the laws and conscientiously fulfill my official duties, so help me God."

A number of pastors asked permission to take the oath and simultaneously repeat their ordination vows. The Nazi church ministry merely answered by drawing their attention to the rule threatening dismissal of pastors who fail to take the oath of loyalty to Hitler. This left the pastors in a quandry.

Military friends of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, submarine commander in the world war who is now in a concentration camp, are still endeavoring to persuade Hitler to place him in a fortress under their control. Niemoeller is still in solitary confinement.

2 BYSTANDERS SHOT IN TAVERN BANDIT BATTLE

A man and a woman were wounded late last night when they were caught in the crossfire of a revolver fight between Detective James Dunn of the New City station and one of two bandits in a tavern at 1615 West 43d street. The gunman, who may have been wounded, escaped. Dunn captured his partner.

Dunn, assigned to the stolen automobile detail, walked into the tavern on a routine inspection. As he entered he heard the gunman shout, "Hands up, everybody!" Twenty-five men and women backed at his command. Dunn promptly opened fire on the robber, who fired five shots back at him and then ran out.

Miss Bernice Spudviles, 24 years old, 4612 South Paulina street, a bar maid, was shot in the left hand and Thomas McAuliffe, 32, 8918 Laflin street, a customer, was shot in the back of the head in the crossfire and presumably by the bandit. They were taken to the Southtown hospital.

The gunman escaped in a green car driven by a third man. The second ran down an alley, but was nabbed by Dunn, who emptied his revolver at him. The prisoner dropped a shotgun from under his coat. He identified himself as John Lane, 30 years old, formerly of Des Moines, Ia. He gave a fictitious address.

NEW TENSION RISES IN EUROPE

European diplomats were worried last night over a series of events which seemed to be leading to a new war scare. Following a hitch in negotiations for a French-Italian friendship treaty, Premier Mussolini ordered two divisions of Italian troops in his North African colony of Libya (1) to the border of Tunisia, French protectorate, for maneuvers. Mussolini is reported to have demanded a voice in governing Tunisia. Yesterday twenty-five French warships anchored off Bizerta, Tunisia (1), also for maneuvers. Britain also was concerned over Mussolini's reported plan to build a naval base in East Africa. Such a base might menace Britain's alternative route to India (dotted line) if a new Anglo-Italian crisis blocks the present route (solid line). Britain now controls the Indian ocean with a base at Aden (2), a base reported in preparation at Cochin (3), and a base at Mauritius (4). The proposed Italian base would be built at one of the towns in Italian Somaliland (5), shown on the map.

was using this means of trying to force France away from its alliance with soviet Russia, thereby weakening French resistance to German demands for virtual union with Czechoslovakia's German minority.

Paul Reynaud, French minister of justice, conferred here today with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, Colonial Minister Malcolm MacDonald and Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the British cabinet.

It was reported that Reynaud told them France would permit international control of the Pyrenees frontier providing Italy made corresponding guarantees of nonintervention in Spain.

ITALY SHOCKS BRITAIN

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—British naval circles received a shock today in the news from Rome that Italy was considering establishment of a naval base on the east African coast. That would mean a serious threat to Britain's only alternative route to India if a new Anglo-Italian crisis ever closed the Mediterranean.

Gen. Attilio Teruzzi, undersecretary for Italy's new African empire, sailed from Naples yesterday for a forty day visit to Premier Mussolini's possessions. He will inspect fortifications on the coast of Italian Somaliland.

British naval circles point out that a naval base there would be a potential threat to Britain's emergency route to India around the Cape of Good Hope.

Outside of Treaty Zone.

At present the British have full control of the Indian ocean, with bases at Aden and Mauritius and a new one reported in preparation at Cochin, India.

A base on the Somaliland coast, if Italy ever became hostile, would be a serious menace in the middle of the line from Cape Town toward India.

The recently signed Anglo-Italian treaty forbids the building of new bases in the eastern Mediterranean or the Red Sea area without advance notice, but the East African coast is outside that zone.

So far as is known there are no fortified bases on the East African coast yet, but there are several ports suitable for such development. Among them are Negro bay, Obbia, Itala, and Brava, all in Italian Somaliland.

BRITISH PLANES BOMB MANY VILLAGES IN NEW INDIAN REVOLT

SIMLA, Inda, May 20.—(AP)—The giant, truculent, red-bearded fakir of Ipi, relentless enemy of British rule, and his followers have taken to the warpath against the British again. They are poisoning water supplies and planting bombs on parade grounds.

That new fighting had flared in the rugged reaches of Waziristan, located on the eastern border of Afghanistan, was disclosed today in a communique recounting numerous recent incidents.

More than fifty homemade bombs have been laid on roads, railway lines, and even parade grounds of four posts recently. The British retaliated with frequent bombings of villages which refused to obey an ultimatum to deliver the elusive fakir. The natives were given forty-eight hours in which to evacuate before the air raids. A British captain and four Indian troops were killed and ten wounded in one recent battle.

REBELS CAPTURE THREE STRATEGIC POINTS IN SPAIN

HENDAYE, France [At The Spanish Frontier], May 20.—(AP)—Spanish rebel forces pushed their lines forward today at three strategic points.

The rebels stretched their sector south of Escriche, on the Teruel front, after almost a week of rain-impeded fighting in which they stormed ten lines of government trenches one by one.

The rebels also reported the capture of Villafranca Del Cid, a key city on the highway from Teruel to Albocacer. They said they had pushed on past Villafranca and reached the outskirts of Benasal.

On a spur road north of the highway between Albocacer and Iglesuela Del Cid, the third rebel conquest was said to have been the occupation of Castellfort.

HELD AS SLAYING SUSPECTS.

Sam Sullivan of 4416 South Park way and William Goree of 4414 South Park way, both colored, were held yesterday for questioning regarding the murder of Alfonzo Tyrrell, 28 years old, colored, who was found shot to death Monday in front of his home at 716 East 37th street.

EUROPE'S UNREST BRINGS RELIEF TO CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Prague Glad to See Italy, France in Spotlight.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, May 20.—Tension in Prague was eased today by news that the general European situation was no better, but had become worse. Paradoxical as this might appear, real relief was found by Czech officials in the idea that a conflict might develop between France and Italy rather than in this part of the continent.

Citizens of Czechoslovakia found comfort in thinking that for the moment they are not the sole center of attention.

Despite an announcement late yesterday that Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten Germans' campaign for autonomy, would come to Prague, he did not appear in the capital today. Instead it was announced he had departed for a long planned vacation "in the Alps."

One report said the Nazi leader of the 3,250,000 persons making up the German minority in this country had gone to Austria. Another said he would be near Lake Constance, which would place him somewhere near Berchtesgaden, where Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany is resting in his Alpine home.

Consider Trip "Mysterious."

Henlein's trip was described as "mysterious" in government circles and it was conceded he might go to Berchtesgaden.

Henlein's aids in Prague said they expected him back in Czechoslovakia by next Friday, when he will speak at a meeting in Aussig.

The political executive committee of the Sudeten German party met this morning and discussed the small riots which have been taking place incident to the current campaign for municipal elections. The first series of these elections will be held tomorrow.

The extent of these incidents was difficult to determine in Prague because of censorship, but it was certain that an extensive riot took place last night in Brunn, capital of Moravia, following a Sudeten German meeting.

Committee Isues Statement.

After its meeting the Sudeten committee issued a communique to the effect that it could not "take up conversations with the government regarding the minority statute as long as peace and order in the Sudeten regions could not be guaranteed."

[The Deutsches Nachrichtenburo, official German news agency, reported in Berlin that about 100 Sudeten Germans were injured in an attack by Czech soldiers in Komotau, Czechoslovakia. The commander of the Komotau gendarmerie denied the report, "There were clashes, but none was injured," he said.]

DR. DAFOE'S STATUS UNCHANGED IN NEW AGREEMENT ON QUINTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 20.—The status of Dr. A. R. Dafoe, physician for the Dionne quintuplets since their birth, remains unchanged under yesterday's agreement which will bring the girls, their parents, and their eight brothers and sisters under one roof, it was asserted today.

Arrow indicates Callander, home of quints.

An architect is now at work on plans for the new home for all the Dionnes at Corbiel. This town is five miles northeast of the Dafoe hospital where the quintuplets are housed.

Other provisions in the four point agreement between Oliva Dionne, father, and the quints' board of guardians allow the father to veto appointments to the teaching staf for the five girls. He agreed to withdraw his objections to Louise Corriveau, a nurse appointed without his approval. Nora Rouselle, present teacher of the five famous sisters, is to be dismissed after completion of the sisters' next motion picture.

Dionne has opposed public exhibition of his children, but they will be shown this summer, and a decision for next year will be reached later.

JAPANESE BEGIN NEW DRIVE INTO INTERIOR CHINA

Annihilation of Enemy at Suchow Continues.

SHANGHAI, May 21 [Saturday].—(AP)—The Japanese army, having completed the occupation of Suchow, fusing its conquests in coastal China, intends to turn inland through the heart of the nation.

Japanese officers on the central China front announced that a new campaign, destined to carry Japan's armies inland south of the Yellow river, already was under way. The purpose of the new campaign was said to be the obliteration of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese dictator, and his armies from China forever. The Japanese government at Tokio already has announced its intention of going as far as Hankow, one of China's temporary capitals.

American newspapermen reached the war zone behind the Japanese lines today for the first time since the fall of Nanking last Dec. 13. They were flown there in a Japanese warplane and talked with the general—who insisted that his name not be disclosed—in command of Japanese forces that advanced on Suchow from the south.

Continue Annihilation Drive.

The general said the city was completely occupied and that forty Chinese divisions, averaging 4,000 men to a division, were surrounded in the Suchow area, facing surrender or annihilation.

Other Japanese sources estimated the trapped Chinese at 35,000 and said 7,000 already had been killed. The Chinese were said to be in retreat toward Siayi, fifteen miles to the south; Chulan, sixteen miles to the southeast, and Sutsien, seventy miles to the southeast.

The general said China's huge forces were breaking up into leaderless disorder and suffering terrible casualties under steady, merciless Japanese air attacks.

Japan's conquest of the Lunghai railroad zone was extended by the navy, which landed a force of marines at Lienyungkang, port of Haichow, eastern terminus of the Lunghai on the Yellow sea.

Chinese Admit Loss of Suchow.

At Hankow the Chinese admitted the fall of Suchow. A military report said the Chinese forces had withdrawn to strong defense positions near Suchow to continue resistance.

Along the Lunghai railroad, Chinese sources said, the Japanese lost 1,000 killed in heavy fighting during the past day.

Widespread guerrilla attacks from Kalgan, near the Great Wall in the north, all the way to Hangchow, on the coast south of Shanghai, were reported in Chinese dispatches.

New Japanese Drive

(Story in adjoining column.)

The Japanese army, after consolidating its capture of Suchow, in central China, prepared today to launch a new offensive into the interior of China, with Hankow (indicated by arrow) as its objective. Shaded portion of map indicates Japanese controlled territory. The unshaded part within the shaded portion indicates where there still are great numbers of Chinese troops.

CHINESE PLANES FLY TO JAPAN IN 'BLOODLESS RAID'

Drop Tons of Propaganda on Several Cities.

HANKOW, China, May 20.—(AP)—Hankow today celebrated the first flight of Chinese war planes over Japan proper—a bloodless "air raid" in which leaflets instead of bombs were dropped.

[In Tokio angry Japanese authorities interpreted the flight of the Chinese planes to Japan as an effort to divert Japanese public attention from the Japanese capture of Suchow. Police confiscated the handbills showered down on the southernmost tip of Kyushu Island, and the press suppressed the story of the flight for twenty-nine hours until Japan could complete its celebration of the Suchow victory. The point at which the planes flew over Kyushu Island is 1,000 miles from Tokio.]

Chinese headquarters said two American made twin engined bombers, each manned by crews of four Chinese, made the flight early today from an unannounced base.

Called Good Will Mission.

The headquarters, in a communique which called the expedition a "Chinese aerial good will mission to Japan," said the airplanes flew over Kyushu, southwesternmost of Japan's principal islands.

It said they dropped handbills on Nagasaki, 470 miles from Shanghai; Fukuoka, 65 miles northeast of Nagasaki; Sasebo, naval base 30 miles north of Nagasaki, and other cities on the island.

High officials, headed by Premier H. H. Kung and War Minister Gen. Ho Ying-ching, welcomed the airmen on their landing at Hankow airdrome. Chinese said the flyers covered 2,500 miles, the longest nonstop flight ever made by Chinese airmen.

Fired On by Japs.

The flyers said they had dropped tons of leaflets assuring the Japanese China had no enmity toward them or toward the imperial house, but hoped the people would rise and oppose the Japanese military invasion of China.

The leader of the flight said the weather was bad and Japanese warships fired on the bombers off the Chinese coast, "but we returned without accident despite oil leakage in one plane."

In the first air attack on Japanese territory in history Chinese war planes on Feb. 23 bombed Taihoku and other cities on the Japanese island colony of Formosa. Eight persons were killed and twenty-nine wounded.

RAPIST ADMITS 200 ATTACKS IN TEST OF TRUTH

Louis Serraille, twice convicted rapist, said yesterday, as he was given a lie detector test, that he has attacked nearly 200 women. Authorities investigating his brutal assaults found the test, in the Northwestern crime detection laboratory, unsatisfactory and will give him an additional truth serum test today.

The test, rarely given, will be conducted by Prof. Leonarde Keeler, laboratory director. Later Serraille will be questioned by police about the murder of Miss Minna Dekker in Grand Rapids, Mich., on March 4. She was slain with a hammer, an instrument Serraille sometimes carried.

PRESIDENT ASKS FUNDS TO START NAVY AUXILIARIES

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—Congress received a presidential request today that it appropriate $23,875,000 immediately to begin strengthening the nation's sea and air defenses in accordance with the three-day-old naval expansion act.

The President outlined the intended uses of the fund as follows in a letter to Speaker Bankhead:

For two light cruisers and one airplane carrier, ten auxiliaries and a fleet of small vessels of great speed and maneuverability, $16,500,000.

For nine patrol planes of the latest type, $3,375,000.

For a rigid airship—the first since the Macon and Akron crashed several years ago, $500,000.

For improvements at navy yards, $3,500,000.

The money, scheduled to be included in the second deficiency appropriation bill now pending before the house appropriations committee, would be sufficient only for a start on the new vessels and the dirigible. Unofficial navy estimates placed their ultimate cost at around $115,000,000.

LAKE FOREST TO HAVE 7 TAVERNS NOW; DROPS ONE

Lake Forest, which boasted of eight taverns [allowed to sell beer only], will have only seven after today. The city council last night fixed seven as the maximum permitted after one owner notified Mayor Kent Chandler of his intention to retire.

The council approved the appointment of John C. Mechem, an attorney, as president of the suburb's school board. He will succeed Frederick J. Held, who retired after serving five years. Mechem has been a member of the board for four years. Mrs. Myrtle Rhode, wife of Henry Rhode, city treasurer, was appointed to take his place.

DOOLITTLE PLANE DAMAGED AS HE LANDS IN RAIN

Maj. Jimmy Doolittle yesterday damaged his airplane while making a landing in a blinding rainstorm down the shortest runway at Chicago airport. The machine rolled off the end at the north side of the field and clipped one blade of its three-bladed propeller on rocks and debris. One wing also was damaged. Doolittle was not injured.

EDUCATORS GIVE VARIED VIEWS ON HIGHER LEARNING

1,800 Harvard Alumni Hear Faculty Members.

Four prominent educators last night gave their conceptions of the purposes of higher learning at a symposium sponsored by the Associated Harvard clubs in Orchestra hall. More than 1,800 alumni of that university from all over the country attended.

James Bryant Conant.

The speakers were President James Bryant Conant of Harvard university; two members of his faculty, Prof. Howard Mumford Jones of the English department, and Prof. Harlow Shapley of the college observatory, and President James Phinney Baxter III. of Williams college, a former teacher at Harvard.

Views Vary Widely.

Their views varied widely. One belief expressed is that universities will prosper most by developing their professional courses; another that inculcating in students the desire to know, unencumbered by concern for results, is the proper function of higher education. Other aims put forth were that scholarship should be kept aloof from political concepts of nationalism, and that the student should be kept constantly aware that mastering his chosen field of knowledge is his own problem.

"I wish to imply no scale of values," Dr. Conant said. "Universities are only means for accomplishing certain specific ends, not institutions for turning out the top crust of a vocational aristocracy. The independence of universities must be preserved, but it can be purchased at too high a price if they withdraw too far from the market place and seek to insure the sanctity of the tradition of learning by protective isolation. Only by strengthening the old professions and developing new ones with equivalent standards can the universities hope to contribute to the progress of this nation."

Stresses Inquisitive Instinct.

Prof. Shapley stressed the need for developing the inquisitive instinct—the urge to know, the impersonal curiosity that brings betterment to the world.

"Directed inquiry," he said, "is a bit higher than random research, although we still have individualists who ask for complete freedom in research activities, in speech, in writing, in thinking, in all things—complete freedom in everything, except for others.

Prof. Jones discussed the three political philosophies which divide the western world—fascism, communism, and democracy. He said fascism has an imaginative appeal, Italians being trained to regard themselves as heirs of ancient Rome; the similar Nazi régime rests on race theory, and communism, as preached by Karl Marx, had its source in the metaphysics of Hegel, the German democracy can be traced to the old Stoics, Prof. Jones said.

Assails Nationalism.

"But nationalism is not a fact in nature," he declared. "There is no such thing as a French cloud or American capillary action. A wise and living scholarship is not content with research; it seeks also comprehension, and the freedom to reach comprehension."

Dr. Baxter lauded the progress which has been made in fitting education to the needs of the individual student.

The meeting of the Associated Harvard clubs was the first held in Chicago since 1926. Clarence B. Randall of the class of 1912 presided.

EXPECT TO GIVE SCHOOL PAY CUTS BACK NEXT YEAR

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, said yesterday that if tax collections continue to improve the depression pay cuts of board employés will be entirely restored next year. This will boost the pay roll appropriation in the 1939 budget by $6,963,000, of which $6,413,000 would be added to the instructional cost. The total pay roll for teachers would be $41,213,000 as compared with $34,800,000 in 1938.

Four weeks were cut from the school year in 1932 and school employés salaries were reduced 15 per cent. This year the board was able to restore two weeks to the school year and half of the salary cut. Complete restoration would bring the school year to its normal length of ten months.

3-MAJOR SYSTEM IN CITY SCHOOLS; RIGHT OR WRONG?

Both Sides of Issue Are Set Forth.

[This article is another in a series discussing both sides of controversial issues concerning the administration of Chicago's public school system.]

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

QUESTION: Are Chicago high school pupils being short changed in their education by the three major system of instruction?

THE CHARGE: The usual system of instruction in high schools is to require pupils to study four major subjects each year, a total of sixteen majors during their four year course. Superintendent William H. Johnson instituted in February, 1937, a system under which the majority of pupils in the first two years of high school take only three major subjects. Those in the upper quarter of their class, or those able to pass certain objective tests of learning capacity, are permitted to take four.

The number of credits for graduation, sixteen, is left unchanged, but credits for minor subjects, such as music, drawing, and physical education, are now included in the total.

Subject of Criticism.

This new curriculum has been the subject of criticism by the Citizens Schools committee. The committee has charged that it has the effect of preventing Chicago high school pupils from accumulating enough credits to admit them to leading colleges and universities.

Such universities as Chicago, Northwestern, and Illinois, along with the majority of other institutions in this area, admit high school graduates only if they have fifteen major credits. Under the three major system, a pupil who was not admitted by special rule to taking four majors during his first two years in Chicago high schools would have only fourteen majors. Credits granted for music, art, physical education, and other minor subjects cannot be counted toward this fifteen major total, it is charged.

Under the new curriculum mathematics is made an optional subject for high school pupils. College entrance requirements generally demand two years of mathematics.

Reply to Charges.

THE REPLY: "Critics of the three major system," said Superintendent Johnson, "do not mention the enormous benefits which have accrued to high school pupils under it. The plan was adopted because we found that of every entering class in the high schools, we were losing between 2,000 and 3,000 out of about 25,000 entering before the first semester ended.

"Lighter classwork under the three major plan has virtually stopped those withdrawals, which were bad for the pupils and bad for the school system. In the semester starting last fall, we had only 350 withdrawals.

"Every effort is being made to let every student who has a reasonable chance of doing good work in four major subjects take a course of that weight. Rigid percentage rules have been replaced.

Based On Ability.

"Beginning with the high school freshmen this coming fall, any freshman who seems able to carry four majors, on an evaluation based on his grade school record, his teachers' estimates of his ability and on tests of his learning capacity, will be permitted to do so. After the first semester, it is probable that pupils who make good records in three majors will be allowed to take four.

"It is not true that Chicago high school graduates will be unable to enter colleges or universities because of the three major plan. We have investigated this carefully. The general rule is that any credits allowed toward graduation are acceptable for college entrance. The only exception we have found is at Northwestern university, which does not allow music credits.

"High school pupils intending to enter college can still take mathematics. Making the subject an elective means merely that the vast majority of high school pupils, who do not intend to go to college, are no longer compelled to take the subject."

My Son, My Son!

"Real, satisfying, and fine. I insist that you read it."

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Noted Literary Critic's Novel Skilfully Done

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"My Son, My Son!" by Howard Spring. [Viking, $2.50.] Published Monday.

From England, where it was published as "O Absalom!," had an immense critical acclaim, and leaped immediately into popularity, "My Son, My Son!" comes to the American reading public. It is a novel from the pen of Howard Spring, who is said to have the largest following of any British literary critic.

"My Son, My Son!" is very long [649 pages], very leisurely, highly detailed. It covers most of one lifetime, the narrator's. It begins in an overcrowded and dirty tenement in Manchester and ends with a tragic hanging for murder. But it portrays lives burgeoning with success as well as lives nipped in their youthful blooming. It is a quiet book, with implications speaking louder than words.

It is the story of two men and their children, all of whose lives are happily and tragically interwoven. It is the last sort of book that anybody would call "exciting." And yet it has that strangely compelling quality that can make a vastly long tale seem short, that quality without which a novel, however short, seems dreary. In all of its long, leisurely telling "My Son, My Son!" has a clutch upon the reader's interest, and much of the time upon his heart.

As the book begins, the two who become the fathers are very poor boys. One is a member of a crowded family where there is neither time nor inclination for family affection. He marries for advantage, not for love, and his son comes to a strange and bitter fate. The other, from a loving family group, marries for love mixed with a passion for Irish freedom, and dedicates his son to the cause which filled him so with ardor in his own youth. That son's fate also is bitter, but its bitterness is tinged with glory.

Howard Spring has written here a novel which is not to be forgotten for the artistry and reality of its depiction of human relationships and human impulse.

Thriller Is the Word for This Clever One.

"Hasty Wedding," by Mignon G. Eberhart. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.] Published yesterday.

It is an undercurrent of human impulse, a deep one, that provides the motive for the murders in Mignon Eberhart's latest mystery thriller. And thriller is the word for this intricately dove-tailed plot, which starts with an ill-advised visit the night before her wedding and enmeshes a Chicago heiress until she is so entangled in circumstantial evidence that the reader himself, who knows exactly what happened that ill-fated evening, begins to wonder whether maybe after all she might have murdered the handsome rogue who was bent on preventing her marriage the next day.

Mignon Eberhart has a knack of writing about nice people as murderers without their losing their "niceness," even when they are convincing as murderers. And she always gives her readers a romance that, too, is "nice" and also convincing. Love blooms satisfactorily under extremely distressing and difficult conditions in "Hasty Wedding," and burnishes rather than takes the shine off the skilfully knit plot.

An Exciting Biography Makes Confucius Real.

"Master Kung," by Carl Crow. [Harpers, $3.50.] Published a week ago Thursday.

"Master Kung" is a popular and exciting biography of a man who today numbers 350 millions as his followers, but who died believing himself a failure; of a man in whose life the excitements were those of deep thought, ethical cogitation, and the more comforting than exciting titillations of good wine and good food. "Master Kung" is Confucius, and the believers in his philosophy make up the most populous religion in the world.

Carl Crow, author of "400,000,000 Customers," that entertaining and enlightening book about the Chinese, makes no pretenses to having done a scholarly job in this biography. He has made no discoveries, he declares, and all the material in the book is available to any one who takes the trouble to dig it out.

But he has managed to give to the life of a man who lived 500 years before Christ the immediacy and reality of today. The reader lives Master Kung's days and nights by his side. Neither is the reader removed from the hero by Confucius' deification. It is not the revered Confucius, but the very human, sometimes touchy inhabitant of a land which had no name because for its inhabitants it was the whole world, a man who had definite ideas of right and wrong, who preached a system of ethics which worked so successfully that its very success defeated itself, a man who just plain didn't like women and couldn't bring himself to the exigencies which diplomacy demanded when he had to deal either with a great feudal lord's mistress or with his own wife.

In these pages Confucius is made a plain man of giant stature, not only in the nearly seven feet of his inches but in the breadth of his philosophic and ethical concepts. But at the same time he is very human-hearted indeed. "Master Kung" is written delightfully, with humor and an easy popularity which make its 347 pages seem a short book.

2 Books Give Glimpse Into World Scenes

BY WILL DAVIDSON.

"Glass Houses," by Carleton Beals. [Lippincott, $3.50.]

"Leon Blum: Man and Statesman," by Geoffrey Fraser and Thadee Natanson. [Lippincott, $3.]

The tide of international affairs ebbs and flows with such dramatic frequency these days that the average onlooker has little time to trace its course or to discover the forces that keep it on the move. Welcome then these two books, which give, in quite different ways, an entertaining and valuable background for an understanding of world developments.

Carleton Beals is one of the earlier roaming reporters, and he chose for his wanderings three countries that today are much in the international picture—Mexico, Spain, and Italy.

Determined to make good on Walter Duranty's boast that "I write as I please," even if he starved doing it, Beals set out for Mexico and fame—and just about starved.

At that time, when revolution was the daily ration, when Carranza was tottering and Obregon tittering, Beals found himself teaching English to officers of the general staf and learning about intrigue from them. He was close to Obregon when that general came like a conquering hero into Mexico City; he was close behind Carranza's death haunted fugitive train. He waded chin deep in the torrent of revolt that swept the backward country.

Beals went from Mexico to Spain, reveled in its treasures of art, sensed the coming of decay and disaster, and hastened to Italy. He saw Mussolini enter the throne room of dictatorship and predicted to scoffing journalistic associates that Il Duce would be a factor in world affairs for ten, probably twenty-five years.

Beals writes with engaging ease. "Glass Houses" is one of the better of those travel-biographies that are sometimes classified as the "Look-what-I-did" school of writing.

It is difficult today to write about the premiership of France. Two cabinets may have come and gone by the time these words are printed. But it never is risky to mention Leon Blum in connection with French politics, for as long as he remains active—and, one suspects, for many years after—Blum will be in the thick of the modern French revolution.

Geoffrey Fraser and Thadee Natanson have produced one of the most comprehensive and informative biographies written about a living statesman. They find in Leon Blum a character to admire, yet they make good on their promise not to become hero worshipers. They study the man objectively, and have discovered the many threads of his character.

To Blum's Jewish ancestry they credit his sense of proportion, his sensitive nature, his devotion to the oppressed. To his bourgeois upbringing they attribute his cultural background, his gentility which leavens a fiery spirit of radicalism.

The authors find their sometimes almost effeminate young man thrown into politics by the Dreyfus affair, molded by the wisdom of Jean Jaures, and literally hurtled into the high places by his belief in "united action"—the forerunner of today's Popular Front. They find a realist, and an idealist; a man of action and a philosopher; a revolutionary and a rational socialist. It is a complex character they discover, and they afford the man a place among the few truly great leaders of the post-war period.

The book is an invaluable contribution to the field of biography and to the background literature of today's events.

Looking Over Latest Books

Two Poignant Stories on Same Background.

"Dawn in Lyonesse," by Mary Ellen Chase. [Macmillan, $1.75.]

"End of Cornwall," by Richard Preston. [Vanguard, $2.50.]

It is of Cornwall, the land's end of England, that these two writers speak. As divergent as it is possible for two authors to be, each contributes a superb creation.

"Dawn in Lyonesse" is only 115 pages long, yet in this small compass and the 48 hour time span of action Mary Ellen Chase tells a beautiful and poignant story of two servant women, Ellen and Susan, and the man Derek.

Miss Chase [remember "Mary Peters" and "Silas Crocket"?] writes with the simple but arresting grace and fluidity of a bird's flight. Her story gains solidity through the ancient legend of Tristram's love for the beautiful Iseult. And through the tale of the two lovers, which comes to mean life itself to her, Ellen, the major character, attains dignity and peace in her moment of sorrow. "Dawn in Lyonesse" is as exquisite as a flawless pearl.

No lover's legend, but the grim reality of a decaying and dying land and a decadent people, draws the creative force of Richard Preston in his "End of Cornwall." He sees the beauty of the picturesque countryside, but he feels deeply the gutted earth and its defeated people, scrabbling with their little lives for a foothold on a life that is mean.

It is as impossible not to admire Mr. Preston's driving power, his fresh, vigorous imagination, as it is inevitable to compare him with William Faulkner. Mr. Preston seems to have found so many of his characters by turning over a rotten log buried deep in the teeming dank life of a forest carpet. J. H. F.

Delicately Told Story of Three Old Ladies.

"The Single Hound," by May Sarton. [Houghton-Mifflin, $2.50.]

As delicate and lovely as a bowl of white freesias is this book by a young Belgian girl about three old ladies in Ghent. The three are extraordinary personalities and age has nothing to do with their outlook. They are as young as dawn because in them all flows a great undercurrent of wisdom, tempered by the most delightful sense of humor and the keenest appreciation of all the beautiful small things of life.

In their little school where they teach the very young they have built their own world, their own paradise. Into it one day comes a young man. Torn by conflicting emotions, he has lost his ability to write [he is a poet] and also his way of life.

Doro, Clairette, and Annette, but especially Doro, for she is also a poet, give him back to himself and pass on to him something of the transparency and beauty of their philosophy. E. W.

Bleak Life in Prison Made Real by Novel.

"Each Dawn I Die," by Jerome Odlum. [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.]

Each dawn within the bleak walls of a penitentiary meant just another day of horror and hopelessness to the young newspaper man, hero of this novel. His exposure of political graft had brought down the wrath of the men he accused and they had him framed on a manslaughter charge.

His newspaper associates on the outside were bending every effort for his release, but there was little hope of success. Meanwhile he was thrown in with vicious criminals, who hated the prison guards and plotted to escape—even if escape meant only a few hours of life outside.

There are some thrilling moments in the story, as when one convict makes a dramatic flight from a courtroom where he had been taken for a murder in the prison, and again when the desperate prisoners gamble all in a bloody uprising. Eventually the newspaper man wins vindication in an unexpected way. S. M. K.

HERALDS DAWN OF NEW SAFETY ERA IN AVIATION

High Flying to Cut Toll, Engineers Told.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

A new era in aviation safety is dawning, T. P. Wright, director of engineering for the Curtiss-Wright corporation, told 180 members of the Chicago section, Society of Automotive Engineers, last evening at their annual aviation session at Chicago airport. He spoke at dinner in the Army Air Corps Reserve hangar.

"New understanding of the mechanics of weather, inauguration of regular flight schedules at heights well above all mountains and most storms, and utilization of new radio instruments for communication, for direction finding, and for absolutely blind landings," said Wright, "will prevent most of the accidents which have beset air transportation in the past."

Sealed cabins with comfortable internal pressures will allow planes to be flown in the thin air at high altitudes, he said. Such flying will be common within the year, he predicted, reciting that the Boeing 307 airplane and the Douglas DC-4 airliner both will be equipped for regular flights at heights of from 14,000 to 18,000 feet. Both are scheduled to fly this summer .

Landing Beams Perfected.

"One of the most important contributions to safety has been the development of the ultra high frequency instrument landing systems," he said. "Several engineers have worked out details of this curved radio impulse which can be directed as easily as a beam of light. Pilots will be able to follow these invisible beams to the ground through the densest fog, rain, snow, or dust storms in perfect safety and with confidence."

There have been great strides in the last year, Wright said, in aerodynamics. Engineers have learned how to warp the tips of highly tapered airplane wings to prevent them from losing their lift first at the tips. This loss of lift has caused many a vicious stall and spin. Overcoming the fault, he explained, means that pilots no longer will hesitate to slow fast ships to safe landing speeds.

"We have found, too, that in order to get the utmost in speed we must make our airplanes smooth as glass on wings and hull. The skin friction set up by rivet heads or other irregularities in the surfaces is the greatest single item in pulling down speed," he said. "Rivets must be countersunk or materials must be spot welded."

Speeds Already Near Limits.

Speeds of modern airplanes already are approaching their limits unless some new method of producing lift or propulsion is found, he said. Experiments have shown that at the speed of sound—about 750 miles an hour—air ceases to flow as a fluid and is compressed to a solid. At this speed the airplane wing as is now known would cease to lift.

"We've discovered within the year that the air passing over certain parts of airplanes moving at speeds of 200 miles an hour already is approaching the speed of sound," said Wright. "I refer to the movement of air over certain engine cowlings.

"This air is moving much faster than the airplane. We're trying now to reshape cowlings to cut down this speed. We've also found that the air adjacent to the upper surface of a wing is moving much faster than the airplane. Thus the plane may be moving 400 miles an hour while the airflow over the wing is 700 miles an hour. This flow is the limiting factor."

The size of airplane engines will continue to increase as the size of airplanes increases, he said. The largest engines today are 1,500 horsepower, but there is no reason why 3,000 horse-power or even 4,000 horsepower engines cannot be constructed to the same weight limits as those imposed today.

Urges Further Diesel Study.

Propeller weight, however, increases so rapidly when engine power goes up that propellers ultimately may be the limiting factors in power from a single unit.

Diesel engine research has been sadly neglected in the United States, he declared. This type of engine probably always will give the best fuel economy. The Diesel, burning low grade fuels, eliminates the fire hazard. American engine manufacturers soon will be offering sleeve valve engines which should be improvements over the conventional poppet valve motors now universally used in this country, Wright asserted.

GAHAGAN SEEKS PARDON TO AVOID BRIDEWELL TERM

Attorney Thomas O'Malley Jr. notified the state's attorney's office yesterday that he will petition the board of pardons and paroles to recommend a pardon for Harry W. Gahagan, prominent clubman and head of a real estate firm bearing his name, who was sentenced to twenty days in the Bridewell and ordered to pay a fine of $200 for driving while intoxicated nearly two years ago.

The conviction has been upheld in the Appellate court and the Illinois Supreme court. A petition for a rehearing of the case is now pending in the Supreme court. First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley said the state will oppose a pardon. Gahagan was arrested on June 2, 1936, by a park police squad after a two and a half mile chase through Lincoln park.

TEACHER LOSES SUIT TO FORCE PRINCIPALSHIP

The board of education yesterday won its fight to strike the complaint brought by Lemuel E. Minnis, administrative assistant in the Wells school, in a suit seeking to force the board to certify him as a principal. The suit charged that Minnis was marked to fail in his examination in 1936 by the board's oral examining committee. The suit was one of several attacking the committee's methods of selecting principals.

Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Superior court said in ruling against Minnis that he was influenced by the recent decision of the Illinois Appellate court, which threw out a similar suit filed by Raymond E. Cook of the Hyde Park High school.

MECHANIZED U. S. CAVALRY STARTS WAR MANEUVERS

Forces Commanded from Air in Tennessee.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
(Picture on Back Page.)

Cookeville, Tenn., May 20.—[Special.]—Not since the civil war has this quiet southern countryside been as thrilled by a military spectacle as it now is. The regular army of the United States is on the march. With clocklike precision two reconnaissance troops of seventeen armored cars each cleared the civic center, the official starting point at Fort Knox, at 6:45 this morning.

Fifteen minutes later the main body of the west column composed of headquarters of the 7th cavalry brigade, the 1st cavalry, the first battalion of the 68th field artillery, the ordnance, quartermaster, and medical units, all under command of Col. Bruce Palmer, moved out.

East Column Pulls Out.

The east column under Col. C. L. Scott, composed the rest of the brigade, which is the army's only mechanized cavalry unit, immediately followed. Brig. Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis, from a vantage observation point carefully observed the execution of his orders.

Not until the last unit of the east column cleared the post did he take to the air in his waiting observation plane.

One hour was required for the brigade to get under way. A steady speed of thirty miles per hour was immediately adopted by leading headquarters units, the others following at approximately 100 yard intervals. The total length of the main body, west column was twelve miles.

Keep in Touch by Radio.

The reconnaissance troops, as the advance guard, moved forward about twenty-five miles and deployed machines east and west to cover roads and adjoining country. Radio communications are continually kept up between the reconnaissance troops, the main body, and the commanding general's airplane flying a circle overhead.

Difficulty, however, was encountered when higher hills were reached. The present equipment doesn't seem to function in the mountains. The first day of the movement was marred by an accident to one of the tanks, causing the death of Sergt. Frank Bruno, Troop E, 1st cavalry. One of the treads on the caterpillar flew off, causing the machine to overturn.

With the exception of hourly ten minutes stops and one hour for lunch near Glasgow, a steady pace was kept up. Civilian traffic was controled by a group of motorcycles, whose riders acted as messengers as well. Civil motor police coöperated in furnishing escorts through towns. A few short hard showers fell but otherwise the weather and roads were good.

The winding roads of south Kentucky hills are hard on the rubber caterpillar tread but the casings keep rolling along.

The new mechanized units are powered by two hundred and fifty horsepower radial airplane motors mounted in the rear. The idea is to balance the weight of the machine guns. The maximum speed of the new tanks is about 60 miles per hour. The armored cars other than tanks are equipped with 50 caliber machine guns mounted on the right front.

Describe Routes of March.

The line of march today for the west column followed the new Dixie highway through Elizabethtown, Glasgow and to Cookeville, where the reconnaisance troops arrived at 2 p. m. Other units arrived two hours later.

The east column went through Hodgenville, Columbia, and Somerset to Monticello.

The Twelfth observation squadron took the air at 7 a. m. with orders to reconnoitre the Elizabethtown, Nashville, Chattanooga, and Knoxville areas, paying particular attention to locating black motorized troops in force. Pictures dropped from the air can be developed immediately in a special trailer.

An advance landing field is to be located near the camp of the main column in Cookeville. Gen. Van Voorhis after exploring the territory personally from the air landed at Cookeville and motored back to join his command.

The mechanized cavalry movement is in connection with maneuvers based on the problem of defending the government's gold vault at Fort Knox, Ky.

CORONER'S JURY PUTS BLAME FOR 9 DEATHS ON AIRLINER PILOTS

Los Angeles, Cal., May 20.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today held that the crash of an $80,000 airliner in the Saugus hills was accidental and due to faulty judgment on the part of both the pilot and co-pilot. Nine persons were killed in the crash.

"We recommend," the verdict said, "that all pilots flying planes carrying passengers be instructed by proper authorities and required to fly at 1,000 feet elevation above the highest mountain points on the route being flown when leaving or entering all airports in this area."

Two other major plane crashes have occurred in the Saugus-Newhall hill area in the past two years. The plane wrecked Monday was not on a regular commercial flight but was being ferried to St. Paul via Las Vegas, Nev.

9,630 CHICAGO R. O. T. C. CADETS TO MARCH FRIDAY

Chicago's 9,630 high school cadets of the Reserve Officers Training corps will parade in Michigan avenue next Friday morning in their third annual review.

The review, originally scheduled for yesterday in Soldiers' field, was postponed because of a drenching rain.

Arrangements for next Friday were then made at a conference attended by James B. McCahey, president of the school board; Col. William F. Morrison, head of the high school units; Robert J. Dunham, president of the Park district, and George T. Donoghue, park superintendent.

The high schools and the seventh and eighth grades of the elementary schools will be dismissed Friday morning in time for the students to witness the demonstration.

The parade, to begin at 11:30 a. m., will proceed north on Michigan avenue from Monroe street to Ohio street and then back to the Congress street plaza where THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE colors will be presented to the Tilden Technical High school and Fenger High school R. O. T. C., the top ranking units in the city.

Special trains on the elevated lines, additional coaches on the Illinois Central and Rock Island railroads, and buses will transport the cadets from the twenty-eight high schools to stations near Columbus drive where they will take parade formation before marching west on Monroe street to Michigan avenue.

Michigan avenue, from Roosevelt road to Ohio street, and Columbus drive, from Roosevelt road to Monroe street, will be closed to trafic.

THE WHITE HOUSE REPRISALS.

Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina walked into the senate restaurant the other day and found Senator Theodore Francis Green, Rhode Island Democrat, giving a party for Olin D. Johnston, the South Carolina governor, who has been picked by the White House to succeed the senator. Senator Smith is one of a number of the Democratic leaders in the senate who will be opposed for renomination because they have shown independence and have not complied with the administration demand for feudal submission.

Senator Smith is one of the nine Democrats in that body whose successors have been picked by the White House, principally because they were instrumental in defeating the court packing bill and also because they have been their own men on other demand pieces of legislation. Green of Rhode Island, Gov. Johnston's host, was just off the boat from the presidential week-end, and Johnston was just off the White House steps, where he had announced that he was the one anointed to put Smith in private life and prove that independence would be the ruin of any Democratic leader who had the temerity to set his decisions against White House decisions and his will against the will of authority.

Senator Smith did not ignore the significance of the party at which New England was grooming a species of carpet bagger for a South Carolina seat in the senate, but joined the celebrants long enough to remark, shaking the governor's hand, that he welcomed him to a race in which he would be snowed under. Senator Smith said he would not need a piece of Mr. Roosevelt's coat tail to do this and he wished New England's candidate all the luck he could have while it lasted.

It is not politics of a high order for an administration to try to exterminate party members who have refused to obey orders. It doesn't square with any ideals of democratic representative government. It is gang politics of a disreputable sort, and as applied against the nine Democratic senators it is intended to punish them because in a national emergency they defeated the court packing bill which the Democrats themselves said was of such a nature that it should be defeated so decisively that the like of it never again would be presented to congress.

Among the Democrats, in addition to Senator Smith, who, when they come up for reëlection, are to be opposed by all the easy money and political patronage at the disposal of the administration are Senator George of Georgia, Senator Burke of Nebraska, Van Nuys of Indiana, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Wheeler of Montana, McCarran of Nevada, King of Utah, Connally of Texas, and Hatch of New Mexico.

The people of the states represented have a very serious responsibility resting upon them. If they refuse to support men of character who have resisted the unusual powers the government has in these extraordinary times, they will assist congress along the road to complete degeneracy. It is an unconscionable thing for an administration to make subservience a test of qualification for the senate and to order the political elimination of every man who stands on his own judgment and votes as he thinks for the best interests of the country. If such men are to be driven out of public life for reasons which are all to their credit and are to be supplanted by other men whose only qualification is willingness to vote as told, dictatorship will acquire unquestioned supremacy in Washington and be an actuality.

PAPER BOTTLES FOR MILK.

The paper milk bottle proposal is not one to be ignored. Novelties usually are greeted with skepticism, which is a valuable habit of the mind, but is sometimes misapplied. Some of the greatest inventions have had to fight their way to adoption when there have been vested interests in the status quo. We have not investigated the paper milk bottle as an economic proposition, although it seems likely that it might bring about a substantial saving in the cost of milk distribution.

Our chief interest is in the sanitary aspect of the question. The paper bottle seems to us more sanitary than the glass bottle, especially when the stopper most in use with the latter is employed. This stopper sets into the neck of the bottle, leaving the rim uncovered, but the milk is poured over this rim. The bottles may be well sterilized, but the exposed rim will pick up all sorts of matter as the bottle is carried, handled, and stands on the doorsteps waiting to be taken in. This type of stopper, we think, should be abolished. There is another type of paper stopper which fits over the rim and protects it.

But even if this comes into universal use, as it should, we think the paper bottle is preferable on sanitary grounds to the glass receptacle. The latter must be used repeatedly and this imposes the necessity of repeated washing and handling. We believe the principal milk distributors do this carefully and conscientiously, and our milk supply is remarkably free in recent years from contamination. But it is an expensive proceeding, and the paper bottle, which will be thrown away after one using, would eliminate this expense and whatever danger of contamination is involved in refilling and handling. The paper bottle is designed so that the milk is poured from an inner neck and does not come in contact with the exposed outer part of the bottle.

In short, the substitution of a paper vehicle for the glass vehicle promises both an economic saving and sanitary improvement and deserves an honest trial.

TRADE UNIONISM REJECTS RUSSIA.

The International Federation of Trade Unions, meeting at Oslo, Norway, has voted not to admit representatives of the Russian soviet labor unions. The decision of the international federation was that its affiliation with the Russian workers would be inconsistent with democracy. Matthew Woll, the American delegate, who is vice president of the American Federation of Labor, said that his organization could not coöperate directly or indirectly with the Russians. At a previous meeting of the federation there was a question whether Woll himself would be accepted because of the opposition of communistically inclined delegations. The decision now is entirely against the Russians.

The soviet trade unions exist in form but not in substance. Theoretically they have the right of collective bargaining. In fact they are entirely subject to decree. Their wages, their conditions of work, their terms of employment are all determined by the political bureau of which Stalin is the head. They have no freedom in any sense as it is understood by trade unionism elsewhere, and the term "dictatorship of the proletariat" means dictation to the proletariat.

Each industrial unit is controled and each is dominated by political agents called activists, who are political spies able to terrorize an entire group by sending in reports, false or overzealous, singling out men as disaffected or worse, as wreckers, saboteurs, and terrorists. Something is known of the purges which liquidate the bolshevist leaders, high officials, and old party members, but the terror as it strikes among the workers and the obscure members of the soviet society is for the most part hidden.

Trade unionism as the delegates to the international meeting know it can have no existence whatever under the Russian dictatorship, which only mocks the laborer by giving him some of the forms used in organized labor and calling his collective activities by the same names. Some of the Russian workers may still be deceived by doctrines which tell them that they are making the sacrifice necessary to the emancipation of labor from capitalistic exploitation, but to believe that their minds must accomplish a triumph over conditions imposing a wage slavery which is absolute.

In the United States the communists have made good in the C. I. O., and although some of the Lewis organizers and affiliated leaders, such as Homer Martin and David Dubinsky, have tried to get them out, it has been with no success. The whole trend of European politics as it has sought to glorify the state, meaning a single man, has been to deprive the worker of the rights which have been won in democratic countries, and to deprive him of any chance of advancement through organization and collective bargaining.

Labor in Italy and Germany is not much better off than it is in Russia, but affiliation with the Russian system would be an indorsement of coercion, not as an incident of a personal dictatorship but as a part of the doctrin of society. The delegates saw no way in which they could divorce association with Russian workers from acceptance of Stalin and they declined to give communism such support as they would had they admitted the Russian labor organization into their ranks as competent to carry out the policies to which trade unionism is dedicated.

FOOD AND THE RAILWAYS.

Advertising, though it has not reached the heights of enterprise and artistry attained in the United States, is not neglected in France and we are informed that the press agentry of its government is just now giving attention to the merits of food on the French railways. A congenial topic in a country where cuisine is one of the fine arts and not without interest for the impending tourist invasion.

We suggest that the topic has suggestion for American railroad managements. In spite of the relatively inferior place the art of cooking occupies among American interests, we do not lack appreciation of good food, and some American food is as worthy of fame as any in the world. It has been celebrated, at least within our own borders, in song and story and well deserved it. But although some very good food is served on certain American railways—to avoid injustice we will not specify—it has seldom been exploited in the advertising campaigns of the railways. There have been contests where lines were sharply competitive and custom has been won by this means. The western lines on the whole are well ahead of the eastern, to say nothing of the southern. But advertising tactics have on the whole neglected this possibility Now that the motor has brought new competition to the rail good meals surely are among the reasons for preferring train travel. In many regions far better food is found in the diners than any hotel or restaurant provides.

Railroads are making extraordinary improvements in the speed, comforts, and attractions of train travel and the attractions of good food should be exploited in the competitive struggle The American public will respond, for neglectful as we are, in comparison at least to the French and the Chinese, of the art of cookery, American taste has great possibilities and the American palate is not ungrateful.

Editorial of the Day

TAGALOG.

[Boston Herald.]

President Quezon has decreed that out of the eighty-seven Malay dialects of the Philippines, Tagalog shall be the national language and supersede English and Spanish, now commonly used. The Manila municipal council tried to hold a meeting in Tagalog, but nobody could speak the language in its purity. It was necessary to compromise. Filipinos speak English for the most part, with Spanish taking second place, but it is steadily falling into disuse.

Experience elsewhere and in other eras has shown that it is difficult to suppress one language and establish another by executive fiat. The most famous illustration is the attempt of the Norman conquerors of England to abolish Anglo-Saxon. Imperial Germany tried in vain to abolish Polish in Posen and Danish in Schleswig, and who can forget "La Derniere Classe"? Nor have Mussolini's efforts to Italianize the South Tyrol been successful.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg U.S. Pat Office

ANOTHER HITLER STORY concerns the occasion when he sat with Goebbels and Goering figuring on the next German move. The name of a small neighboring country was mentioned. "That," decided Hitler, "is the next territory we shall take over." "Ah, yes," smiled Goering, "that is God's country." "Never mind," said Hitler impatiently. "Send him the usual ultimatum."

C'est la Vie.

A resident of Tomah, Wis., named Katie McCaul, sat in a popular north side dining bar the other evening and saw Mrs. Charley Grimm, sitting with her husband, send over for Clifton Webb's autograph. And the baseball fans at Katie McCaul's table were dying for Charley Grimm's autograph.

JUST FOR A CHANGE.

The poets, my beloved, appraised en masse,
When they take up the pen to write of love,
Too often start their stanzas with "Alas,
Now you are gone," or "I am dreaming of Delights long past," and weight their verse with sighs
Concerning bliss still-born or quickly dead.
May time assuage their breasts and dry their eyes
While they impose their griefs upon the head
Of whomsoever reads! But here's a bard
Who sings of love that's thrived these many years,
Who, though she takes romance fully as hard
As those who spot their manuscripts with tears,
Now lightly states love did right by one poet

Aerial and Burial Vault Note.

A snappy little blue and yellow plane was among the private ships flying mail into Chicago Friday. Spectators at the field read the sign in big letters on the side, "Water Proof Burial Vaults" . . . and shuddered a little. The flyer was Wilbert J. Haase, owner of the plane and of the burial vault company, and he was bringing 150 pounds of mail, including 4,700 letters he had got out himself. His own letters were to undertakers located between Chicago and the Atlantic coast. Asked what he used his plane for other days, Mr. Haase explained that he used it to entertain his customers.

My research department indicates that 90 per cent of the girls spend 90 per cent of their time, their thoughts, and their effort on themselves, so why shouldn't they look the sweet and lovely things they do. . . . Men do not concentrate on their appearance because they spend 90 per cent of their time and thoughts and effort on the same thing that 90 per cent of the girls do, if you understand me.

IT'S BURNETT SHRYOCK'S STORY. True, he says. Two drunks were driving from St. Louis to Herrin, Ill. The driver dozed off and gently hit the curb as they came in to Marissa, Ill. His companion came to and inquired where they were. "Dunno," answered the driver, "but if you're sleepy I'll drive."

"Speed Flash."

Journalists have been dramatized on the stage ("The Front Page," "The Racket," "Five Star Final"), on the screen ("Okay, America," "Gentlemen of the Press"), and in radio (Fayette Krum's "Girl Alone"). Now it's the news photographer's turn. A Chicago girl, Kay Hall Sessions, has written a radio series called "Speed Flash," in which the heroes are two newspaper photographers. It is a knowing, humorous sequence, revealing the kind of amiable insolence that characterizes most newspaper photogs and showing the objective, light vein in which they view their work; that they do hard jobs well, but without the self-conscious heroics of most dramatizations.

SAMPLE CONVERSATION in "Speed Flash," which deals with the arrival in America of the queen of Lovania and her daughter, the Princess Lilya:

Spike (one of the photogs)—"I just tipped off the princess that the reporters were out to play the angle that she may hoof it with a lot of fresh."

Reporter—"But is it not true, your majesty, that there is a possibility your daughter may marry an American?"

Queen (with languid artifice)—"Ah, who can say when love will strike in the hearts of the young?"

Brad (the other photog)—"Hitting paydirt might have somethin' to do with it."

Spike—"That's streamlinin' 'em, queen. Now will you move over just a little closer to the mayor if you want to get in on this picture? And, princess, would you lift your skirt just a trifle?"

Brad—"Hey, that's enough! This ain't Minsky's."

When the photographer has finished photographing the visiting queen and the princess he calls into the office: "Hello, bebbey. Gimme that wrong guy on the desk. Hello, Eddie. Say, Eddie, I'm cleaned up on the queen. . . ."

EARLY ATTENTION ESSENTIAL IN CROSSED EYE.

ALTHOUGH the term "squint" sometimes is used to describe other situations, such as the habit of closing the eyes partially in the sun, the word really means that the eyes do not "track." There is a lack of parallelism between the two optics. Consequently the victim becomes accustomed to utilize one for accurate vision while the other turns either in or out. The owner really suppresses, by a peculiar mental process, the function of the crossed eye, otherwise he would see double.

The commonest form of this weakness is that in which one ocular organ turns inward. As a rule this is due to farsightedness, which calls for an extra effort on the part of the internal adjusting machinery. Eagerness to discover an object is followed by the turntable action. The vision of one eye is often congenitally defective, but in many instances, however, it is good in both, but because of lack of coördination, only one can be used at a time.

It is important that children with crossed eyes be taken to a physician early. By the use of drops and a type of examination known as retinoscopy the refractive error can be accurately estimated in those as young as 1½ to 2 years. Fifty per cent of the patients of this age can be relieved by proper lenses; in fact, improvement is often brought about by covering the good one for hours at a time. The vision may be made practically normal in some cases if treatment is begun soon enough. Later, when the development of the eye is complete, this is no longer possible.

If the wearing of glasses is not sufficient to correct the squint, exercises designed to stimulate the power to combine the images are often of value. Surgery, however, may be demanded, but this is usually postponed until the child is from 4 to 7 years old while other measures are being tried. Such procedures do not affect the vision in any way but, if properly performed, are practically always successful in straightening the eyeball. Conservative methods are generally followed and, because of this, more than one session may be necessary. Sometimes observation and treatment will need to be continued for a considerable period, but if given careful attention all uncomplicated crossed eyes should be made straight.

When an eye turns outward, the effect of glasses is not so satisfactory. Here more dependence must be placed on exercises, and surgery more often is required. Again, the eye which turns out may afford low vision, which may be helped only if the condition is treated promptly. Later, the eyes can be made straight, but the vision is rarely strengthened and the power of using both together [binocular vision] may not be recovered.

There is one consoling fact about squint that may be remembered—namely, that on the whole the vision of one eye is normal or nearly so, and is not affected by the squint of its fellow. In other words, the disorder does not make the patient blind or incapacitate him for any kind of work except that requiring especially accurate sight. Such occupations include employment as aviators and admission into some departments of the army and the navy. Railroads are also coming to insist more on good binocular eyesight on the part of engineers.

The kind of squint just described is that ordinarily observed. There are crossed eyes due to paralysis of one or more of the muscles which move the eyeball. This has nothing to do with errors of refraction, is seldom rectified by glasses, and is less amenable to surgery, although much aid can be obtained. Examination by a skilled physician is advisable to distinguish between the two types of squint, as "what to do" must be decided wisely.

SIGNS OF DIABETES.

B. C. writes: 1. What are the early symptoms of diabetes?

2. Is death ever caused by this disease alone?

3. What is the significance of black specks before a person's eyes who already wears glasses, but only when reading or sewing?

REPLY.

1. Excessive thirst and a profuse output of urine.

2. If untreated, yes.

3. If these dots move about they are usually of little moment. If they are fixed, have the kidneys, heart, and circulation gone over thoroughly by a skilled physician.

LOOK FOR CLEWS.

A. B. writes: I am troubled with insomnia. Counting sheep, drinking hot milk, and other measures do not work. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY.

Insomnia—as a rule—may be traced to emotional disturbances, though there may be a physical cause, such as high blood pressure. The origin may be sins of commission, such as stimulation with coffee before retiring. Each patient usually has to be his own detective. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for leaflet detailing suggestions.

ELASTIC STOCKING HELPS.

A. C. R. writes: What is the best way to prevent a recurrence of phlebitis? I had this trouble 12 years ago and now, since financial conditions make it necessary for me to be on my feet a great deal, I am bothered with a continual discomfort in the thigh and lower limb.

REPLY.

Phlebitis means inflammation of a vein and, in many cases, the cause is an infection. An elastic stocking will afford substantial relief. This may be made in two or three parts, extending from the middle of the lower leg upward along the thigh. Your physician can procure the apparatus for you.

IS PELVIS AFFECTED?

C. E. writes: I have heard that any one who has had a spinal injury cannot bear children. Is this true?

REPLY.

Unless there is some deformity of the pelvis or of the pelvic organs, childbearing should be normal.

SUCH LACK UNLIKELY.

G. E. writes: Is there apt to be a deficiency of lime in the bones of elderly persons? If so, how can it be avoided?

REPLY.

Increase, rather than deficiency, of calcification is a natural characteristic of old age.

LADY, BE KIND!

Chicago, May 18.—I have just returned from trying to sell—at the back door—for one of the oldest firms in Chicago. I wish you would print this for some of our so-called "ladies" to read. I knock on the back door. Usually the maid answers and the lady of the house [this in a better class neighborhood] not knowing what is offered for sale, almost invariably says "No." The least she could do is to show the man respect by giving him two minutes of her time, and then if she can't use anything, say no. Any real salesman [and I don't mean a peddler] will thank her for her time.

Lady, for goodness sakes, don't lose sight of one pertinent fact. The man at the door is a human being, not a dog to be kicked around. He is working for a living the same as your husband. He is sometimes on a salary, but more often on a commission basis. He sees anywhere between fifty and one hundred people a day. Climbs anywhere between one and two thousand stairs daily and at the end of the day is probably twice as tired as you are. Yet he must have an erect bearing, the perpetual smile, and must always be cheerful, regardless of the fact that he has made no sales or ten sales when he sees you.

Please, lady, make the back door salesman's life a bit more pleasant by greeting him with a smile or being as polite to him as you would expect him to be. He will appreciate it regardless of the fact that you buy something or not. Thank you. A BACK DOOR SALESMAN.

ENOW OR ENOUGH?

Chicago, May 20.—The suggestion of Arthur F. Jones that "gh" should be pronounced "f" is borne out in "Macbeth" in the well known lines:

Lay on, Macduff,
And damn'd be him that first cries
"Hold, enough!"

But in the "Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam" we have found:

A book of verses underneath the bough
A jug of wine, a loaf of bread, and thou
Beside me singing in the wilderness
And Wilderness is Paradise enow.

Does anybody know if in early days there was a "gh" on the end of "thou"? JOHN LOCK.

WHY, MR. ORR?

McHenry, Ill., May 16.—Your cartoon of today, "World Without Honor," is very good indeed, but why, O why did Mr. Orr forget Uncle Sam with a bag containing the grabs of Hawaii, the Panama Canal Zone, the Philippines, Cuba, Porto Rico, and all that came from Mexico? FRED WERNER.

A CAUTIOUS GENERATION.

Chicago, May 15.—Alimony-seeking ex-wives are making it difficult for us girls to get husbands. Eligible young men don't relish the thought that some day they might be asked to pay for a dead horse. To encourage matrimony, the alimony racket should be abolished.

AND THERE THEY HAVE A DRIVERS' LICENSE.

Chicago, April 17.—This is my first year in Chicago as a car driver, so pardon my ignorance if I am presuming to cite little Grand Rapids, Mich., where they don't expect the drivers of autos to spend days in line trying to get their cars tested and a safety sticker put on the windshield. This is the way it is done in the furniture capital of America: Representative garages are given safety stickers and will test your car, take the number of your drivers' license, put it on the sticker, paste it on the windshield, and presto: out you go. No waste of time for yourself or for the police officers who are needed for their regular duties. O. H. T.

ADVICE TO CRITICS OF WPA.

Chicago, May 17.—If the person who signs himself Izaak Walton Jr. and all other contributors to your interesting department who are antagonistic to WPA would put their wits together they would probably have the mental capacity of one WPA laborer who knows that doing $150 worth of labor for $55 a month would make him eligible for the psycopathic ward. J. HOLCOMB.

GOOD WORD FOR DR. CUTTER.

Chicago, May 18.—I want to express my appreciation of the writings of Dr. Irving Cutter. They show a fine knowledge of his subject, clearly and interestingly given. His personal replies have been also very satisfactory, indicating a true spirit of real desire to serve.

WASTING THEIR TIME.

Madison, Wis., May 17.—In my opinion business men of the country are just wasting their time offering to coöperate with the President about this depression which he made. The political demagogue has found out that baiting business and industry is a great vote getter.

A fellow out in Iowa got to the United States senate for a dozen years by simply using the great railroad industry as his political stock in trade. Nothing was too vicious or rabid for him to say against them. The railroads are now politically strangled to death and as a consequence a million railroad men and men of allied trades are out of jobs.

C. J. M.

A SATISFIED MOTORIST.

Chicago, May 16.—Why do the people kick about the crowded auto testing lanes? The last two times I had my car tested I did not have to wait over 15 minutes.

The motorist who waits until he or she is forced to have the car tested by police is the one who is kicking. The police should put on a campaign and stop every motorist with broken tail and head lamps or any car that looks unfit to operate on the streets. I see a lot of them every day. A lot of the motorists don't take time to have their cars repaired. L. O.

CONTRACT PURCHASE.

Chicago, May 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About two years ago I bought a house. I paid $850 cash and the remainder was $850 on contract and $1,500 first mortgage. I have finished paying the contract.

1. What papers should I receive from seller showing I paid it? I am now going to pay the mortgage on a monthly basis. This transaction is handled by a real estate office. I would like to know [2] if the first mortgage should be receipted as I make my payments. The real estate man claims a receipt from him is sufficient.

3. I don't believe it is, as he does not hold the mortgage.

4. What would keep the party who holds the mortgage from selling it for $1,500 after I had paid some of my payments?

5. Is there any way I can get a receipt that would guarantee my safety?

G. E. W.

1. Your rights depend on the wording of your contract.

2. As we understand it, you have paid your contract down to the point where you are to receive a deed and give a new mortgage for the balance of the price. If these are the facts, then obviously the new mortgage will not be "receipted."

3. If you are making payments on a mortgage, you should see that each payment is indorsed on the note to which it relates. If the broker does not have the notes in his possession, you should not pay the money to him.

4. You would be running this risk.

5. Only by insisting on the notes being in the possession of the person to whom you pay and that your payments be indorsed.

It is nearly always advisable for a purchaser of real estate to employ an attorney throughout, and we advise you to employ one now.

COTTON ACREAGE CUT IS BLOW TO SHARE CROPPERS

Many Forced to Work by Day at Low Wages.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lagrange, Ga., May 20.—[Special.]—Share croppers and tenants are being driven out of business and forced to work for low daily wages as a result of the practical operations of the government's AAA crop control program in many of the hilly sections of Alabama, according to Thomas W. Oliver, who owns and operates a 1,600 acre plantation seven miles east of Montgomery, Ala.

Worried over the outcome of the cotton curtailment plan, Mr. Oliver said:

"We had been told that the new farm law would be of great benefit to the share croppers and tenants of the south, but I am afraid it is going to produce the opposite results here in the rougher sections of central Alabama, where our yields of corn, oats, and similar crops are so low we cannot raise them profitably on the land we have taken out of cotton.

Calls Cotton Cut Too Drastic.

"We need help from the government, but it does not look good to me to see so many of our Negroes being forced to quit raising cotton as share croppers and tenants. The amount of cotton the government will permit them to raise this year is so small in many cases that they just cannot make a go of it," he said.

Mr. Oliver thinks that the idealistic theory of the AAA planners to save the soil and build up fertility is worth while, especially since farmers are producing too much cotton. But he explained that the cut is so drastic the share croppers and tenants, who usually operate on a small scale, cannot quickly readjust their cropping program and raise more corn, oats, hay, fruits, and vegetables on the land taken out of cotton.

"Owners and operators of the larger plantations are in a much better position to diversify their crops than are the average share cropper and tenant," Mr. Oliver explained. "This plan is forcing many of the smaller farmers to give up and work for the big plantation owners."

Overhead Costs Are Fixed.

Oliver and some of his neighbors who operate on a fairly large scale are faced with the same difficulties found throughout the cotton states—they all have fixed overhead costs that go on despite the heavy cut in cotton acres. He has been planting about 1,060 acres of cotton. This year his first allotment notice gave him the privilege of raising only 375 acres. Later amendments to the farm law increased his allotment to 530 acres.

This still left him with just as many mules, machinery, and men as he used last year in handling a much larger cotton acreage. He has solved some of his troubles by renting more land on other farms fifteen miles away from his home plantation, giving him a total of 650 acres of cotton this year. Since the allotments go with the individual farm units, he was forced to load tractors on his trucks and haul them to and from the rented farms, adding to operation costs.

This extra expense could have been avoided if the entire 650 acres could have been raised on his own plantation. "Another unfair part of the AAA plan is that the men who plan our planting program in Washington are not familiar with our local conditions," said Mr. Oliver. "Why, in some cases they have allotted some farmers more cotton acres than they want to plant, while others could use more than they are allotted. Some farmers in this district have allotments they will not use this year."

Will Raise 500 Acres of Corn.

"It is going to be difficult for many farmers in my neighborhood to adjust their plantations to suit the government men. Our land, in many cases, is not suitable for the growing of grain and hay crops, or for pasture crops."

This year Oliver, typical of other planters in his section of Alabama, will raise 500 acres of corn, 100 acres of peanuts, and 200 of oats. Oats and peanuts are being grown for sale. Most of the corn will be ground into meal and rationed out to the seventy-five families of Negroes, a total of 240 men, women, and children. Some of the corn will be fed to the thirty mules used in cultivating the crops.

Oliver says it will be difficult to get the diversified farming program adopted in his section because many of the share croppers and tenants are not interested in raising anything but cotton. Years ago, he said, the Negroes had a fence around their cabins and garden and truck patches, but they seemed to have lost interest in growing vegetables for home use. They have little interest in their homes. Some of them pull the shingles and weatherboard off their cabins and use them for kindling. As soon as their week's work is over they straddle a mule and ride away to town. To save his mules Oliver is trying out a plan of loading the Negroes into a truck on Saturday nights and hauling them into town.

Prefer to Work by Day.

Oliver gave several other reasons why the live stock raising plan, advocated by the government, will not be a success with many of the share croppers and tenants. He finds that there is a tendency for more and more of them to be satisfied to dodge the responsibility of handling farms; they would rather work by the day for the larger planters.

Returns of the planters are so low that they are paying low daily wages.

"I pay my day workers 60 cents a day," said Mr. Oliver. "I'm sorry that conditions are now such that I cannot pay more. A few years ago I paid from 75 cents to $1.25 a day."

Mr. Oliver said it was necessary for him to comply with the government cotton acreage allotment plan to collect his federal money. The government still owes Oliver $7,000 on his 1937 crop. If he had not complied, Oliver would not only have lost the $7,000 but also this year's government checks.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: "I'm Stupid"

BERNSTEIN PINKS COLLEAGUE; WINS DUEL OVER SLURS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 20.—Edouard Bourdet, French dramatist and administrator of the Comedie Francaise, lost his first duel today, a four minute affair with Henry Bernstein, also a playwright. In the glare of a noontide sun [since both overslept and missed a scheduled appointment at dawn] they lunged and jabbed at one another with epees until Bourdet was pinked in the right arm.

Then, in strict conformance to the dueling code, Jean Joseph Renaud exerted his authority as director of the encounter and declared honor had been satisfied. He overruled Bourdet's demand that the fight continue, since he was not seriously hurt.

Writers Are Unreconciled.

The two antagonists tramped away without shaking hands, their quarrel apparently unsettled. They had not been on good terms for years, but the immediate cause of their controversy was Bernstein's action in withdrawing his entire repertoire from the Comedie Francaise, the French national theater. His reason was the charge that Bourdet had sabotaged his play "Judith" in rehersal.

Sharp letters were exchanged, in which the term "lies" was used. A challenge to duel followed.

Bernstein, who now has nine duels on his record, was adjudged the injured party, and given the right to choose weapons. He selected epees [three sided, sharply pointed swords without cutting edges].

Police Look Around.

The duel took place in the Fauchot-Magnon estate near Neuilly, a Paris suburb. Such encounters are illegal, but the antagonists and their seconds were not stopped. A lone policeman met them at the estate's gate and told them he had orders against their entering. They pushed him aside. When the duelists had gone away, a number of policemen appeared and looked about the dueling ground. Then they, too, went away.

Though they are bound under the dueling code to drop their immediate controversy, Paris acquaintances of Bernstein, who is 62 years old, and Bourdet, who is 51 years of age, predicted a new disagreement.

M'CARTHY TO BE ON SPECIAL BILL MONDAY EVENING

He'll Help on Swedish Tercentenary.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Charlie McCarthy is scheduled to make one of his rare radio appearances off his own Sunday evening hour at 8 p. m. Monday on WLS-NBC, when a special Swedish-American tercentenary salute is scheduled. Last time Charlie had an extra-curricular date on the air—with Jack Benny it was—they never came through and there was a lot of complaint to radio departments of newspapers as well as NBC. Seems a Hollywood producer was making a speech in tribute to Louis B. Mayer at the time the broadcast was scheduled and wouldn't yield the floor to the comedians.

This time McCarthy appears to be set. Edgar Bergen, who comes of Swedish forbears, will have something to say also. And his mother may be prevailed upon to contribute a few words. There are persistent reports that McCarthy's sponsors are negotiating to bring W. C. Fields back to the Sunday evening McCarthy sessions. He may be brought in just before McCarthy and Bergen go on a two weeks' vacation in July—and carry on during their absence.

Now that the University of Chicago Round Tablers have moved to a Sunday evening period [9:30 p. m., WMAQ] they have constructed a new table—but it isn't round. For seven years they sat around a square table and now they have a three cornered one. Wonder what King Arthur would say about that?

Specially built for their requirements this table has a side for each speaker. It is a low pyramid with the top sliced off. A "billiard ball" nondirectional type microphone stands in this hollow center.

On each side is a set of colored lights which blink warnings of two minutes, then one minute and finally 10 seconds before air time.

Walter Flandorf, organist at the Peoples church and director of the Mundelein college glee club has joined the W-G-N staf. He is heard at the organ Sundays and Mondays when Leonard Salvo is off. . . . Other W-G-N additions are: Armand Roth, violinist, formerly with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, to Henry Weber's orchestra, and Peter Eagle, harpist, who will be heard with Harold Stokes as well as the concert orchestra.

The Frank R. McNinch award—a placque suitably engraved—for best coöperation with the postoffice department in promoting national air mail week is to be given to WBBM. This station's promotional department, under direction of Hal Burnett, dispatched a blank transcription around the world and had special salutes to the air mail anniversary recording at various stops en route, winding up with the voices of Postmaster Kreutgen and Postmaster General James A. Farley.

2 BABY BROTHERS DIE IN DAY FROM DREAD MALADY

About 24 hours after his baby brother died of diphtheria Jasper Giambalvo, 3 years old, died of the disease in County hospital yesterday morning. They were the only children of Phillip and Esther Giambalvo, 1523 Ohio street.

The course of the disease was swift in each case. The children became slightly ill Tuesday. On Wednesday night the younger, Frank, 22 months old, was playful. The next morning he died in the home before a family physician arrived.

Jasper was sent to the hospital that afternoon. Desperately ill by the time he arrived, he did not respond to antitoxin. A tracheotomy was performed early yesterday, a tube being inserted in the throat after minor surgery, to allow the child to breathe. He died shortly afterward of the acute toxic infection of the disease.

Wife of Thomas McGuire, Steel Executive, Is Dead

Mrs. Irene McGuire, wife of Thomas C. McGuire, treasurer of the Interlake Iron corporation, died yesterday in the Jackson Park hospital after a fire department rescue squad worked almost four hours in a vain effort to save her life. Her physician, Dr. A. E. Wuesteman, said Mrs. McGuire suffered an abdominal hemorrage in her home at 6931 Crandon avenue, Thursday afternoon. She was 34 years old. Funeral services will be held today at 11 a. m. in St. Philip Neri church. Burial will be in Cleveland, O.

Ervin Hirsch, Broker, Stricken by Heart Attack

Ervin Hirsch, 41 years old, an insurance broker, with offices at 175 West Jackson boulevard, suffered a fatal heart attack last night while playing handball in the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street. TWO ON TUGBOAT SAVED AFTER GAS STRIKES IN LAKE

Something they couldn't fight struck down two men on the tug Mayfair last night—exhaust gas. Capt. Chester Barnes of South Chicago was fortunate. He fell through the pilot house doorway and fresh breezes revived him three and a half miles out of Waukegan. Crawling back into the pilot house, he dragged out Walter Bruszer, of 3360 East 91st street, the owner. Barnes could not revive him.

Cutting adrift the scow of building materials they were towing from Chicago, Barnes raced the tug to Waukegan. But he shook his head when Dr. H. Floyd Cannon reached the dock with Patrick Gavigan and Howard Garnant of the fire department rescue squad, and Roy Edwards and Arthur Opal of the police accident prevention bureau.

For 30 minutes the men worked over Bruszer with an inhalator. Then he stirred. They took him to the Dowst emergency hospital, where he was recovering early today.

COUNTY HOSPITAL WORKERS OPPOSE PHYSICAL TESTS

Protests made by county employés against physical examinations ordered for women working in the laundry at the County hospital were laid before Clayton Smith, president of the county board, yesterday. The objectors charged that the examinations might cause the dismissal of elderly women who have worked in the hospital laundry from twelve to fifteen years in the hope of obtaining a pension after completing twenty years' service.

The very ailments and afflictions that might cause their dismissals have been contracted while working in the hospital laundry, one complainant charged.

Smith replied that the examinations are part of a plan to put the hospital employés under civil service. Eight employés out of 400 have been laid off, but they were all temporary workers, he said.

ETTELSON WILL FILED; ESTATE IS LEFT TO WIDOW

The will of Samuel A. Ettelson, former corporation counsel and widely known attorney, was filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Although Mr. Ettelson's will mentions only $20,000 in personal property and an undetermined amount of real estate, his brother, Leonard, said the real estate probably would amount to more than $100,000. Mr. Ettelson died May 9 at the age of 64 years.

The bulk of the estate is left to the widow, Mrs. Amy B. Ettelson. In addition, she is requested to give $2,500 to charities of her choosing. A sister, Mrs. Bertha Cronson of the Windermere hotel, is bequeathed an income of $300 a month for life. Mr. Ettelson also left $2,500 to Mrs. Lulu Misch, 8005 South Sangamon street, his secretary, and $1,000 to a cousin, George Phillips, also of the Windermere hotel.

ARNOLD WALTHER OF U. C. ORIENTAL INSTITUTE IS DEAD

Dr. Arnold Walther, assistant professor of Hittite at the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago since 1930, was found dead yesterday in his room at 5405 Woodlawn avenue. After the war, in which he served as a private in the German army, he did research work on Hittite texts at the Berlin museum. The statue, which is being completed by the Lorado Taft associates, will be placed on a site to be designated by the park district. It is now at the Taft studio, 6016 Ingleside avenue. The statue will be donated to the city of Chicago upon completion.

IT'LL BE COSTLY TO REPEAT VISIT TO EX-HUSBAND

Visiting her former husband's home will be an expensive pastime in the future for Mrs. Beverly Slaw, 28 years old, a cabaret dancer who recently returned from Hollywood. Judge John V. McCormick of the Women's court placed her under peace bonds of $500 yesterday.

The ex-husband, Charles, who is a pharmacist, found Mrs. Slaw in his kitchen at 4416 North Whipple street Thursday evening. She was wearing a kimono and eating potato salad. When Slaw ordered her out she told him to "Go pound a pill."

Slaw asked the police for help and Policewoman Bessie McShane responded. Mrs. Slaw was at first obdurate about dressing, but weakened when the policewoman told her she'd be taken as she was. She wore riding breeches to court yesterday.

DAIRY IN MILK UNION WAR ASKS CONTEMPT WRIT

Presenting twenty-four affidavits from store owners and truck drivers charging intimidation by the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, local 753, attorneys for the Meadowmoor Dairy, 1334 South Peoria street, appeared yesterday before Judge James J. Fardy and asked that he order the union to show cause why it should not be held in contempt.

The affidavits charge that milk deliveries are hampered, that trucks are dumped, and stench bombs are thrown into stores that handle the dairy's products. Attorney Joseph Roach urged that immediate relief be granted.

On the plea of Attorney David Riskind for the union that he be given time to file an answer, Judge Fardy set a hearing for June 21. The state's attorney's office is investigating the milk war.

Helen Bell to Be June Bride of Englishman

BY JUDITH CASS.

ADDED to the list of June weddings is that of Miss Helen Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell of Winnetka, and Geoffrey de Freitas of London, England, which is to take place on June 22 in Christ church, Winnetka.

The ceremony will take place in the chapel at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, with the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard officiating. Only the families and a few close friends will hear the service, and the same small group will go to the Bell home to drink a toast to the bride and bridegroom.

Miss Frances Bell will be her sister's only attendant. Kellogg Fairbank Jr., a cousin of Miss Bell, will be best man.

Mr. de Freitas is arriving in Winnetka early next week to meet his fiancée's parents and to stay with them until after the wedding. He and his bride will go to Barbados, in the British West Indies, to visit his parents, Sir Anthony and Lady de Freitas, before sailing to England to make their home in London.

Miss Elizabeth Boyden Becomes Bride in Paris.

Paris in the spring has an enchantment all its own and it must have held a double enchantment for Miss Elizabeth Boyden and Frederick Stanley Howes, who were married there yesterday.

Miss Boyden, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William C. Boyden of Winnetka, went to Germany last June to study psychology and since March she has been touring Europe.

Mr. Howes, who is a member of the department of electrical engineering at McGill university in Toronto, is on sabbatical leave and has been traveling abroad for the last few months. It was when he and Miss Boyden, who have known each other for four or five years, met in Paris that they decided to be married at once rather than to wait until they came back to this country.

Mr. Howes and his bride will spend a few days in London visiting friends and return to America on June 3. They will visit Dr. and Mrs. John H. Finley in New York for a few days and then go to Cambridge, Mass., to see Mrs. Howes' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Magoun. June 9 will see Mr. and Mrs. Howes in Chicago, where they will stop for a visit with her brothers, William C. and Preston Boyden, and the former's wife. After Sept. 1 they will be at home in California for the remaining months of Mr. Howes' sabbatical year.

Miss Jane Hart Will Become Bride Tonight.

Of the weddings on today's calendar, two are taking place out of town, and one in Highland Park, that of Miss Jane Hart, daughter of Mrs. George B. Hart, to John H. Harmon Jr., son of the John H. Harmons. It will take place at 8:30 o'clock tonight in Trinity Episcopal church, the Rev. Christoph Keller officiating, with a reception following at the Exmoor Country club.

Miss Emily Harmon will be the maid of honor for her brother's bride, and Miss Jean Williams, Miss Virginia Jeffries, Miss Mary Morgan, Miss Lucy Jane Hedberg, Miss Ruth Harvey, and Miss Martha Jane Foreman will be the bridesmaids.

Henry W. Boyd of Nashville, Tenn., formerly of Highland Park, will be best man, and ushering will be a cousin of the bridegroom, Gerrit Van Schaick, Charles Mullery of Minneapolis, John H. Gardner, Roger Taylor, Everett L. Millard Jr., and Donald Harby. After a wedding trip south Mr. Harmon and his bride will be at home in Minneapolis. Mr. Van Schaick's sister, Miss Helen Van Schaick, has come from Connecticut for the wedding.

Young Stuart Weds Eastern Girl Today.

The wedding of Miss Barbara Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edwards of Syracuse, N. Y., to R. Douglas Stuart Jr., son of the R. Douglas Stuarts of Lake Forest, will take place in Syracuse this afternoon, with a large number of the bridegroom's Chicago relatives present. Robert S. MacDonald, a cousin of the bridegroom; his sisters, Anne and Margaret Stuart, and Edward W. Scott are the only Chicagoans in the bridal party.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Take the Stand, John Barrymore.

Hollywood, Cal., May 20.

Q.—In your long career on the stage what do you recall as the most unusual emergency?

A.—I suppose that would be, let's see, back in 1929 at the Haymarket theater in London. Most old theaters, as you know, had "mousers," cats that prowled around backstage to keep the place free of rodents.

John Barrymore recalls tomcat act.

The Haymarket mouser was a big black tomcat, and the ancient stage doorman said that I was the only actor the tomcat ever had liked. Probably the tomcat recognized in me another bum, and so we hit it off. I used to bring meat for him every night, so he became quite attached to me.

Q.—Uh-huh?

A.—This particular night, during the run of "Hamlet," I had just started the soliloquy, "To be or not to be," when I heard the audience snicker. Continuing with the speech, I looked around the stage quickly, thinking perhaps that some drunken actor had wandered out on the stage. Then I saw the tomcat. He was sitting near my feet, with his head cocked to one side, for all the world as though he were listening intently to what I was saying.

If he got up and walked away I knew that the audience would explode, so I reached down, still reading the lines, scratched his neck, and picked him up. He sat in my lap for the rest of the soliloquy and I carried him off on my next exit.

Q.—You should have kept that in for the rest of the show.

A.—I tried to, but the tomcat never did it again, which may be a form of criticism. I don't think anything will ever happen again that will give me such a kick. Every actor dreads the day or night when something happens over which he has no control. The fact that it did happen and that I got by with it tickled the "ham" in me.

Q.—Billie Burke tells me that your "Hamlet" was the greatest performance she ever saw in her career?

A.—That reminds me of a letter that George Bernard Shaw sent to me after he'd seen our performance in London. I'd taken some liberties with the staging of it, so Shaw, after praising the show, ended his letter this way: "I cannot agree, however, with some of your emendations, because in spite of his shortcomings I can assure you that Shakespeare is a much better author than you are." I love that line: "In spite of his shortcomings."

Q.—It's always easy to remember the times when somebody dresses us down, isn't it?

A.—You're right. I remember the afternoon that Arthur Brisbane called me into his office. I was a newspaper cartoonist, and he had asked me to illustrate a murder story in which one brother had killed another. You know that cartoon formula—the brand of Cain, a smoking gun, and the caption: Am I my brother's keeper? Well, I drew it all right, but it reproduced badly in the first edition, and when Brisbane sent for me I knew the jig was up.

Q.—What did he say to you?

A.—He was very calm. If he had started cursing I would have been better off. He said: "Mr. Barrymore, I understand that all of your family is in the theater." I nodded.

Haven't you, Mr. Barrymore, ever had an urge to continue in the family tradition?" I said yes. He said: "When, Mr. Barrymore?" I said: "Right now, Mr. Brisbane." There ended my career as a cartoonist. I used to illustrate his editorials and Hype Igoe's stuff.

Q.—Did you ever see him again?

A.—Yes. He visited the "Grand Hotel" set with his daughter. Garbo chased them off the set and I never was so burned up in all my life. But Mr. Brisbane said that he'd seen enough.

Q.—How did you get on the stage after being fired as a cartoonist?

A.—I was at Atlantic City, with hardly enough money to pay the hotel bill, when Mort Singer met me on the board walk and said that he wanted me to play the juvenile lead in a musical comedy he was going to produce. He said: "I'll give you $500 a week," and I was so excited at hearing there was so much money in the world that I yelled, "What?" He said hastily that he would give me $750. He thought I meant he hadn't offered enough.

Q.—So you broke in as a song and dance man?

A.—We opened the Princess theater at Chicago with Mort's show, "The Stubborn Cinderella," and it ran two solid years. I faked the singing and the dancing and in the second half of the show, when I had to dance a minuet, I'd become so embarrassed that I'd take three stiff drinks.

Q.—Three?

A.—Maybe four.

Q.—Four?

A.—Six or ten.

Q.—Who was the greatest actor and actress you ever saw on the stage?

A.—The greatest actor was Sir Henry Irving. He was marvelous. The greatest actress was Eleanor Duse. I met her one night in Venice and we talked for about an hour. There was something unearthly about her.

Q.—How would you describe genius in an actor or actress?

A.—Tom Patton, at the Lambs club one night, gave the best description of it I ever heard. He said: "It's the quality in a person which makes you certain, the minute he or she steps on the stage, that something vastly exciting is going to happen. You don't know whether the roof is going to cave in or a bomb explode, but whatever it is it's going to be out of the ordinary." That's about as close as you can come to it. It's something that electrifies the air and the audience. Babe Ruth projected it—so did Dempsey—so did Man o' War.

A.—Only two of them, from my viewpoint, were worthwhile performances. "Topaze," I think was the best, and second I'd rank "The Man from Blankleys."

Q.—Who would you say is the greatest person you ever met in this business?

A.—Mrs. Barrymore—Elaine. She's a grand person. All of you are going to be surprised pleasantly when she and I do that show in New York. I'm going to play her father in the play—no dashing Romeos for me.

Q.—You're happy, then?

Liebes Textiles Win Praise as Works of Art

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three outstanding exhibitions opened yesterday at the Arts club. Not only are they lovely, they are original and fresh. In the first gallery are the amazingly effective textiles by Dorothy Liebes; and do not let the drab word "textiles" mislead you, these woven panels are intriguing, fascinating, stunning—almost any enthusiastic adjective one chooses to level at them will fit. They are works of art, admirable in every inch.

Dorothy Liebes has a charming personality and a fount of original thought which carry over into her weavings. She has a studio in California where a group of seventeen young women [each, as it happens, with a college background] work. One girl is from Copenhagen, one girl is a Finn, two are from Sweden, but the entire group is sympathetic and inspired with similar interests and daring.

The textiles are woven by hand on beautifully carved looms. The winning of a thousand dollar prize for a design [a prize that was split seventeen ways by the winners] gave impetus to a long-felt desire to show their work in New York. Miss Liebes took examples of her textiles east a little more than three years ago and met with great success.

No one who sees this exhibit will wonder at her success. The woven panels are beautiful. Each is made to fill a definite place in the design of the room where it will hang. There is nothing hit-or-miss about their manufacture. Some of these hangings are intended for homes, some for shops, some for night clubs.

In the "Tapestry of San Francisco Bridge" note how aluminum wire has been worked into the design. The "Baroque Group," on the other hand, is sumptuous enough for a queen's chamber, and see in it how the artist-weaver has used crystal beads to enhance its beauty.

The panel—"Susy Q"—is one of the most intriguing, with its suggestion of a coy and prim white rabbit, very much on tip-toe. The "Ticker Tape—Stock Exchange" with its unlucky tape and caustic gold dollar sign is another effective creation. The "Flora—linen for garden room" and the "Pastel Group" are delicious.

The gouaches by Max Jacob and the sculpture by Renee Sintenis in the succeeding two galleries of the Arts club are delightful. The sculpture consists chiefly of the most entrancing little bronzes of colts, with a dog and a calf and a boy thrown in for good measure. The figures are beautifully modeled, graceful and amusing.

The gouaches by Max Jacob are attractive in color and theme. His use of gray and white is a constant delight. The little sketches are as fascinating as the larger pictures. Do not miss "Les Bretonnes," "Place et Theatre du Chatelet," "Pres et Bord de Riviere," "Le Paradis Terrestre," and "Corner of Artist's Own Studio."

Arts Club Tea Is Gay Display of New Bonnets

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

"Rain, rain, go away and come again some other day" was the plea early yesterday afternoon of those who wanted to wear new bonnets to the Arts club tea party. They must have pleaded persuasively, for by the time the party started the skies were blue enough to make even a Mrs. Doubting Thomas unafraid to wear new headgear.

Consequently, the hats of most of the feminine guests were the very last word in chic and rivaled in color and design the stunning textiles hanging on the walls of two of the galleries.

Not all the hats were colorful, however, for at least half a dozen of the smartest women were wearing white hats. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, president of the club, and Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, who poured tea early, were twins as far as their hats went. Each wore a jaunty white straw pancake, turned down in the back, and ornamented with a flowing black veil with huge white chenille dots. Mrs. Goodspeed had chosen a black and white printed frock, buttoned all the way down the front with white buttons, to wear with her white hat. Mrs. Osborne wore an all black gown.

Mrs. Syma Busiel was the answer to the often asked question, "Who is the stunning woman in black with the white pageboy and the tasseled hat?"

Mrs. Dorothy Liebes, the designer of the textiles every one was admiring, was a picture in a black tucked sheer with a large pillbox hat and a large bag of a raspberry color tufted fabric, evidently one of her own hand woven textiles. She carried a little round bouquet of raspberry and pink carnations.

Some of the many others at the party, the last of the season, since the present shows close on June 5 and the club itself closes on June 15, were Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, looking blooming and radiant after a trip abroad with Mr. Carpenter, and Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., who was accompanied by her sub-deb stepdaughter, Alys Faurot. The Carpenters arrived at home yesterday and the Faurots are just back from their wedding trip.

Armour Tech Will Remodel Mission for Use as Student Club

Students at Armour Institute of Technology voted yesterday to have the Armour Mission, oldest building on the campus, converted at a cost of $40,000 into a student administered Student Union building. The plan already has been approved by the school's board of trustees and the money will be raised by a bond issue.

By their vote the students agreed to add three dollars to their semester activity fees to be used in helping maintain the union. The mission, at the southeast corner of Federal and 33d streets, was built in 1886 by Philip D. Armour, the school's founder, and was used as a Sunday school in connection with Plymouth church. Plans for the renovation include a large banquet hall, cafeteria, and dance floor, and a student lounge and reading room.

Good Morning!

As the picture opens Moto is seen conducting a class for detectives. It is attended by police, crooks, and, would you believe it! none other than Charlie Chan's young son, Lee, who eagerly seeks to learn tricks by which he shall be able to prove to his incredulous Chinese sleuth papa that he's a worthy chip off a shrewd old block.

During a prize fight in which a number of people are extraordinarily interested—including Mr. Moto himself—a murder occurs. The detective is called into action by the police commissioner [portrayed by Harold Huber, who was so slick as the French police chief in "Charlie Chan at Monte Carlo"] . . . Mr. Moto, of ccurse, in due time brings the murderer's identity out into the open.

Action is fact, mystifying, and often humorous. Acting, direction, staging, and the rest are commendable and this good little button button-er holds your interest consistently as it zips its eventful way along to a finale that's not too long in coming.

Three series that fans won't soon tire of are the "Mr. Moto," the "Charlie Chan," and the "Judge Hardy" chain. Presuming, of course, that they keep up to the high standard already established.

See you tomorrow.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

When people get to writing or discussing the absorbing subject of charm they usually bog down in generalities. One of the best books on the subject that we've ever found is a slim little one called "Better Than Beauty" [Modern Age Books, Inc.], by Helen Valentine and Alice Thompson. It's subtitled "A Guide to Charm," and it really is that.

It is a rare blend of horse sense, beauty advice and good rules for being the sort of person other people like to have around. You won't find an old saw on any page; it differs from most books on the subject in that it deals with the concrete phases of the search for attractiveness—both physical and social. All charm seekers ought to read it.

Good news for the stronger sex: A friction lotion, one of the most elegant body lotions we have ever found, is now available in a version for men. The lemoney scent—one of the best for summer use—isn't as lasting as it is in the lotion for women, but the refreshing qualities of the lotion are the same.

This friction lotion is a summer friend. The men are getting a break here. It will be greatly to their taste as a body lotion, to be used after the shower or for a quick pick up during the day. It's inexpensive, too.

The newest makeup we've heard about, inspired by "fondant pink," a costume color sponsored in Paris, is "sky pink." Makeups, like clothes, are veering steadily to the definitely pretty side. The thing to try for is the peaches and cream effect, with skin as pearly as you can make it, and color accents soft and flattering.

The newest of the pink makeups, we hear, is as delicately rosy as the petal of a pink rose.

The Housewife

For the convalescent or the person who spends a good deal of time in bed a padded back rest is one of the greatest possible comforts. When these conveniences were first introduced several years ago they were made of expensive materials and were extravagantly high priced. But now that they have proved their worth they're being brought out in more practical fabrics and in quantity, so they can be included in the average budget.

They resemble the back and arms of an upholstered chair and they give the same comfortable support.

These back rests are available in a number of lovely colors and materials. Ones of glazed chintz are especially pretty.

New Laboratory Will Help You Pick Life Work

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Are you a square peg in a round hole? Do you cherish secret ambitions, feel you could have been a great actor, banker, architect, dancer . . . if you'd had the chance?

Armour Institute of Technology on Monday will open a human engineering laboratory designed to find out for what work a person is fitted. The laboratory will be housed in the Glessner house, 1500 Prairie avenue, picturesque old mansion given to the institute by Mrs. Frances Glessner Lee last March. Tests for vocational aptitudes will be given to any one who applies at a small charge.

First of its kind in the middle west, the laboratory will be modeled on the human engineering laboratory at Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J. John M. Howe, formerly of the New Jersey laboratory staf, will head the new laboratory, using testing methods originated by Johnson O'Connor, director of the eastern laboratory.

It was while Mr. O'Connor was engaged in personnel work at the General Electric company that he became impressed with the fact that employés were chosen with less scientific scrutiny than were materials.

Finding that each individual is better suited to some types of work than to others. Mr. O'Connor 16 years ago founded the Human Engineering laboratory in order to devise a series of tests through which a person may obtain an inventory of his abilities.

"And of his weaknesses, too," Mr. O'Connor emphasized when he lectured in Chicago last winter. His tests of 25,000 persons between the ages of 8 and 83 have revealed that a person's deficiencies are as essential to his success as his abilities. For instance, a banker usually is a better banker if he rates low in the structural visualization.

So far the laboratory has isolated ten characteristics which can be measured by tests. These are personality, structural visualization, accounting aptitude, creative imagination, inductive reasoning, observation, number memory, finger dexterity, tweezer dexterity, tonal memory.

Put the X-Ray Eye on the New Frock You Plan to Buy

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"No woman should buy a dress or suit without eyeing it as mercilessly as an X-ray, to determine what its skeleton lines are. Once she's sure about lines—what they can do toward slimming her down, giving breadth to her shoulders, increasing the illusion of height, giving the proper proportion to her bust—then let her decide upon color, fabric, style, and the infinite details of trimming and accessories."

"A waistline that is two inches too high or one inch too low can wreck more havoc in your appearance than the smartest color combinations, fabrics and accessories can possibly rectify," warns the fashion wise dancer, who insists that too few women really make a careful study of their own figures, who pin their faith too blindly on dress manufacturers who produce garments in carload lots.

"Fortunately, there are enough styles created to enable every woman to choose the exact lines which will do most for her figure," continues Yolanda. "And the difference between the chic and the dowdy woman is that the former never succumbs to the pitfalls of beautiful fabrics, irresistible color combinations, and trick details until she has analyzed the lines of the garment and is certain that they will do something for her."

Colors, Yolanda emphasizes, have their part in transforming mediocrity of personal appearance into individuality. Colors should be selected that will focus attention on the eyes, she believes, no matter what kind of eyes you have. Highest among sartorial crimes, Yolanda believes, is the choice that drains the eyes of color. Particularly is this true of unrelieved blacks, Yolanda avers. True, too, of glossy fabrics of indeterminate shades.

SYNOPSIS.

Elizabeth Sandal is shocked to find her two children resent their father's will that unexpectedly left a fortune to her and did not mention them. Dorothea wants to have her own London flat. Oliver hopes to marry into wealth. Elizabeth goes off to Switzerland for a change and rest, and meets Andrew Leicester, who was a groom at her wedding. Andrew, a widower, is returning after years of absence in China to meet his children. William, his son, lives with a bachelor relative. His daughter, Shirley, is with his wife's people. Shirley has become involved in a scandal with an aviator who was engaged to another girl. Her mother's family, so they have written Andrew, can do nothing with her. Andrew hopes to have it out with Shirley before becoming involved with his in-laws. Shirley believes the older generation are all against her, and treats him coolly. Andrew turns to Elizabeth for sympathy. She tries to make friends with the boy and girl. Shirley's Aunt Jay writes Andrew hinting that the girl is seeing the aviator secretly. Dorothea hears from a friend about a stranger's attentions to her mother. Oliver decides to pay his mother a surprise visit.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

CAUSE FOR ANXIETY.

Shirley, coming down to breakfast, saw her father receiving letters with his newspapers at his desk. Key in hand, she was close enough behind him to recognize the large and too familiar writing of Jay Mortimer.

She backed away hurriedly, slipping into the dining room, when it became clear he was going to the lounge, furious and feeling disinclined for food. William was late down, and she hurried through the meal before the letters could be read and her father come in. She could just see him from where she sat, standing by a window absorbed and turning over the closely written sheets.

Scornfully she surveyed his back, thinking of the Sussex drawing room, her grandmother banked up by cushions because of her rheumatism and groaning from time to time so that no one should be allowed to forget she was a great sufferer. Everything was great. A great trial, a great inconvenience, a great mistake, a great hardship, a great draught, a great reader . . . until one could only bear it by substituting damns.

Shirley drank her coffee and poured out more, feeling the comfort of the strong hot liquid, while heads turned from other tables, for pleasure in her beauty. She did not notice having grown hardened in the past months to glances with another message. If she had died in the wreck of Tony Voisin's aeroplane, sweetness and light and lovely youth would have decked her requiem with fine words, and an inventory of her virtues been sent to her father in Shanghai, to be added to from time to time as imagination further helped remembrance.

Escaping this edifying end, she had been struck down by the same voices, singing a different tune, but given the choice, she would have accepted the second alternative. She had not the least desire to die and she was not of the type to fling herself into a river or under a train in search of pity or appreciation she would not be there to enjoy.

There came the sound of steps and an opening door, and putting down her napkin quickly, the girl rose. Her father had finished the scratchy pages of Miss Mortimer's letter at last and was coming in to breakfast. Unhurried, without a glance at him, she passed between the little tables in the opposite direction and went out hatless into the morning.

The garden went down to the lake where boats were already visible on the shimmering water. By-and-by William would be out, bursting for some new excursion, and her own fitness revived by these long days with him, made her his equal luckily. To keep step with him even in absence had sent her into Tony Voisin's aeroplane. To fall behind him on a mountain would have been absurd.

Andrew read his sister's letter first as being the more welcome, had mentally noted the contents and put it away in his pocketbook to remind him that here was something to which he must attend. He had already forgotten it, however, as he took his seat, and even his daughter's too obvious haste to avoid his company was a mere flick to the sentiments of rage and disgust which Jay's disclosures had produced.

His eyes followed Shirley's passage out of the restaurant and through the garden with a frown of disquiet.

Good God! What sort of atmosphere was that for any girl? Had he been a dam' fool to move her from Uplands?

Andrew was nauseated by the whole tone of Jay's letter, and there was substance in it for a pressing anxiety. Had Shirley met this airman fellow in London, and was William in it? Was she meeting him here, too, on those carefully planned and evasive excursions?

William came in, said "Good morning," looked at his sister's cleared place, and observed,

"I say, I'm late then? Sorry."

He then glanced at William, carefree and enjoying his breakfast, read a few meaningless phrases in his paper and then spoke.

"What sort of chap is this fellow Voisin?"

William looked puzzled, but as the name dawned on him, exclaimed:

"O, you mean the chap who took Shirley up? . . . I couldn't think for a minute. Pretty good pilot, I should say. Must have been."

"Very likely, but leaving his skill out of it, what sort of man is he? What is he like?" asked his father.

"I haven't the foggiest," said William. "Never set eyes on the chap, worse luck. I know I wish I'd been in that show. It would have been a pretty useful experience."

"Hm. Well I'm just as glad you were not. Risking the neck of one member of the family is quite enough," said Andrew dryly.

"But that's not exactly fair to the fellow," William eagerly protested. "You wouldn't blame the driver of a skidding car who drove into a ditch to save his passenger, just because she got a shade muddy. And as a matter of fact the percentage of accidents on the road is much higher than in the air."

"So it should be. The air up to the present isn't full of pedestrians and the other fools who contribute to accidents. Still I wonder your sister didn't contrive to introduce you to this . . . hero."

"Well, I daresay she will if she ever comes across him again and I'm on the spot," declared William. "We've not set eyes on each other, except for a few minutes at the train now and then, since she left Uplands."

"Never seen each other?"

"It wasn't any fault of ours," said William in astonishment. "We had to get up all sorts of dodges to meet at the train even. . . . Go round different ways, I mean, and eke out the old fare and one thing and another. And, of course, since Shirley left school even that was cut out."

His father stared at him.

"Why cut out? I don't understand."

"Well she was planted down there in Sussex. There wasn't any point in meeting her for a pow-wow with Aunt Jay tagging along. Talk about 'clinging vines,'" said William in disgust.

Andrew returned to his newspaper and his breakfast, endeavoring to assimilate these disclosures. William knew nothing of the fellow after all then, and had been pretty shabbily used, if he had gone to such lengths to catch a glimpse of a sister too much wrapped up in this fool of an aunt to contrive a holiday with him or even spare him a day.

William had finished his breakfast.

"I suppose you are going off somewhere as usual, are you?" asked his father. "Where is it this time?"

"We want to make for Naye if we can run to it," admitted William. "Got to find out the fares, though."

"Don't break your necks, then. . . . What's the matter? Funds low?" Andrew remembered his sister's note.

"As a matter of fact we're pretty well cleaned out," admitted William, grinning. "Come down to cutting meals when we're out."

"Good heavens, you young fools. You can't expect me to know these things if you won't tell me. Your Aunt Lillian wrote to me, and I'll see to it as soon as I can get a check cashed. In the meantime here's fifty francs. And you might remember in future emergencies that I am your father, you know, and not some ferocious animal it isn't quite safe to approach."

"Yes, rather. . . . It isn't that though," William assured him obligingly. "I mean traveling about and so on, it might have run you short."

"Why do you recommend using two cakes of yeast for as little as four cups of flour in breadmaking?" writes a reader. "In my family we use only one cake, and much more flour. Doesn't this much yeast give a strong flavor to the bread?"

It is a common misconception that a yeasty flavor in bread is due to the use of more yeast than necessary. Experimentation has shown that this flavor is due not to the amount of yeast but to overfermentation, or fermentation at too high a temperature.

We recommend two cakes of yeast in many of our recipes because two cakes will do the job much more quickly than one, and a short period of fermentation is not only a convenience to the breadmaker but actually results in bread of a better flavor.

A candy thermometer is a good gauge of the correct temperature for fermentation. Insert it in the dough and keep the dough covered with a clean cloth. The temperature should remain at 80 to 82 degrees during the time the dough is rising. If the room is cool place the bowl of dough in a pan of warm, not hot, water. Often we let bread and rolls rise in the oven, with the heat turned off, of course. There it is free from draughts and the temperature seems to remain constant and at the right degree.

For good measure here is a recipe for rum buns. We've been wanting to get it into print for some time, as it makes the most delicious party rolls you've ever tasted. It uses two cakes of yeast and a small amount of flour, you'll notice. And you'll notice, if you make the buns, that this doesn't hurt the flavor. Rum may be used only in the icing, or it may go into both buns and icing.

Rum Buns.

[Two and One-half Dozen.]

1 cup scalded milk
2 cakes yeast [compressed]
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon lemon extract or
2 tablespoons rum
¼ cup currants
3½ cups flour [approximate measure]

Scald milk and cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in milk and add sugar, butter, beaten eggs, salt, and half the flour. Beat thoroughly and add remaining flour, raisins, and flavoring. Knead for eight minutes or until smooth. Cover and let stand in a warm place until double in bulk. Roll out to half inch thickness and cut with a small cookie cutter. Place buns on a greased baking sheet and let rise again until the bulk is doubled. Bake at 425 degrees for 20 minutes. Frost while warm with rum icing.

RUM ICING: Combine one tablespoon cream and three tablespoons rum and work in enough confectioner's sugar [about 1¼ cups] to give a spreading consistency.

Summer Bags Smartly Styled, Low in Price

BY RHEA SEEGER.

It's in the summer bags . . . unusual design, effective coloring, size, and low prices. For around three dollars you can find prize assortments of printed cottons, striped fabrics, and dotted materials that provide grand contrast magic for your smartest summer clothes.

The gypsy carry-all that you sling over your wrist comes in fetching printed cottons and has unlimited capacity. The huge flat envelopes that fold about four times are reproductions of sky high expensive bags of last winter.

Cordette bags, those all purpose, any season models made of very narrow braid, are here again [for more money than the above listings but not much more]. They're flat, moderate in area, and are vivid contrasts in the new striped effects in red, yellow, vivid blue, and black. These go with anything and everything, cotton to silk crêpe.

The extremely large pastel pigskin bags look like you could stow a weekend wardrobe in their pouchy depths. They have transparent prystal frames and come in pink, blue, green, and yellow pastels.

You can find long, narrow kidskin money carriers with the coin purse fastened on the outside, a grand idea for those that dislike fumbling around in moments of haste for carfare or train tickets. These long, slender beauties come in summer colors, wear splendidly and are yours for about five dollars. And they're dress parade enough to wear with dark as well as summer clothes.

Slenderizing House Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCK.

This tricky, yet simple house frock will make you appear slim as a willow even if the scale, the nasty thing, insists you have a few extra pounds. You can fool the public and get a lift yourself if you wear this dress, which is cut to minimize excess poundage. Its lines are long, and its surplice front slenderizes the bustline. This is the easiest dress in the world to make. Its sleeves are cut in one with the shoulders, and there is no intricate fitting to do, since the belt fits the dress to the figure as you wish. Ready-made braid is the simple expedient resorted to for trimming.

If you prefer a high neckline, simply bring the surplice up straight and fasten the neck with a snapper or tiny button. Then add a Peter Pan collar.

There are two pockets, one on the waist and the other on the skirt. You may have either or both of them. If you select a plain shade of cotton or linen, you might like to give the dress color with an applique motif on the breast pocket. The pattern for this is No. E-700, and is available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 2754 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20 years, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 4¼ yards of rickrack braid.

According to CULBERTSON

THE BEST SUIT.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

It may be a striking commentary on our present day bidding practice that in many hands the best suit in the combined hands is not even mentioned. I have taken today's hand from the qualifying rounds of the recent Vanderbilt tournament. In a seven table section only one North-South pair reached the correct four heart contract, and this, mind you, in a field of experts!

North, dealer.

♥ K J 8 4
♦ 10 6 5

WEST
♠ K 8 5
♥ Q 7
♦ Q J 9 4
♣ J 6 5 2

EAST
♠ Q 7 6 4
♥ A 5 2
♦ A 8 3 2

SOUTH
♠ A J 9 3 2
♥ 10 9 6 3
♦ K 7
♣ A K

At most tables the bidding went as follows:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Actually it is difficult to criticize any link of the above chain. North's one no trump response probably was the soundest available. With only ½-plus honor tricks in the hand, a bad fit for South's suit, and no good suit of his own, North had to be optimistic to respond with anything but one no trump. Yet the fact remains that no trump was an unfortunate response from South's point of view. South could hardly visualize a game at any denomination and one no trump appeared about as safe as any two level contract. The only North-South pair that arrived at four hearts bid as follows:

North	South
Pass	1 spade
2 clubs	2 hearts
3 hearts	4 hearts

Judging each bid separately on its merits it is fairly obvious that both North and South were optimists. Yet through the alchemy of distribution and precise juxtaposition of honors the final contract was a good one.

West opened the diamond queen. East won and returned the suit. Declarer won and let the ten of hearts ride. East took the ace and returned a diamond. Declarer ruffed, cashed the ace and king of clubs, and led another heart, capturing West's queen. Since the club queen had fallen under the king, declarer now drew East's and his own last trump with dummy's jack, then with the eight of hearts in dummy remaining the control card, led and passed the club ten. West took his jack, but could make no return that would win another trick for his side. The dummy was solid with the addition of declarer's spade ace.

School Will Train Priests to Fight Isms

The Chicago School of Catholic Social Action, where priests from throughout the United States and Canada will study under national leaders, will open at the Seminary of St. Mary of the Lake at Mundelein July 18, continuing to Aug. 12.

In a story in yesterday's issue of the New World, Catholic newspaper, the proposed school, which is sponsored by Cardinal Mundelein, is described. It reads in part:

"The school will be a step toward equipping priests to fulfil the injunction of Pope Pius XI. in his encyclicals on atheistic communism, in which he says: 'Go to the workingman, especially where he is poor,' and in 'Quadragesimo Anno," wherein he commends priests 'who with admirable charity had long devoted themselves to the relieving of the undeserved misery of the laboring classes.'

"The school's teaching is grounded on the encyclicals and is a concrete expression of the ideas contained in the much-commented-on sermon of Cardinal Mundelein to the Holy Name men last January. At that time his eminence said in substance that the way to counteract the revolutionary threat of our day is to remove economic injustices."

"Quebec," the lovely and unusual pieced design presented today, is the contribution of Mrs. John Gravelle of Deadwood, S. D. The coverlet made from this pattern was brought from Quebec by her mother and was made many years ago when she lived in the province. The pattern was a general favorite among the Canadians, but the exact historical background of the block is obscure. The square is set together with a combination of printed and plain materials and measures 11½ inches when finished.

STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

THE MEN'S STORE MONROE AT WABASH

$35

Sun-Sea-Spun, one of the distinguished imported fabrics in our lightweight suit collection, is noted for its ability to fall into easily draping lines and the cool subdued tones of its linen, worsted, mohair mixture. Unlike other light tone summer fabrics, however, Sun-Sea-Spun colors offer a sturdy resistance to sun and rain, and at the end of several months of continual wear in town still retain their clear original tones.

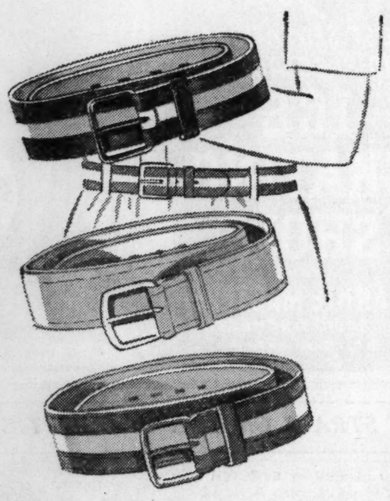
$1

We fully lined these ties with silk to support the lightweight fabric and give them a sturdy resistance to wrinkles. The lining and tie combined does not weigh as much as your year round silk foulard tie, and we've provided them with the patterns and colorings that, together with their light weight, recommend them for continual summer wear.



An extensive collection of light summer belts

$1

We are firm believers in wearing the correct color suspender with each pair of trousers. The same holds true for belts during the vestless season. Here is your opportunity to lay in a supply for every summer occasion from a collection of fabric and leather belts of every color and width, and all at this low $1 price.

WATSON SETS SHOT PUT RECORD AS BIG TEN MEET OPENS

MICHIGAN STAR HEAVES WEIGHT 52FT. 11½ INCHES

Wolverines Lead with 13 Qualifiers.

Qualifiers

Michigan	13	Ohio State	7
Wisconsin	8	Purdue	5
Illinois	8	Chicago	5
Iowa	8	Minnesota	3
Indiana	8	Northwestern	1

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., May 20.—Big William Watson, king pin of Michigan's defense of its Western conference track and field title, who last year contributed three championships to the Wolverines, began his campaign this afternoon in the qualifying events by establishing a new Big Ten record for the shot put.

Bill Watson.

Watson tossed the shot 52 feet 11½ inches, slightly more than two feet farther than the record he set last year in these games. Watson unquestionably will win this event, his favorite, for the second man in the group of six who qualified today, C. D. Fray of Illinois, could do no better than 48 feet 10 inches. This, however, was enough to take second place away from Michigan's John Townsend, at least temporarily.

Watson also paced the finalists in the broad jump and discus throw. His best mark in the former was 24 feet 11¾ inches. Minnesota's Bob Hubbard was second in this group with 24 feet 3½ inches. There is nothing in Hubbard's record to indicate that he can beat out the Michigan Negro in the championship round tomorrow.

Misses Discus Record.

Watson was denied a record in the discus in the trials, but led the qualifiers with a mark of 152 feet 4¾ inches. He can, of course, set a new record tomorrow if fortune favors. Once again Frary of Illinois was in second place, nosing out Michigan's Townsend.

Despite an early morning storm and yesterday's near cloudburst, the track was in fair condition as the times in the half mile and quarter mile testify. A fast track is predicted for the finals.

Michigan, as was expected, led the field in the number of qualifiers with 13 men who qualified in nine of the ten events today. Michigan failed to get a man into the finals of the 220 yard dash.

Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana followed with eight qualifiers each. Ohio State had seven and Purdue and Chicago had five each.

One of the best duels tomorrow will be between Bush Lamb of Iowa and Fred Martin of Michigan for the javelin title. Lamb is the leader of the six qualifiers with a mark of 202 feet 7 inches. Martin's best so far is 201 feet 4 inches. The remainder of the field is 20 feet behind

Howells Runs Fast Quarter.

Charles Fenske of Wisconsin, who will seek the Big Ten mile record, ran an exceptionally fast half mile to win the second of the two qualifying races. Fenske was timed in 1:53.3, only 1.1 seconds from the conference record set by Charles Beetham of Ohio State last year.

Harley Howells, Ohio State quarter mile star, came up with the amazingly fast time of 47.8 seconds in winning the second heat of the four races, which will send eight to the starting line. Howells apparently was after the record, for he finished ten yards in front of Carl Teufel of Iowa.

The Big Ten record for the 440 yard dash still belongs to Binga Dismond, former Chicago star, who set the present mark of :47.4 in 1916.

Lewis Likely Double Winner.

While there probably is no possibility of even tying the 100 yard record, Bob Lewis of Ohio State, with the aid of the strong wind, won the opening century preliminary in 9 6-10 seconds, just about the best mark in the conference this spring.

Lewis also qualified in the 220 yard sprint, winning the first qualifying race by five yards from Wisconsin's Frank Kauffman. Thus Lewis should fulfill his ambition of becoming a double champion tomorrow. Summaries:

220 YARD DASH.
[Two to Qualify in Each Heat.]

FIRST HEAT—Won by Lewis, Ohio State; Kauffman, Wisconsin, second; Allen, Indiana, third. Time, :21.7.

SECOND HEAT—Won by Fred Teufel, Iowa; Ashley, Illinois, second; Boyle, Indiana, third. Time, :21.7.

THIRD HEAT—Won by Elliott, Indiana;

A Freighter, usually one of our most reliable helpers, let the Wake down last week in a squib concerning a gentleman named Proffitt. It seems the Harris Trust has no men savings tellers and, furthermore, no Mr. Proffitt in any capacity. There IS a Mr. Proffitt, however, in Chicago and he is employed by the Personal Loan, so the gag is still good.

Warneke was struck by a batted ball last week, and a few days ago, while warming up in Brooklyn, he heard a snap in the ankle. Each Gets Only One Home Game in 1941.

Columbus, O., May 20.—(AP)—The Big Ten's annual football schedule-drafting session developed into a dog fight today, with Indiana and Purdue the underdogs. The failure of the two Indiana schools to draw big gates for the Saturday encounters proved such an issue that when the 1941 schedule was approved the two teams were left with only one at home conference game each for that year.

Wearied by the controversy over the 1941 schedule, the conference football coaches and athletic directors finally deferred scheduled action on a 1942 slate until next December.

Support from Iowa.

Representatives of Purdue and Indiana universities protested strongly that their students deserved to see more than one Big Ten game. They had some backing from the University of Iowa, another conference school located in a small city.

Iowa will have two at home games, but Illinois, Minnesota, and Wisconsin will have three each, and Ohio State, Northwestern, and Michigan each will play four on their home gridirons. Chicago reduced its Big Ten schedule voluntarily to three games, one at home. In the past it has played at least four, often five.

Indiana and Purdue have had strong football teams in the last few years, but lack facilities for handling huge crowds, such as those which throng the stadiums in Columbus, Ann Arbor or Evanston.

McMillin Disappointed.

Sept. 25—Minnesota at University of Washington.
Oct. 4—Indiana at Notre Dame.

32 Brightest Golf Students Named for Finals Tomorrow

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The thirty-two brightest students in the sixth annual free golf school conducted by The Tribune were selected last night on the four courses of the Chicago park district by their instructors, members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association. More than 18,000 students attended the final lesson of the 1938 curriculum of golf's biggest university.

These same thirty-two pupils, chosen best in their classes on the basis of their general form and aptness in assimilating the fundamentals of the game since the school opened May 10, will assemble for the final graduating exercises at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on the Diversey course in Lincoln park.

There a jury of leading professionals will judge them on their swings, each taking his or her turn separately. The man, woman, boy, and girl rated best of the select thirty-two will be presented with a golf bag and a set of clubs by The Tribune and a season ticket for the Chicago open, to be played at Olympia Fields July 22, 23, and 24, by the Chicago District Golf association.

Jackson Park Popular.

Each of the other twenty-eight students will be honored with a dozen P. G. A. golf balls and a ticket for the final 36 holes of the Chicago open.

Matt Matteson of Ridge and Al Megeff, Evergreen pro for seven years, who have not missed a class of the school in its six year career, reported the largest class they ever have seen at the Jackson park finals last night. The pupils were ranged in groups of twenty from the stand opposite the first tee to the first green, more than 400 yards away. Earle F. Tilley of Olympia Fields was present to give tips to the younger generation, as well as to supervise distribution of exchange tickets for the Chicago open.

Tom Walsh and Chuck Blasgen of Westgate Valley; Harry Kinnell of Edgewood Valley, secretary of the Illinois P. G. A., and Packy Walsh of Marquette, aided by Supervisor Al Kumskis of the park, conducted the final session at Marquette, where one of the most enthusiastic classes in the school set a new attendance record at the southwest side course.

Prize Students Named.

The Columbus park pupils were reviewed by Lew Waldron of Mohawk, Ren Smith of Oak Park, Eddie Gayer of Twin Orchard and Charley Penna of Medinah, with the assistance of Supervisor Harry Lavin. Walron reported that the students at Columbus were so closely matched that they wished there were more than eight places alloted to each course. They accorded honorable mention to Billy Jacobs, Edith Klampt, Ray Sieb, and Mrs. Tom Young.

Jock Anderson of Techny Fields, one of the founders of the school, made the Diversey selections with the aid of Alex Cunningham, honorary president of the Illinois P. G. A., and Jock Hutchison Jr., both of Vander Meer Stops Them with Five Hits.

New York, May 20.—(AP)—Behind Johnny Vander Meer's five hit pitching the Cincinnati Reds today handed the Giants their second straight shutout and their third straight defeat, 4 to 0.

Only one Giant got as far as third base and only five reached second against young Vander Meer, who struck out eight. Ernie Lombardi hit his third home run of the year with Ival Goodman on base in the seventh inning.

CARLETON GETS BIG LEAD BUT FAILS TO LAST

Chicago Bats Rout Bucky Walters.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20.—The Phillies were more or less ridiculous as enemies today but the Cubs didn't mind the let down after their three stirring afternoons with the champion Giants. The Chicagoans simply amused themselves by concentrating on base hits and their fun reached such heights that they lathered the local comedians, 16 to 7, in the series opener. The triumph, coupled with the defeat of the title holders by the Reds, brought the Cubs to three and one-half games out of first place.

The Phils probably thought they were pulling a fast one on the Cubs by unveiling their ace, Bucky Walters, but the visitors were ready. They shoved him into a three run hole in the first two innings. In the fourth they overwhelmed him and old Wild Bill Hallahan stepped in where Walters had last been seen. Before the ancient southpaw could clean up the situation six runs had gone home. That should have been the high point of the orgy but the Cubs kept on scoring and finally assembled for another big blowoff in the ninth. This time they hung up a cluster of five.

Carleton Fails to Last.

Although given a week's supply of runs in four innings Tex Carleton couldn't exhibit himself as a nine inning pitcher. He was plastered for at least one hit in each of the first seven innings, but the Phils could make this total of twelve drives net only two runs. However, when Carleton pitched himself into his third full house in the eighth and then let two of these waiting runs get home on a single, Manager Grimm decided it was time to act. So Jack Russell had to charge into action and he saved Carleton's fourth victory of the season with a minimum of effort.

With a total of twenty-two hits available all of the Cubs should have picked off a fairly respectable batch, but luck such as that didn't befall Frank Demaree, recently returned to action after a rest imposed because of his weakness. All that Demaree could gather today for his personal account was a single which helped in the fourth. On six other occasions he was at bat with mates on the bases and all he fashioned out of these six chances was a pair of passes.

Cubs Make Good Start.

It didn't take the Cubs long to get two men to base in the first inning, both scoring eventually. Hack and Herman singled to right, the former hitting a liner to the wall. They moved up on Collins' grounder to Corbett. Demaree banged a long fly to Arnovich in left, Hack counting and Herman going to third. Hartnett scratched a hit past Whitney and Herman went home.

The Cubs made it 3 to 0 in their behalf for a few minutes in the second. Carleton singled to right with one out and went to second on a passed ball. Hack chased him home on a single to right.

The Phils got four hits off Carleton in the second, but only two scored. Whitney opened with a scratch hit and was forced by Corbett. Young dropped a single in left and the threat was lightened to some extent when Carle-

ABMERES ISN'T LIKE NAME; HE RUNS FORWARD

BY FRENCH LANE.

A dozen 2 year olds paraded out on the rain soaked Aurora race course yesterday to put on the headline act. They responded nobly and came through with one of the most thrilling stretch battles of the season. At the finish a horse by the strange name of Abmeres was the winner.

The horse is owned by Frank Seremba. That explains the name. It is Seremba spelled backwards, the owner explaining that luck was going against him at the time the colt was named.

Abmeres was outrun by J. A. Blackwel's pair of Termotime and Teperwine in the early part of the short four and a half furlong tussle. Oh Fudge also had more foot than the Canadian juvenile.

Waits for Stretch, and Then—

Jocky T. P. Martin waited until the stretch run was under way before calling on Abmeres. He got a ready response from the colt and soon was on even terms with the leaders. A sixteenth out the first three were fighting it out gamely. Then Abmeres conquered and drew out to win by slightly more than three lengths. The two roommates—Termotime and Teperwine—finished second and third so close together the camera had to separate them.

Abmeres had his backers, but paid off at $10.60. It was the second triumph in his brief career.

Wilson Increases Lead.

Jocky James G. Wilson drew out into a longer lead for the Aurora riding championship when he scored a triple. He landed with Star Flash and Lady Thirteen, both stoutly backed, and finished the day by getting the long shot, Tut Tut, home in the last race. This brought his total of winners for the meeting up to eighteen.

Betting in Chicago on the War Admiral-Seabiscuit match race finds War Admiral a red hot favorite. You must bet $17 to win $10 on him. You can wager $10 and win $13 if you fancy Seabiscuit, provided, of course, that the Pacific coast colorbearer leads War Admiral past the winning post.

Derby Today at Midlothian May Set Mark

The thirty-fourth annual Midlothian Derby, traditional stake race of all of the Chicago golf district's invitational tournaments, will attract a field of sixty-five foursomes, one of the largest in its history, today and tomorrow. The first eighteen holes of this venerable race will be run today, with the stretch run of eighteen scheduled for tomorrow.

Among the favorites scheduled to go to the post in the Derby are Jack Herner, Jim Garard, Chick Evans, Russ Martin, Chuck Becka, Doug Casey, and Eddie Murphy.

One of the features of today's program will be an actual horse race of steeds 20 years old and upwards, all to be ridden over a course of one mile and 11-16 furlongs by members of Midlothian.

Joe Creevy is chairman of the 1938 Derby committee, which includes C. M. Baldwin, V. H. Bartholomew, Walter W. Boulton, J. A. Carroll, Gordon Crowder, Leo Cummings, James D. Drinkwater, John E. Dwyer, Don Hamilton, George S. Jaxon, David B. Johnson, E. R. Kirk, Walter E. Kistner, B. C. McClure, F. A. McMurray, George A. Miller, Edward Murphy, Carl Overaker, A. V. Pleasance, John Quan, A. T. Rodger, John J. Rutherford, Guy Salisbury, Fred C. Slyder, O. R. Swartsloff, Frank Swatek, Leo J. Syke, James J. Thompson, John M. Timmons, Roy Turner, Franklin M. Warden, Harold Wielatz, William M. Mitt, and William C. Zingheim.

R. E. Hall of Mendota, Ill., with 39—40—79, yesterday won the spring tournament of the Midwest Men's Apparel Golf association at Glen Oak. A record field of more than 100 played. Elmer L. Ward of Palm Beach, Fla., a visitor, had a 38—40—78, but was not eligible for the prizes. Second low gross went to Ed Guettel of Kansas City with 81 and third to Art Olson of Highland Park, another 81. The low net winners: Class A—R. E. Hall, 79—12—67; class B—John Domerux, 91—23—68; class C—H. A. Berry, 99—30—69.

E. L. Riebold, president; Ernest Gluck and E. R. Richer, vice presidents; Eugene Barnhart, general manager, and Henry Hayme, secretary treasurer.

WATER ROUGH; CARNEGIE CUP RACE DELAYED

Ithaca, N. Y., May 20.—(AP)—Rough water this evening on Lake Cayuga postponed the varsity race, feature of the Carnegie Cup regatta, as Yale won the freshman and junior varsity events over a two mile course from Cornell and Princeton. The lake was white capped and rowing conditions hazardous when officials decided to put off the main event until tomorrow morning. The varsity crews went to the starting line, but Yale and Cornell shipped so much water they headed for the shore to bail out.

TERMOTIME began swiftly, set the pace until well into the stretch but was no match for the winner. TEPERWINE worked his way up rapidly on the outside and held on with good courage.

KANSAS STATE SOPH SETS BIG 6 RECORD IN SHOT

Lincoln, Neb., May 20.—(AP)—Sophomore Elmer Hackney of Kansas State, who gradually has been edging up on the shot put records set by Sam Francis of Nebraska last year, arched the 16 pound weight 51 feet 10 inches today to break the Big Six conference record of 51 feet 9½ inches set by Francis last spring.

As Hackney was taking the individual spotlight with the lone record breaking performance, Missouri emerged as the outstanding challenger to Nebraska's two year reign by qualifying eighteen men in ten events.

Nebraska and Oklahoma each qualified 16 men, Kansas State 15, Kansas 12, and Iowa State 3. Both Nebraska and Kansas State will be represented in each of the ten events tomorrow.

SOX IDLE AGAIN; PLAN TO BATTLE YANKEES TODAY

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, most rainsoaked team in the majors, got soaked some more yesterday, thus being deprived of the privilege of beating the Yanks. The world champs will be in town today and maybe the weather man will let the Sox get at 'em before Joe McCarthy leads his lads on to Cleveland tonight.

Thornton Lee and Spud Chandler, who were scheduled to pitch yesterday, probably will work today. Lee has won one game and pitched well in two others. He hasn't been charged with a loss. Chandler, youthful righthander, has won two and lost none. He was scheduled to pitch against the Sox in New York, but rain on May 9 and 10 saved him.

Double Headers in Sight.

Counting those rainouts on May 9 and 10 and the one yesterday, the Yanks and Sox have been kept apart in the last three of their four scheduled games prior to today. The Sox will be in New York on June 7, 8, and 9 and the Yanks will be back here June 14, 15, and 16. Looks like the customers will get bargains on some of those dates both in New York and here. And the series here probably will mark the unveiling of Luke Appling.

Yesterday's postponement was the tenth for the Sox in a schedule of thirty for the season to date and the ninth starting with the Yank-Sox washout on May 9. Since May 8 the Sox have played one game in Boston, one, a victory, in Cleveland, and one here, a seven inning match with the Boston Red Sox, in which Johnny Whitehead whipped the Yawkeys, 4 to 0.

Sox Total 20 Games.

The Sox, with only twenty games played, have got in eleven fewer games than the Washington Senators, eight fewer than the Cleveland Indians, ranging down to the Yanks, closest to the Sox in the future double-header market, who have played four more games than the Chicagoans.

Cubs Defeat Phils, 16 to 7, with 22 Hits

Cubs Rout Walters.

Two were out in the fourth before the Cubs really got started on their six run blast which blew Walters off the landscape. Carleton struck out, Hack walked, and Herman forced him. Then business began to pick up. Galan singled to center. So did Demaree, Herman scoring and Galan going to third on the latter hit. Hartnett accepted a pass, which loaded the bases. Reynolds whacked a single into left, Galan and Demaree scoring. A pass to Collins reloaded the bases. Jurges singled to right, Hartnett and Reynolds scoring and Walters retiring. Carleton nicked Rescuer Hallahan for a single and Collins scored the sixth run of the rally.

In the fifth inning Carleton was nicked for two runs. Arnovich opened with his third single and went home ahead of Whitney, who slapped a homer into the bleachers in left. This made the score 9 to 4.

The Cubs picked up a run in the sixth while the Phils were enjoying a slight brainstorm. Reynolds singled and with one out Jurges walked. Carleton grounded to Young but the latter was so long trying to figure how to get Jurges at second that Reynolds scored. The Cubs also scored one in the seventh. Herman singled, went to third on a double by Marty, who replaced Galan, and scored on a wild pitch.

Carleton Goes Out.

Mueller singled for Hallahan with one out in the eighth and this started Carleton downhill again. He walked Marty and Scharein. Klein singled to left, sending in Mueller and Martin. Away went Carleton. Russell got Arnovich on a fly to left, Scharein scoring. Whitney walked but Corbett lined to Reynolds.

The Phils were at their worst in the ninth. The Cubs made five hits off Reis, who also walked one. Young made two errors on one play Scharein fumbled a grounder. Hence the five concluding runs were scored with more or less ease.

FRENCH PITCHES TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20.—The pitching setup for the second and final of the series tomorrow will be Larry Lefty French for the Cubs and Claude Passeau for the Phils. French will come back with only two days of rest since his seven inning job against the Giants.

Diz Dean took another treatment today for his ailing arm. In the space of a half minute he threw a dozen pitches to Bob Garbark and then was told to quit. The ease of Diz' motion indicated that he wasn't holding back for fear of bringing on a recurrence of pain in the weak deltoid muscle. However, the time to judge his real condition will be after he has pitched a nine inning game.

Augie Galan removed himself from the mêlee in the sixth. Somewhere along the line he had picked up a charley horse in his right thigh. Reynolds then moved from center to left and Marty went to center.

After finishing here tomorrow the Cubs will go to Boston for two games, then to Brooklyn for three and on their way back to Chicago will stop at Pittsburgh for three days.

QUEEN AND COURT RESIGN TO JUMP, RUN IN FIELD DAY

Valparaiso, Ind., May 20.—[Special.]—The Valparaiso university beauty queen and her court abdicated today because the girls would rather compete in the athletic events than reign over the school's annual field day tomorrow.

Ruth Ungrodt of Milwaukee was chosen by the student body to rule over the event, and Miss Gertrude Oertel of Indianapolis, and Donna Dohlstrom of South Bend, as runners up, became her maids of honor.

But they declined the honor and will compete in the women's 50 yard dash and high jump and will take part in the volley ball game between a girl's dormitory team and members of the university faculty.

Athletes taking part in the event who were to have been decorated with medals by Queen Ruth and her assistants took the decision philosophically. "They'll all look better in track shorts than robes, anyhow," said Johnny Dale, next year's football captain.

Wesleyan Track Team Beats Bradley, 72¼-58¾

Peoria, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Illinois Wesleyan's track team defeated Bradley Tech today, 72¼ to 58¾. Keith Dare of Bradley closed his home career today by taking high point honors. He won the javelin, shot put, and discus, and tied for first in the high jump for 17¼ points.

Continuing their uninterrupted sweep in the Western conference tennis meet, Chicago's Maroons moved into the final round of all six singles brackets in a series of straight set semi-final victories yesterday. Northwestern placed finalists in three of the brackets.

Armstrong Is Back at Work After Layoff

Pompton Lakes, N. J., May 20.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong swung back into action today after two days of rest and went through a spirited workout to prepare for next Thursday's battle with Welterweight Champion Barney Ross in New York.

Armstrong, whose work for the last two days has been limited to six mile jaunts on the road, didn't do any boxing. He remained in the gymnasium and worked four rounds with the light bag and shadow boxing. He appeared refreshed by his layoff and no longer in serious danger of going stale before the bout.

Ready to Resume Boxing.

Henry resumes boxing tomorrow and will have another heavy workout Sunday before he begins to taper off with light exercises and bag punching the next two days.

He has two sparring partners in camp, Frankie Cenovese of Toronto and Tony Fernandez of Porto Rico, who are about Ross' size and build and whose style resembles the champion's. He expects to face both of them in his last two sessions of boxing.

WORRY OVER FOULS.

Grossinger Lake, N. Y., May 20.—(AP)—As Welterweight Champion Barney Ross loafed around his fight camp today his managers announced they would appeal to the New York state athletic commission to issue a warning to Challenger Henry Armstrong against foul punching.

Ross resumes training tomorrow, going four or five rounds with the big gloves. He will continue his daily stunts through Monday, and on Tuesday go to New York for his final workouts. Since inaugurating training here April 20 Ross has worked a total of 55 rounds. He now plans to defend his title at 141 pounds.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

Instead of starting to cast for black bass the middle of June, northern Illinois fishermen may catch bass on June 1 by using their tackle in the southern part of the state, where the season opens fifteen days earlier than in the northern Illinois lake country. The bass season in the northern and central zones opens June 16.

One of the most inviting bass fishing spots in the southern zone is state owned Horseshoe lake, which is just a stone's throw from Olive Branch, Ill., and reached by the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad. Olive Branch is near Cairo. What Horeshoe lake contributes in black bass is shown by last year's record. During the first three days of the 1937 season 2,097 fishermen caught 2,544 bass and 2,070 other kinds of fish in the lake.

Another early season bass fishing trip suggested for Chicago fishermen is to Reelfoot lake, which is partly in Kentucky and partly in Tennessee. Reelfoot will hold a three day fishing "rodeo" June 4, 5, and 6. Sportsmen of Union City, Tenn., conservation department officials, and residents around the lake are working to make this three day rodeo a lot of fun for visitors. Hundreds of prizes will be awarded to bait casters and fly rod fishermen who go after the bass during the three days.

We visited Reelfoot lake early in the spring to check up on fishing conditions, the methods of fishing most commonly followed by guides and natives, and the kind of lures that are used successfully on the lake.

We found that although the lake still is being fished commercially, there are plenty of bass, to say nothing of crappies and bluegills galore. It's an interesting place, too, both historically and scenically. One may fish from the south end of the lake or from the north end. There are camps in both places. If Chicago fishermen want further details about the Reelfoot fishing rodeo on June 4, 5, and 6 or additional information on conditions we suggest that they write Curtis Pritchard at the postoffice at Tiptonville, Tenn. He is one of our Tennessee warden friends.

SPEED TRIALS FOR 500 MILE RACE TO BEGIN TODAY

Indianapolis, Ind., May 20.—(AP)—New track records for one lap and for the full 25 mile qualifying distance were predicted today as a score of drivers tuned their streamlined speedsters in preparation for qualifying trials tomorrow for the Memorial day 500 mile speedway race.

The pole position in the front row of the starting lineup will be at stake. The pilot making the fastest qualifying time tomorrow will get that position. Drivers qualifying on succeeding days must line up behind the first day qualifiers regardless of their speed.

Twenty Drivers Ready.

A count at the garages showed about twenty drivers ready for the first day's qualifying runs. Railbirds figured the fight for the pole position as a three way affair among Bill Cummings of Indianapolis, Kelly Petillo of Los Angeles, Cal., and Rex Mays of Glendale, Cal.

Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Cal., three-time winner of the race, and Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis, last year's winner, are other possibilities for the pole. Art Sparks, builder of the cars to be driven by Jimmy Snyder of Chicago and Ronny Householder of Los Angeles, said neither would shoot for the pole.

Predict 127 M. P. H.

The general prediction at the track was a speed of about 127 miles an hour would be required to win the pole position. Last year Cummings had the inside, front row spot with a speed of 123.455 miles. The track record for the ten lap qualifying run was set by Snyder after the first day at 125.287 miles. Snyder also holds the track record for one lap, 130.492 miles.

The 33 fastest cars in the qualifications will start the race. There was some talk today there might not be a full field for the start, but speedway officials said 35 cars already were on hand.

FEDERAL SAVINGS LOAN ACT IS HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

Attacked as Interfering with State Units.

The constitutionality of section five of the Home Owners Loan act of 1933, which provides for the establishment of federal savings and loan associations, was upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a two to one opinion returned here yesterday.

The attorney general of Wisconsin and the Wisconsin state banking commission had attacked the constitutionality of the act as an unwarranted interference with the operation of state loan associations.

Judge Sparks Dissents.

Judge J. Earl Major wrote the majority opinion which affirmed an injunction issued by the United States district court in Milwaukee restraining Wisconsin state authorities from interfering with operation of the First Federal Savings and Loan association of Milwaukee. Judge Walter E. Treanor concurred and Judge Will M. Sparks wrote a dissenting opinion.

Judge Major and Judge Treanor held that the act is no less constitutional than the Social Security act and similar recent laws covered by the "general welfare clause" of the federal constitution.

Opinion Is Explained.

"To our mind," the majority opinion read, "the preservation of home owners and the promotion of a sound system of home mortgage is none the less national in scope than the provisions for the unemployed and the aged. Its scope, as affecting the welfare of the nation as a whole, is of equal importance. To say that congress has the authority to make provisions for one class but not the other is to make a distinction justified by neither logic nor common sense."

In his dissenting opinion, Judge Sparks agreed with Orlando S. Loomis, attorney general of Wisconsin, that the relief sought to be extended by the federal savings and loan associations is local rather than national.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Flora of Chicagoland (Jack-in-the-Pulpit).

May 20, 1938.

A WILD flower known as the quaint little preacher of the flower world now may be seen in the farm woods and in other wooded areas of Chicagoland. Every country boy and girl and every outdoor lover knows the preacher as the Jack-in-the-pulpit, one of our most distinctive wild flowers.

of a preacher in a pulpit. Jack, the preacher, actually is a spike with tiny yellow flowers at its base. His pulpit is a flaring green hood that on the inside is a deep purple, striped with green. It is thought that the name Jack-in-the-Pulpit originated in New England and possibly was the imagination of some colonial boy or girl who had listened to long sermons delivered from a pulpit.

Likes Moist, Rich Soil.

The Jack-in-the-Pulpit is one spring flower that seldom ventures away from the forest. It likes moist, rich soil.

On the farm we have been finding them thrusting their tall stalks above vegetation in the oak woods where the ungrazed forest floor grows many wild geraniums, Solomon's Seal, and other plants.

The name "memory root" is sometimes given to this plant for a very unusual reason. The bulbous root of the plant sometimes is used by children in playing pranks on their unsuspecting associates. The trick is to tempt some one to taste this bulb, which has such an acrid taste that the taster never forgets it. Thus the name memory root originated and still persists today.

Cooked by Indians.

Indian turnip, another name for the Jack-in-the-Pulpit, is probably due to the fact that the Indians used to dig up the roots of the plant, cook them, and use them for food. When the starchy root is cooked it loses its disagreeable taste and becomes edible, although quite tasteless.

But there are other uses for the plant. In Wisconsin a tribe of Indians believes that if the root of the Jack-in-the-Pulpit is mashed it is helpful as a poultice for infected eyes. The Jack-in-the-Pulpit has been found useful by Indians in this country, and the relatives of the plant in other parts of the world also have been utilized. For example, an English plant related to our Jack-in-the-Pulpit furnished starch for the ruffs of Queen Elizabeth's day. Another relative supplies the "taro," which is the staf of life for South Sea Islanders.

Although this floral pulpiteer of Chicagoland is a jolly looking fellow when you see him in the woods with a sort of sounding board over his head, he really is a wolf in sheep's clothing. Small gnats or flies that see this attractive plant enter and slide down the inside walls or slippery column of the flower. Jack's whole aim is to entice visitors to the pollen of his flowers. But escape is difficult if not impossible for many of the visiting insects.

Open a dozen Jack's pulpits and in several of them you'll find dead flies or gnats that could not get out of the pulpit and eventually died.

PUMP PRIMING COST INCREASED BY 300 MILLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—The senate appropriations subcommittee considering President Roosevelt's spending, lending, pump priming bill, today added approximately $300,000,000 to the total of $3,154,000,000 carried in the house bill. From the $300,000,000 increase, $112,000,000 is to be used for "parity" payments to farmers.

In response to a plea by the private utilities that government competition be stopped, the subcommittee adopted an amendment drastically restricting the power of Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes to make loans and grants for the construction of municipal power plants. The amendment would prohibit the PWA from financing the construction of municipal power plants in cities where existing private utilities are giving satisfactory service.

Cuts Farm Power Fund.

The subcommittee also reduced from $100,000,000 to $25,000,000 the amount of PWA funds earmarked for rural electrification construction by the house bill. Loans and grants for this purpose also would be prohibited in areas where private electrical facilities are adequate.

Philip Gadsden, chairman of the committee on public utility executives, urged the subcommittee to adopt a provision forbidding further government competition with the private power companies. He said the private utilities had long deferred a needed expansion program that would require billions of dollars, because of government policies threatening their future and making it impossible to sell securities.

Besides the $112,000,000 increase for bounties to farmers, the most important addition was $175,000,000 for the Works Progress Administration. The house bill appropriates $1,250,000,000 for the WPA, to be spent in seven months beginning July, and the senate subcommittee projected the expenditures over an eight month period, or until March 1, 1939, by adding $175,000,000. The purpose of this amendment was to give congress more time in the next session to appropriate funds to carry the WPA through the remainder of the fiscal year.

Full Committee Acts Today.

The subcommittee completed action on the pump priming and relief spending bill but its amendments are subject to approval by the full committee tomorrow. The full committee will order the bill reported and it will come up for debate in the senate on Monday.

The subcommittee amendment, offered by Senator Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.], makes a total of $212,000,000 available for parity payments to the farmers, but $100,000,000 of this amount was taken from the $965,000,000 appropriation for the PWA, leaving Ickes only $865,000,000 of new money. Ickes, however, is authorized to use up to $500,000,000 from a revolving fund created by the sale of securities hypothecated for PWA loans.

The $212,000,000 in parity payments to farmers would be in addition to soil conservation subsidies already being made at the rate of $500,000,000 a year. Thus the total in bounties to farmers in this election year would be $712,000,000.

The new farm dictatorship act authorizes parity payments to farmers when and if funds are made available, but only $500,000,000 in soil conservation subsidies has been appropriated. Parity is defined as a price that would give farm products a purchasing power, in terms of nonagricultural commodities, equivalent to their relative purchasing power during the base period, 1909-1914.

Pays on Grain and Cotton.

Russell's amendment would not assure parity, but toward that end it would pay up to 2 cents a pound on cotton, 8 cents a bushel on wheat, and 5 cents a bushel on corn.

The spending and lending bill, as it now stands, will make available about $3,450,000,000, according to members of the subcommittee. Three features of the President's spending program—$50,000,000 for the CCC, $100,000,000 for highways, and $37,000,000 for flood control—have been carried in other appropriation measures. A bill increasing the lending limit of the United States Housing Authority to $300,000,000, is pending in the house banking committee. The law increasing the lending authority of the RFC by $1,500,000,000, brings the total of the pump priming program up to $5,437,000,000.

Members of the subcommittee said the votes on various amendments approved today were close and might be upset by the full committee tomorrow. For this reason, they were reluctant to discuss their action.

Asks 94 More Millions.

President Roosevelt asked congress today for $94,285,404 "to provide for the restoration of the capital impairment of the Commodity Credit corporation."

The corporation needs the money, said John D. Goodloe, its vice president, because of losses on price-bolstering loans to growers of 1934 and 1937 cotton.

Goodloe said the corporation now holds 1,670,000 bales of 1934 grown cotton on which it made loans at 12 cents a pound, and about 5,500,000 bales of 1937 cotton.

In appraising the corporation's holdings on March 31, the treasury department valued this cotton at 8.1 cents a pound, the market price prevailing at that time, Goodloe said. This was lower than the loan rate on the 1934 cotton and much of the 1937 loan cotton.

Edison's Big Refunding of Bonds Voted

Stockholders of the Commonwealth Edison company yesterday approved a proposal of the management to issue $73,000,000 of new securities, largely to refund present obligations. James Simpson, chairman, told the stockholders that issuance and sale of the new securities will result in an annual saving of about $1,300,000 to the company in interest charges.

The new securities which the company proposes to issue include $33,000,000 of new 3½ per cent bonds and an amount of debentures not less than $39,083,195 nor more than $42,303,840, also bearing interest at 3½ per cent. Simpson said the interest rate of 3½ per cent will be the lowest paid by the company in its history on money so borrowed.

Bonds Meet Strong Demand.

Although meeting the requirements of the Securities and Exchange commission, with which the securities were registered on May 12, and getting the formal approval of the Illinois Commerce commission still remain, it was reported in La Salle street that there is a strong demand for the obligations. Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago investment banking house, heads a nation-wide group which will offer the obligations about June 1.

Simpson indicated that when these securities are out of the way there will be further financial operations.

"While the sale of these new securities totaling about $73,000,000 is a large financial operation," he said, "it should be looked upon only as a step in our general plan.

Plan Further Refunding.

"We hope, as soon as conditions justify, to proceed with our program of refunding or retiring certain of the remaining publicly owned securities of subsidiary companies.

"Our ultimate objective is to simplify the consolidated capital structure of Commonwealth Edison company and its subsidiaries and to effect a marked reduction in the ratio of bonds and preferred stocks to the total consolidated capitalization."

"It is of interest to note that since September, 1936," Simpson continued, "subsidiaries of Commonwealth Edison company have retired more than $27,000,000 of funded debt and preferred stock held by the public. Substantially all of the funds for the retirement of securities were supplied by Commonwealth Edison company.

Will Retire Bank Loans.

"No securities were sold to the public on account of these retirements, although $6,300,000 of bank loans now to be retired were used to provide part of the funds.

"After giving effect to the new bonds and debentures, and to the retirement of securities, since September, 1936, our over-all charges will have been reduced about $1,300,000 per annum."

The $33,000,000 of 3½ per cent bonds will be known as series I and will mature in 1968. Of the proceeds $30,000,000 will be used to refund series A and B 5 per cent bonds of the same amount, maturing in 1953 and 1954, respectively, and $3,000,000 will be used to reimburse the company for additions already made.

Sinking Fund for Bonds.

The new bonds will have a sinking fund, commencing in 1943, which will retire $330,000 of the bonds annually, or approximately one-fourth the issue, prior to maturity.

The debentures will mature in twenty years. Proceeds will be used in part to retire $19,429,000 principal amount of Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation 5½ per cent debentures, due in 1948, and $6,300,000 of bank loans. They will be offered through rights to stockholders at par and each $100 will be convertible into four shares of Edison stock. Subscription warants will be issued giving each stockholder the right to subscribe for $5 of debentures for each share of stock held on the record day—probably June 6.

Debenture Subscription Provision.

Subscriptions to the debentures will have to be made in multiples of $100. Stockholders' rights will expire June 24.

The stockholders also approved an amendment to the company's charter providing for cancelation of 102,335 shares of stock, reacquired by the company and now in its treasury. Simpson explained that this is being done because of discontinuance in 1934 of the employés' savings fund and by purchase from subsidiary companies of 102,335 shares of Edison stock.

New York, May 20.—(AP)—William C. Potter, chairman of Guaranty Trust company, tonight denied Guaranty is trying to block dissolution of Chesapeake corporation, a middle holding company in the former Van Sweringen railroad system. He said statements by Robert R. Young, Chesapeake chairman, were "not true," and that Guaranty believes dissolution of Chesapeake was 'desirable."

William C. Potter.

Writing Alleghany bondholders today, Potter said: "Mr. Young's statement in the press to the effect that Guaranty Trust company has consistently blocked the dissolution of Chesapeake corporation and the distribution of its Chesapeake and Ohio stock is not true." He recalled Guaranty's affidavit of April 1, which said "the dissolution of Chesapeake corporation and the distribution of the Chesapeake and Ohio stock, which it owns, to its stockholders has for a long time seemed to the Guaranty to be desirable."

Potter added that yesterday's election of three "independent" directors to the Chesapeake & Ohio railway board was a step approved by Guaranty "as early as April 27" last.

KELLOGG SUED FOR 20 MILLION IN COMPANY DEAL

Marshall, Mich., May 20.—[Special.]—Twenty-one plaintifs, most of whom reside in Chicago, claimed $20,000,000 damages in a suit filed in the Calhoun county Circuit court here today against the Kellogg company of Battle Creek, its president, W. K. Kellogg, and his son, John L. Kellogg of Chicago.

The plaintifs asked the court to set aside the dissolution in 1932 of two Chicago companies, the Warren Teed Seed company and the Seedtown Food Products company, which were headed by John L. Kellogg and in which they were stockholders. They also asked a receiver for these companies and an accounting of their profits of the Kellogg company and the two Kelloggs individually.

They alleged the companies were dissolved by "dummy boards of directors" controlled by John L. Kellogg after he had led the stockholders to believe the companies were failing. When their assets were sold at public auction in May, 1932, Kellogg purchased them for $220,000.

DENY PUBLISHER CAN USE STATE'S SECURITY LIST

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—No private publisher has been authorized to copy listings of securities as filed by the state securities division Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes' office announced today.

Although certain unrevealed Chicago publishers have claimed such authorization, officials of the state division say that issuance of such listings would not only be impractical because of recurring changes through cancellations, but also would be contrary to the spirit of the securities act.

Prospective purchasers of securities are urged to utilize the facilities of the state division for getting data on securities issued. This information may be obtained either at the capitol in Springfield or the division's Chicago office at 10 South La Salle street.

Yellow Cab Co. Earns $12,139 in 1st Quarter

Chicago Yellow Cab Company, Inc., yesterday reported net income of $12,139 for the quarter ended March 31, compared with net loss of $95,802 in the 1937 first quarter. The loss a year ago, however, was figured after deduction of $215,948 for nonrecurring losses and expenses, caused largely by labor difficulties. The company's net profit for all of 1937 was $75,799, or 25 cents a capital share.

Among other firms reporting, Pan American Petroleum and Transport company, subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, had a dip of less than 1 per cent in March quarter profits, and Pitney-Bowes Postage Meter company showed only a slight decline.

Utility Income Stable.

Utility operating companies continued to report fairly stable income, compared with 1937 results. Of five units in the Electric Bond and Share system, higher earnings for April, compared with April, 1937, were shown by the Dallas Power and Light company and the Idaho Power company and lower profits by Arkansas Power and Light company, Louisville Power and Light company, and Carolina Power and Light company. All except Arkansas Power had higher profits for the twelve months ended April 30.

Northern States Power company [Del.], a unit in the Standard Gas and Electric system, had a drop in first quarter earnings, but still showed a gain for the twelve months. A Middle West corporation subsidiary, Southwestern Light and Power company, reported a small decline for the quarter and twelve months.

Earns 18 Cents a Share.

Pan American Petroleum and Transport company reported for the March quarter net income of $866,340, or 18 cents a capital share, compared with net income in the March, 1937, quarter of $869,947 also about 18 cents a share.

Brooklyn-Manhattan's net loss in April was $3,877 against net income of $372,107 a year ago. The system's gross revenues for the month dropped to $4,126,343, from $4,435,089. With gross revenues for the ten months to April 30 falling to $41,411,910, from $43,175,880 in the corresponding 10 months of the preceding year, net income fell to $697,381 from $3,914,251.

Brooklyn and Queens April net loss of $5,752 brought loss for the 10 months ended April 30 to $129,562. It had net incomes of $51,986 in April, 1937, and $523,894 in the ten months to April 30, 1937. Gross revenues for April and ten months were lower.

United Electric Coal companies in the quarter ended April 30 had a profit of less than half that for the corresponding 1937 quarter. Net income was $48,398, or 9 cents a common share, against $109,000, or 35 cents a share, in the 1937 quarter.

PROPOSE TRUST TO SAFEGUARD BROKER FUNDS

SEC to Study Plans for Institution.

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—A trust institution organized under the laws of the state to act as a fiduciary agent in safeguarding the funds and securities of customers and members of the New York Stock exchange was proposed tonight by William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission.

Douglas outlined the proposal at a dinner given by the Association of Stock Exchange Firms in honor of Carle C. Conway and his associates on the committee for the study of the organization and administration of the New York Stock exchange.

Will Study Trust Plan.

The suggestion which Douglas said originated with a group of stock exchange brokers in 1932 is only tentative, and the details have not been explored, but the commission plans to study its possibilities with the stock exchange "to see if practical ways cannot be found for effecting such a measure soon."

Indicating the volume of business expected for such an agent, Douglas declared that "those few brokerage houses alone which reported to the New York Stock exchange by questionnaire as of March 31, 1938, had free credit balances belonging to their customers aggregating $245,000,000."

SEC to Force Reforms.

Before advancing the proposal Douglas informed the exchange members that the Securities and Exchange commission intended to carry out the congressional mandate outlawing pools and manipulated markets. He also had asserted that the problem of eliminating the "insider" was one for "joint solution" by the exchange and the commission.

Although Douglas made no reference to the collapse of the firm of Richard Whitney & Co., his audience was reminded of that case when he said:

"There is the problem of affording the person who buys or sells securities protection against the risk of loss of the securities or cash which he has left with or delivered to his broker.

Puts Customers in Doubt.

"Occasionally a broker has become involved. Still less frequently there have been misappropriations by him of his customers' securities. On these scores the records of exchange members have been exceptionally good. But these occasional cases have raised in the minds of some customers fear and suspicion. We might as well be frank about that."

After explaining that the trust fiduciary proposal originally had been advanced by brokers themselves as a measure of economy, Douglas gave a general outline of the plan:

"The suggestion contemplates the formation of a trust institution under state laws whose function would be confined solely to acting in a fiduciary relationship as agent for both brokers and customers. It would not operate for its own account, nor would it engage in a commercial banking business.

Reduces Brokers' Work.

"The usual functions with respect to purchases and sales of securities would be carried on by brokers just as they are today. But brokers who had the benefit of the services of this institution would be relieved of many of their present functions.

"For instance, the trust company would act as cashier for brokers; receive from and make payments to customers for securities bought or sold; transfer, receive and deliver customers' securities upon instruction of the brokers; and as respects margin transactions, act for brokers not only in relation to their customers but in relation to the banks as well. Clearances could be readily and conveniently handled.

"An institution along these lines would, of course, reduce the number of operations involved in the securities business, and should effect substantial economies for the brokers. But more important should be its service to investors and to the public generally in reducing or eliminating the risks at present involved in the performance by brokers of the quasi-banking and custodial functions—the holding and commingling of the funds and securities of their customers."

JUDGE ASSAILS LIMIT ON AUTO LIABILITY POLICY

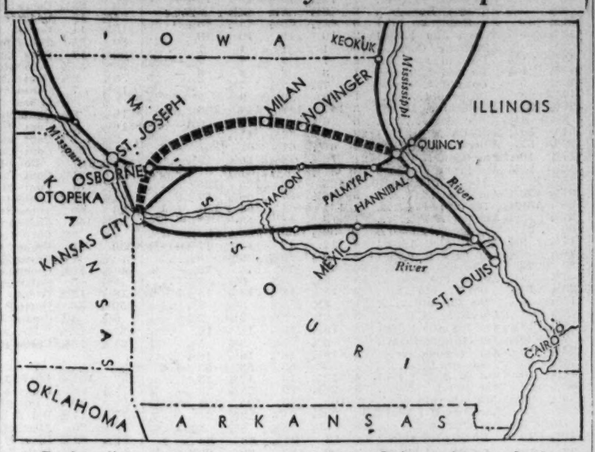
Janesville, Wis., May 20.—[Special.]—Restrictions in automobile liability insurance requiring proof of injury to passengers due to "wanton and wilful" misconduct of the driver defeat the purpose for which policies are issued, Judge Jesse Earle of the Wisconsin Circuit court said today.

"When the statutes of many states now deny recovery to guests except when wilful and wanton misconduct is shown," Judge Earle said, "it means that a guest case would be without a remedy and that an unscrupulous insurance company can deny protection to its assured. The policyholder has a right to expect protection when sued by a guest."

Department Stores' Sales 16 Per Cent Lower in Week

Total sales of 265 department stores in all parts of the country were 16 per cent lower in the week ended May 14 than in the corresponding 1937 period, the federal reserve system reported yesterday. Sales for the four weeks ended on that date were 14 per cent lower than a year ago.

Railroad Ready to Give Up



Broken lines represent the track of the Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City railroad which the railroad wants to abandon because of failure to earn operating expenses. The solid black lines represent principal tracks in the same territory of the Burlington, which owns practically all the stock of the Quincy road. Story in adjoining column.

Equal Rights Will Aid Rails, Says Pettengill

New York, May 20.—(AP)—Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill [D., Ind.] proposed tonight a program of "equal rights" to remedy the "critical" railroad situation.

In an address before the New York Railroad club he said:

"We have got to stop making the railroads the goat. If not, the government will have to feed the goat and when the roads feed off the government deficits will be devastating.

Rep. S. B. Pettengill.

"The railroad disease is complicated and chronic. But the remedy is simple. It can be stated in eight words: 'Equal rights for all; special privileges for none.' Then let the best man win. If under the time tried prescription the rails cannot survive, let them follow the canal boat and the horse car to the museum."

Would Sell Barge Line.

He urged that the government cease competing by selling the Federal Barge Line and that it "stop subsidizing the railroads' competitors at railroad expense."

As another step to help the carriers he recommended adoption of his bill to repeal the long and short haul law, already passed twice by the house and now on the senate calendar, and application of the long and short haul rule "to all transportation agencies or none." [This rule prevents a railroad from charging less for a long haul than for a shorter haul over the same route.]

Suggest Rate Making Body.

"Put all freight, mail, and passenger rate making for all carriers under one body—railroads, trucks, pipeline, coastwise, intercoastal, Great Lakes and rivir shipping, and aviation—and make that body next in dignity, importance, and independence to the Supreme court."

Pettengill asserted that "for five years the administration has done nothing about a thoroughly bad situation except to lend the roads deeper into debt and provide them with more bankruptcy facilities."

Missouri Pacific Head's Pay Increased in 1937

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific railroad, received $59,000 salary and other remuneration from the company in 1937, the annual report to the Securities and Exchange commission disclosed today. His salary was increased from $48,000 to $53,000 annually on June 1. He received $7,000 from the Missouri Pacific Transportation company.

INTERNAL REVENUE TAXES RISE SHARPLY IN LAST TEN MONTHS

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Internal revenue collections for the ten months of the current fiscal year ended April 30 amounted to $4,633,704,868, an increase of $1,089,049,676 over the corresponding period of last year. April receipts were $302,475,820, an increase of $2,085,872 over April, 1937, the treasury reported today.

Income taxes amounted to $2,003,644,558, an increase of $454,875,550 over the corresponding ten months last year. Corporation income taxes for the period were $993,158,132, an increase of $244,094,571, and individual income taxes were $1,010,486,425, a gain of $210,780,979.

Liquor taxes for April totaled $42,034,590, a decrease of $5,087,451 compared with April, 1937, and for the ten months these taxes totaled $469,726,551, a decrease of $21,576,477 compared with the same period last year. RAILROADS DENY BAD FAITH IN WAGE CUT PLAN

Pelley Says Unions Were Informed.

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American railroads, in a statement issued in Washington, D. C., yesterday, denied that the railroad managements had "double crossed" their union employés in connection with the present wage situation, as union officials alleged.

The Railway Labor Executives association, which represents the brotherhoods, announced on Thursday that a nation-wide railway strike would be the "only ultimate result" if the railroads carry through their plan to reduce wages 15 per cent.

Denies Bad Faith Charge.

"In a statement published this morning," Pelley said, "certain spokesmen for railway labor charged the railroads with bad faith in serving notices of a proposed wage reduction at this time. The charge is without the slightest foundation.

"The labor representatives who participated in protracted preliminary conferences on this subject clearly understood, when these negotiations were broken off, that, in the opinion of the railroads, there was no pending proposals that could be taken as an alternative to a wage reduction.

Unions Fully Advised.

"These representatives were fully advised of what the railroads intended to do and there was no possibility of a misunderstanding on the subject."

Pelley said he had no intention of discussing the merits of the proposed reduction in wages, as all such questions must be solved in accordance with the provisions of the railway labor act.

FREIGHT TRAFIC HAS MORE THAN SEASONAL GAIN

A slightly more than seasonal gain in freight trafic during the week ended May 14 was shown by the report of the Association of American Railroads yesterday that there were 5,673 more cars of revenue freight, or 1.1 per cent, loaded by the nation's rail carriers than in the week ended May 7. The decline from figures for the corresponding period of 1937 also was slightly less than in recent weeks.

The total of 541,813 cars of revenue freight loaded last week represented a decrease of 227,747 cars, or 29.6 per cent, from the corresponding week in 1937, and 139,595, or 20½ per cent, from figures for two years ago.

Entirely responsible for the gains were increased shipments of ore and coal. The movement of freight in other classifications, except forest products, was smaller than in the preceding week. Grain shipments alone showed a gain over last year.

	May 14.	—change from— Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Miscellaneous	223,785	−1,220	−99,795

TIMBER CONCERN SEEKS TO CANCEL STOCK SALE PLEA

Resources Corporation International of Chicago, whose exploitation of timber lands in Mexico is under investigation by the federal Securities and Exchange commission, moved yesterday to withdraw its application for permission to sell its stock to the public. A hearing will be opened before an examiner in Washington next Tuesday to determine the reason for the withdrawal and whether the company has been selling stock, according to W. McNeil Kennedy, regional administrator of the SEC here.

The reason for the withdrawal, according to Leonard L. Cowan, general counsel for the corporation, is that newspaper publicity during Chicago hearings conducted by the SEC would serve to discourage prospective buyers. In addition, unsettled conditions in Mexico would make the public wary, though the corporation's holdings in Mexico are in no danger, Cowan said.

RAILROAD CAN'T PROFIT; ASKS TO STOP RUNNING

Quincy Has No Bond Debt; Loses Trafic.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Beset by competition and unable to earn a profit, the Quincy, Omaha and Kansas City railroad, controled by the Burlington, yesterday asked the interstate commerce commission to permit it to go out of business. This is said to be the first time in American railroad history that a standard steam railroad has sought to stop running.

The road, which extends 249 miles across Missouri between Quincy, Ill., and Kansas City, Mo., has no funded debt and all except a few shares of its common stock are owned by the Burlington railroad. Despite this favorable financial position, with no interest charges to be met, the road still could not make a profit.

Financed by Burlington.

Since 1902 the Burlington railroad has poured $3,200,0000 into the road to make up its operating deficits. The Burlington has another $3,000,000 sunk in the road in the price paid for the common stock.

At present the Burlington, along with almost all other railroads, is having difficulty in making both ends meet and has informed the Quincy road that it can no longer provide money to make up operating deficits.

The Burlington explained that because there is no funded debt, there can be no complaint from bond holders that they will be robbed if the road is abandoned.

The Quincy road said in the petition filed with the I. C. C. that its line passes through a sparsely settled territory and that all except one of the nine towns and cities with a population of 1,000 or more on its line are served by other roads.

Trafic Declines Rapidly.

With the development of good roads in its territory, the Quincy said the volume of trafic available for transportation by rail has declined rapidly. In 1921, the first year after the expiration of government control, railway operating revenues totaled $1,306,819. Since then they declined steadily and in 1937 they were only $350,577. For the 17 years, 1921 to 1937 inclusive, the total deficit in net income was $2,193,054.

Every effort has been made, the petition said, to operate the road economically. Its operating expenses were reduced from $1,408,347 in 1921 to $421,326 in 1937. In this connection the Burlington performed various services for the road, including accounting work, which the Quincy did not have to pay for.

The Quincy is a consolidation of four roads: Quincy, Missouri and Pacific, whose history goes back to 1869; the Chicago, Kansas City and Texas, the Omaha, Kansas City and Eastern, and the Kansas City and Northern Connecting railroad. It was once controled by John W. [Bet-a-Million] Gates, Chicago financier.

Tried to Increase Freight.

F. L. Ford, Kansas City, president of the road, said that every effort had been made to increase trafic in the territory, but without success. Both the Quincy and the Burlington have advanced money to promote agriculture in the district.

In the interest of economy gasoline engine cars have replaced regular steam powered passenger trains and the road has been able to get locomotives for freight service from the Burlington as needed. The road has about 140 employés. If the I. C. C. grants the request the track will be removed and the right of way would revert to the public domain or be sold when possible to farmers with land adjoining it.

MAJOR AIR LINES REPORT BIG GAIN IN APRIL TRAFIC

The sixteen major air lines reporting to the Air Transport association reported a 36.1 per cent increase in passenger trafic during April, compared with April, 1937, it was announced yesterday. March business was 17 per cent ahead of last year. This year's April business showed a gain of 9.7 per cent from the preceding month.

The group of domestic companies flew 37,929,046 revenue passenger miles, compared with 27,849,296 in April, 1937, and 34,565,609 in March, 1938. These lires flew 125,760,790 revenue passenger miles in the first four months this year, an increase of 29.3 per cent from the corresponding 1937 period.

Estimates Auto Output About Third of Year Ago

Detroit, Mich., May 20.—(AP)—Ward's Automotive Reports today estimated the current week's output of motor vehicles at 46,810 units, against 47,415 last week and 136,438 this week a year ago. A continued downward trend, with some factories "making plans to work on a materially shortened basis during the next few months," was predicted.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 20.—Stock market prices closed at irregularly lower levels today, although a steady tone prevailed at the close. Opening lower on some rather large offerings the list spent the remainder of the session trying to regain the losses. Most issues recovered partially and some even pushed higher, so that 136 issues closed with advances, 322 were lower, and 142 were unchanged. Final changes were not wide one way or the other.

Trading continued dull, with 439,290 shares changing hands, compared with 490,960 on Thursday.

Aviation issues provided a large share of the meager activity today. Glenn Martin moved in the best volume of the day and rose 1⅛ points. Douglas kept in line with a similar increase. United Aircraft, North American Aviation, Curtiss-Wright, and Boeing closed unchanged to fractions higher.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, and Republic were fractionally higher in the steel group, with other favorites giving up a little ground. Chrysler edged fractionally higher in the motors, but General Motors could not quite regain all of its early loss.

Coppers closed mixed in a narrow range. Anaconda, in active supply, and American Smelting finished with small losses. International Nickel pushed higher.

Chemicals were firm. Air Reduction, Du Pont, and Union Carbide pushed as much as 1⅜ points higher.

Consolidated Edison and Electric Power and Light were features in the public utility section, gaining fractions in fairly active trading. The remainder of the division ruled about steady.

New York Bonds.

New York, May 20.—(AP)—United States government issues stood practically alone in resistance to a downward sweep today in the bond market. Rails continued to backslide, and as their decline gathered momentum in late trading other corporate groups moved lower.

Federal issues matched the gains of Thursday, but there was less response from the low yield corporate group. A few high grade corporate liens finished at fractional losses. With minor exceptions the treasury issues closed 1/32d to 5/32ds higher.

Polish government and municipal loans had a bad spill, but the selling was rather light.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks continued quiet and fractionally irregular yesterday. Sales totaled 10,000 shares. Only 51 issues were traded, of which 9 were higher, 24 lower, and 18 unchanged. The Tribune average of 20 stocks slipped 0.02 to 8.34.

Chicago corporation, the volume leader on sales of 1,500 shares, dipped ⅛ to 1⅞. Middle West and Commonwealth Edison each gained ⅛ to 5⅞ and 26⅛, respectively. Zenith Radio eased ½ to 10½. Marshall Field was unchanged at 7½. Great Lakes Dredge closed ¾ lower at 14. Swift & Co. capital stock advanced ⅛ to 16¾.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were quiet yesterday and moved in a narrow price range. Continental Illinois National shares declined $1.50 to $57.50 bid, $59.50 asked. Quotations on First National varied from $174 a share bid, unchanged from Thursday, to $175 bid. Dealers also disagreed on Northern Trust quotations, listing the shares from $500 to $505 bid and from $515 to $520 asked.

WHEAT RECEDES AGAIN: NEAR LOW MARK OF SEASON

Prices Drop in All North American Markets.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$0.75⅞	$0.76⅛	$1.20⅝
Corn	.59⅛	.59⅛	1.19⅜
Oats	.26¾	.26⅞	.44⅛
Rye	.56⅜	.56⅞	1.06⅜
Soy beans	.91	.91¼	1.72¾

Wheat prices in North American markets were on the downgrade yesterday. All deliveries on the Chicago Board of Trade sold within small fractions of a cent a bushel of the lowest levels of the season, and closed with net losses of ¼ to ⅝ cent.

Lack of support rather than aggressive selling contributed to the recession. Crop reports were generally favorable. Much wheat in parts of Kansas which was blown down by heavy rains and high winds on Wednesday was reported to have straightened.

Drier weather in the southwest played an important part in causing independent weakness in the Kansas City wheat market, where futures declined ¾ to ⅞ cent a bushel.

Crop Reports Optimistic.

Extremely optimistic reports regarding the outlook for the North American wheat crop, including an estimate of 209,000,000 bushels for Kansas, the second largest crop on record, more than offset complaints from southern European countries of dry weather and crop deterioration.

Although there were intimations of a liberal export business having been done in American cash corn, including some for shipment during the first half of July from Chicago, the futures market was inactive. Prices held within a range of ¼ cent a bushel and closed practically the same as on Thursday.

Canada to Peg Wheat Prices.

The Canadian wheat board will continue in existence for at least another year and a minimum price will be set on the 1938 wheat crop of that country, it was officially announced yesterday. The minimum price to be guaranteed farmers for this year's harvest will be established before Aug. 1, the start of the Canadian crop year.

Action of the Canadian government in providing a minimum price for what is expected to be the largest crop of wheat harvested in that country in several years and the American farm act, which permits the AAA to make loans to producers with the 1938 wheat crop as security are expected by the grain trade to provide a sufficient cushion to prevent excessively low prices during the 1938-'39 season.

Howe Sound.

Investors' Guide: What do you think of the outlook for Howe Sound stock? Please send me a report on this company.—R. E. L.

Answer: Howe Sound company is a leading producer of such nonferrous metals as lead, zinc, copper, gold, and silver. Lead accounted for 33 per cent of operating revenues in 1937, zinc 27 per cent, copper 21 per cent, silver 11 per cent, and gold 2 per cent.

Two major subsidiaries of Howe Sound are the Britannia Mining and Smelting company, engaged chiefly in copper mining at properties located on Howe Sound, B. C., Canada, and El Potosi Mining company, which owns 408 acres of silver, zinc, and lead properties in the San Eulalia district of Mexico. Other subsidiaries operate in Mexico and British Columbia, and the parent company directly operates the Chelan copper properties in the state of Washington.

The most profitable of Howe Sound's holdings is understood to be the Potosi properties. Annual capacity of the Potosi mine is 63,000 tons of lead, 50,000 tons of zinc, and more than 4,000,000 ounces of silver.

Because its leading producing properties are outside the United States, Howe Sound must sell its output on world markets where prices have in recent years often been lower than in the domestic market. Lower production costs, however, offset part of the difference.

Reflecting the slump in metal prices, net income for the first quarter of this year fell to $494,873, or $1.04 a capital share, from $1,882,100, or $3.97 a share, in the first quarter of 1937. The record of earnings in recent years follow:

	Gross oper. revenue.	Net income.	*Earned per share
1937	$19,626,750	$4,753,044	$10.03
1936	13,018,689	2,518,984	5.32
1935	11,618,341	2,341,725	4.94
1934	9,591,199	1,691,143	3.57
1933	6,498,309	827,449	1.75
1932	3,044,837	†76,697	†.16

*Before depletion. †Deficit.

The company has 473,791 shares of $5 par capital stock outstanding. The stock pays $3 a year. An extra $3 was paid in 1937. Total assets at the end of 1937 were $21,164,019. Current assets were $.813,303, compared with current liabilities of $1,286,255.

Although earnings in 1937 exceeded the 1929 record, the stock must be regarded as more of a speculation than an investment until the world industrial outlook becomes more favorable.
